Bill Vare, who was recently kicked off the doorstep of the Senate, pledges his bunch of hand-picked Pennsylvania delegates to Hoover. We can generally take care of our enemies if Heaven will save us from our friends.

* * * *

As for the balance of the free-born Pennsylvanians they will vote according to the dictates of Andy Mellon's conscience and will probably know who their candidate is shortly after the rest of us find out.

* * * *

One gathers from the President's remarks that the Seventieth Congress is the most penny-pinching and spigot-saving body that every blew in $4,028,045,035 at one fell swoop.

* * * *

The correspondents on the Kansas City front who are explaining the Republican political situation in their able communiques should be hurried to Peking as soon as the convention adjourns—maybe they could understand the Chinese war.

* * * *

The prospect of a Treasury deficit of $94,000,000 next year calls for another term of Coolidgeconomy.

* * * *

Mr. Hoover gets a nice cake of maple sugar—up in Vermont nobody has to look in a dictionary to find out what "I do not choose" means.

* * * *

Four years ago, in the midst of the turmoil of a political battle, the President lost a beloved son, and now the vacation to which he had been looking forward is temporarily postponed because of the illness of Mrs. Coolidge, whose popularity has contributed so much to the success of his Administration. The whole country will anxiously pray that her indisposition will be brief.

* * * *

Mr. William M. Butler is in doubt as to just how he will vote the first time, but what perplexes us is how he is going to vote the second and third times.

* * * *

Boys from the West are leading their classes at Annapolis. In the old days the lads from the seaport towns manned our fleets, but nowadays the landlubber is the raw material of which we manufacture our admirals.

* * * *

The impression is becoming pretty deeply embedded in our mind that the rescue of Nobile and his comrades couldn't have been bungled any worse if it had been in charge of the anti-Hoover allies.

* * * *

The fact that the renomination of Gen. Dawes as Vice President is being seriously considered at Kansas City at once explodes as a fallacy the argument that he is not regarded favorably by the Administration. "It is a maxim," says Swift, "that those to whom everybody allows the second place have an undoubted title to the first."

* * * *

The wet-drinking, dry-voting South will note with interest that a delegation of negroes waits upon Senator Smooth and demands that if the Republican platform declares for the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment it must also declare for the enforcement of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth. The platform doubtless will dodge this issue this time, but if the Democratic party is shattered by the defeat of Al Smith by Southern votes how long will it be before the Republican party will accept that principle of constitutional enforcement? Watch your step, Dixie!

* * * *

Down into the Nineties the G. O. P. did stand for negro suffrage in the South by force — hence the "Force Bill," the Volsteadism of that day—and nothing saved the South then but the power of the filibuster, the last refuge of desperate minorities. People who live in glass houses should pull down the shades.

Speaking of steam rollers, the one Charlie Hilles runs over the Hoover folks on the New York delegation would be regarded as a nifty little car even by Frank H. Hitchcock.

"Sleep on, ye pale civilians;
All thunder-clouds defy;
On Europe's countless millions
The Sentry keeps his eye."

Rigid restriction of immigration fits into the labor planks of the Republican platform, but we fear this won't prevent the usual appeal by both parties to the hyphenated vote.

MRS. COOLIDGE, ILL, HALTS PRESIDENT'S START ON VACATION

Bulletin of Physicians Delays Wisconsin Trip on Eve of Leaving.

FATIGUE OF JOURNEY ASSIGNED AS REASON

Change of Plans Announced Two Hours Before Time Fixed for Departure.

Elaborate arrangements for the departure of President and Mrs. Coolidge for their summer home in Wisconsin were hastily canceled last night, owing to the illness of Mrs. Coolidge Although it was explained at the White House that there had been no serious turn in her condition, a bulletin was issued attributing the postponement to the fatiguing character of the journey.

Announcement of the change in plans came a scant two hours before the presidential train, with an extensive retinue of clerks and personal attendants, was scheduled to leave Union Station. In the bulletin issued by Col. James F Coupal and Lieut. Comdr Joel T. Boone White House physicians, it was stated that a two nights' railroad trip, with unfavorable temperature and weather conditions, would be subjecting Mrs Coolidge to unnecessary hardships.

"Owing to the illness of Mrs Coolidge," the statement read, "it has been decided to postpone temporarily the departure of the presidential party for Wisconsin. Mrs Coolidge's illness is not regarded by her physicians as serious but it is felt by them that the postponement of so fatiguing a trip is advisable."

Cold Incurred in February.

Earlier in the day it had been announced that the First Lady would be able to make the railroad journey without endangering her health, and it was even indicated that the change in surroundings would greatly benefit her condition. The decision to delay the departure was reached on the President's return to the White House, after addressing the semiannual meeting of

1 TO 10 YEARS TERM FOR HAMMER SLAYER

Clark, Who Killed Chaplin's Former Butler, Guilty of Manslaughter.

Manti, Utah, June 11 (A.P.).—Sheldon Reid Clark, 23, confessed hammer slayer of Don Solovich, former butler in the Hollywood home of Charles Chaplin, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter by a jury here tonight Under terms of the conviction Clark must serve an indeterminate term of from one to ten years in the Utah State Prison. Sentence will be imposed June 15. The jury deliberated 3 hours and 24 minutes.

Family of Four Killed; Home Then Is Burned

Marquette, Wis., June 11 (A.P.).—The bodies of August Pahl, his wife and two daughters, Eleanor, 9, and Betty May, 5 weeks, were found in a room of their burning home here today All had been shot to death. A pistol was found near Pahl's body, indicating police said that he had slain his family and then committed suicide.

Sheriff McGee, of Green Lake County said that windows and doors of the home had been barred and that kerosene had been poured over the bodies of Mrs. Pahl and the children before the bedroom was set on fire.

Plane of Duchess Hops Off at Sofia

London, June 11 (A.P.).—The airplane Princess Xenia, which is bearing the 62-year-old Duchess of Bedford and Capt. C. D. Barnard on a flight to India, hopped off from Sofia today for the second stop on the journey at Aleppo in northern Syria. The machine passed over Constantinople late today.

The fact that the fliers narrowly escaped a crash at the start here in a high wind and that they had long been unreported caused some fear for their safety before word came of their Sofia landing.

George White, of Ohio, Senatorial Candidate

Columbus, Ohio, June 11 (A.P.).—George White, of Marietta, former representative, and chairman of the Democratic national committee in 1920, today filed his declaration of candidacy with the Secretary of State for the Democratic senatorial nomination for the long term.

Herman R. Witter, of Canton, director of the department of industrial relations, filed his declaration for the gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Representative Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland, filed his declaration for the senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket for the term ending March 4, 1933.

WASHINGTON TO HONOR CARRANZA ON ARRIVAL

Mexican Flier, Expected Here Today, Reported Passing Over Atlanta.

LINDBERGH AIDED FLIGHT

Atlanta, Ga., June 11 (A.P.).—Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexican aviator attempting a nonstop flight from Mexico City to Washington, passed over Candler Field here tonight at 11:20 o'clock. The plane was flying high and was barely discernible in the rays of the searchlight at the field that shot skyward as a guide to the Mexican flyer.

Montgomery, Ala., June 11 (A.P.).—A plane believed to have been piloted by Capt. Emilio Carranza, making a nonstop flight from Mexico City to Washington, passed through a searchlight at Maxwell Field here tonight at 9:59 p. m., heading northeast.

Galveston, Tex., June 11 (A.P.).—Capt. Emilio Carranza, on his attempted nonstop flight from Mexico City to Washington, passed over Galveston at 1:20 p. m.

Mexico City, June 11 (A.P.).—Capt Emilio Carranza, known as Mexican's Lindbergh, hopped off from the Valbuena Flying Field for Washington at 8:10 a. m today to return Col. Lindbergh's good will flight of several months ago.

The plane, called the "Mexico-Excelsior," was built in San Diego by the builders of the famous "Spirit of St. Louis" and was flown by Carranza from San Diego to Mexico City on May 25.

Carranza wanted to hop off within a day or two for Washington, but it was necessary to postpone the hopo until a special runway could be built, since Mexico City's high altitude made an immediate takeoff with the necessary heavy gasoline supply inadvisable

Unchanged Tax Rate For Fiscal Year Seen

An unchanged tax rate for the coming fiscal year of $1.70 on every $100 of assessed valuation is indicated. The rate is expected to be fixed by the Commissioners some time this week.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, has concluded his work of estimating revenues to meet the budget He used for a basis of his study a total assessed property value in the District of $1,137,193,162, about $13,000,000 higher than last year. Applied to this sum a $1.70 tax rate would produce $19,332,283 in current tax revenue which is deemed sufficient when added to other income items to meet the 1929 budget.

MORE GOOD TIMES SEEN BY COOLIDGE IN BUDGET SPEECH

Economy Again Stressed in Order to Avoid Deficit in 1929.

G. O. P. CONVENTION IS NOT MENTIONED

Improvements in Nation are Reviewed During Rule by Republicans.

(Associated Press.)

Prosperity and economy, the slogans of the Coolidge administration, were broadcast last night in a speech by the President, delivered on the eve of his party's national convention.

There was no mention of the Kansas City gathering which will select a presidential nominee or to the President's own views as to his own future.

He spoke freely, however, of the improvement he saw in the Nation's condition since 1921, when the Republican party came into power.

Mr. Coolidge appeared before the members of the Government's business organization at the regular budget meeting in Memorial Continental Hall and his speech was sent over a network of radio stations. In reviewing the state of affairs he said it had been his endeavor "so to manage the national finances as to secure the greatest benefit to the people."

"I have rejoiced in keeping down the annual budget," he said, "in reducing taxes and paying off the national debt, because the influence of such action is felt in every home in the land.

The President mentioned his own administration near the end of his address in referring to efforts made by the Government on behalf of war veterans.

The President expressed the belief that the floodtide of business prosperity had not yet been reached

VERMONT DELEGATES SOLIDLY FOR HOOVER

Will Vote for Secretary and Second His Nomination, Decision on Train.

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Delegates from Vermont, native State of President Coolidge, agreed today to vote solidly for Herbert Hoover and to have one of their number second his nomination.

W. R Austin, of Burlington, was selected to make the speech seconding the nomination of Mr. Hoover. The decision was reached at a conference including Earl Kinsley, national committeeman for Vermont; Mr. Austin, Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, a Hoover lieutenant, and James Good, manager of the Hoover forces.

"Vermont always has taken President Coolidge at his word," said Mr. Kinsley "We, of all, can not be the ones to insult him by voting for him in the face of his statements. Of course, we are for Coolidge if he is a candidate We know he isn't."

The Vermont delegates, numbering 11, had not reached Kansas City late today Word of their action came in a telegram from a delegate to James W Good, Hoover manager.

Kellogg Asks Church Aid In World Powers' Effort Toward Outlawing Wars

Speaking at Dutch Reformed Tercentenary Celebration Secretary Asserts People's Desire for Peace Will Eventually Triumph; President Sends Message of Felicitation to Denomination in N. Y.

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The churches of America were urged to support the powers in their present effort to achieve a "simple and straightforward" declaration against war by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, in an address tonight commemorating the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Dutch Reformed Church in Manhattan.

He summarized the steps taken toward outlawing war since the idea first originated more than a year ago in suggestions made by Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France.

"Since this discussion commenced between France and the United States," said Secretary Kellogg, "The idea has appealed with increasing force to the public opinion of the world."

He acknowledged the existence of "cynical individuals" who "believe in was as an institution" and see no value in the present negotiations. The world's desire for peace, he declared, would triumph in the end.

Mr. Kellogg emphasized the fact that in the exchange of messages between Washington and other capitals stress had not been placed so much on "the narrow technical considerations of a legalistic nature, but on the broad principles underlying the entire idea."

He referred repeatedly to the treaty's simplicity, "it has no hidden meaning," he said, "and it is easily understood."

"I am persuaded," he went on, "that the time has come when a frank renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy should be made, to the end that the peaceful and friendly relations existing between the peoples of the world may be perpetuated. I am convinced, moreover, that all changes in these relations should be sought only by pacific means and be the result of a peaceful and orderly process; and any nation which shall hereafter seek to promote its national interests by resort to war should be denied the benefits and guarantees furnished by the proposed treaty.

"This is the object of the negotiations in which fifteen world powers

COOLIDGE IS REPORTED ELIMINATED; FRIENDS SAY HE WOULD NOT ACCEPT; DRY LAW IGNORED IN DRAFT PLANK

Enforcement Clause Is Attacked by Both Sides' Leaders.

FIGHT ON THE FLOOR SEEN AS POSSIBILITY

Manufacturers' Platform Will Be Fought by Union Labor Representatives.

By ARTHUR W. CRAWFORD.
Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—Controversy over the prohibition issue flared up anew today when it became known that no specific mention of the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act is contained in the tentative draft of the Republican platform.

Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, chairman of the resolutions committee, has incorporated in the preliminary draft a law-enforcement plank which declares for observance of the Constitution and all laws in much the same fashion as did the 1924 platform.

Both drys and wets promptly went on the warpath when they learned of the Smoot compromise. Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, who will be a member of the resolutions committee, insisted that the committee must either approve a plank declaring for enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act or the fight will be carried to the floor of the convention. Spokesmen for the various committees representing dry organizations took the same attitude.

Plank Opposed as Too Arid.

Representatives of wet organizations and individual Republicans, including former Senator Wadsworth, of New York, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of New York, insisted that even the Smoot compromise was too arid to suit them and that a loophole should be left which would afford encouragement to those who are seeking a modification of prohibition laws.

To add to Senator Smoot's embarrassment a delegation of negroes from Louisiana and other Southern States waited upon him with a demand that if the platform declares for the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment a plank also should be added for enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments relating to negro suffrage. The Utah senator failed to give them much encouragement that this would be done.

The various proposals to be submitted to the resolutions committee by wet organizations will include one for a national referendum on the question of the modification of the eighteenth amendment to permit each State to regulate the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes. The proposal is sponsored by the National Constitutional Liberty League of America, of which Louis A. Cuvillier, of New York city, is chairman and general counsel.

Second Referendum Asked.

A petition to be presented by Mr. Cuvillier asks that the platform framers include a plank for a referendum on the question by action by Congress proposing a new constitutional amendment changing the eighteenth amendment "so that the Congress of the United States shall regulate, control or prohibit the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes within, the transportation thereof into or the exportation thereof from the United States and all the territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, except the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes within, or the transportation thereof into a State, the people of which shall have determined by a referendum vote that in such State the regulation, control or prohibition of the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be a matter of State concern."

A clash between capital and labor will furnish one of the controversies of the sessions of the resolutions committee.

Announcement was made today that a committee headed by John E. Edgerton, of Lebanon, Pa., president of the National Association of Manufacturers will present a "platform of American industry" which was framed in a conference of more than 100 leaders of industry from all sections of the country

For Open Shop Principle.

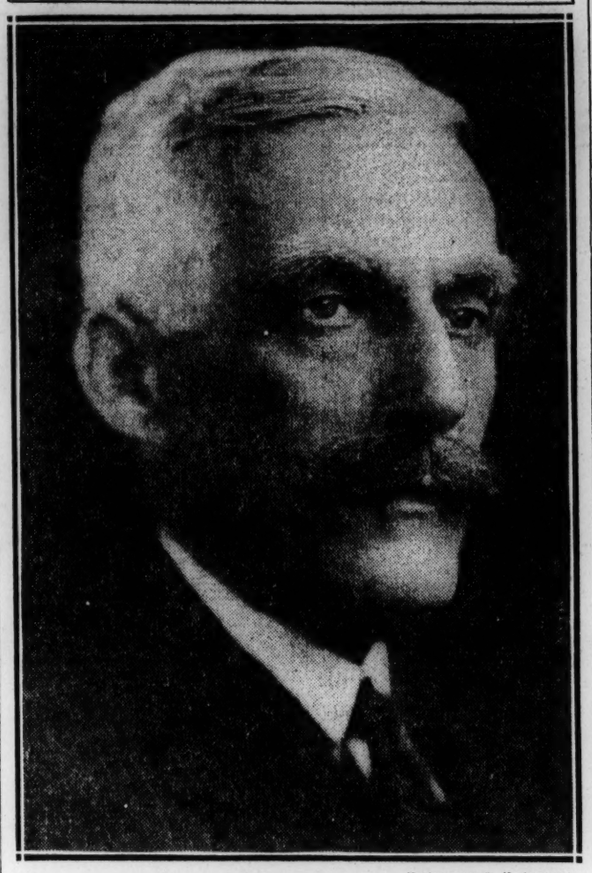

Included in the declarations is one for the maintenance of the open shop principle which will call forth strong protests from the committee of the American Federation of Labor, which is to appear on behalf of organized labor.

The open shop plan in the platform of American industry is as follows:

"To select and pursue any lawful business or occupation, to make legitimate agreements in furtherance thereof, and to be secure in their regard of effort, is a fundamental right of liberty and property. All citizens must be equally free to make and maintain voluntary employment agreements, individually or collectively, as they may mutually agree and in ac-

W. M. BUTLER IN DOUBT ABOUT OWN FIRST VOTE

Expects No More Word From President Before Balloting Starts, He Says.

STATE DECISION TODAY

Kansas City, Mo., June 11 (A.P.).—Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican national committee, intimate friend of President Coolidge, declared tonight he had received no further word from the President on his position that he did not choose to run this year and expcted no word before balloting commenced. How he would cast his first vote, Mr. Butler said he did not know.

The Massachusetts delegation, of which Mr. Butler is a member will caucus tomorrow morning, at which time it will decide who will receive its first vote.

The declaration of Mr. Butler tonight, however, was regarded as significant in view of the "draft Coolidge" talk. It came by coincidence soon after the Vermont delegation, the native State of the President had decided to vote for Hoover and to second his nomination.

"I haven't time to consider my vote in the convention," Mr. Butler said after a busy day completing arrangements at national headquarters for opening of the conclave tomorrow.

Massachusetts gave Herbert Hoover its preference vote in the primary after President Coolidge had asked that his name not be used in that primary. However, this vote was not binding on the delegation and Mr. Butler has been regarded as very doubtful as between Coolidge and Hoover.

During the day Everett Sanders, secretary to the President, called at national headquarters, conferring with Mr. Butler, but there was no intimation from Sanders that he brought any message from Mr. Coolidge.

Likewise, there was no indication that Sanders expected to make public any statement for the President. He insisted he came to Kansas City only

VARE, BACKING HOOVER, SAYS COOLIDGE IS OUT

CONTROLS MANY VOTES

Kansas City, Mo., June 11 (A.P.).—An emphatic declaration in favor of the candidacy of Herbert Hoover was made tonight by Senator-elect William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, who controls a large block of delegates from his State

Declaring that he was convinced of the sincerity of President Coolidge's statement that he was out of the race, the boss of the Philadelphia Republican organization said he would use his influence at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation tomorrow to have Secretary Hoover's candidacy indorsed.

Vare's statement was issued less than half an hour before Secretary Mellon, regarded as holding the key to the whole presidential nomination situation, conferred with correspondents after he had made a canvass of the situation here with Senator Curtis, of Kansas, one of the presidential candidates; Representative Hull, of Illinois, a supporter of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, and other party leaders.

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania, in my judgment, are for Herbert Hoover for President," Vare said. "I said in Philadelphia last month at the meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation that he would be the strongest candidate the Republican party could nominate. I now emphatically repeat that statement.

"I am convinced of the sincerity of the several statements by President Coolidge taking himself out of the race, and I shall therefore use my influence at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation tomorrow morning to have Secretary of Commerce Hoover's candidacy indorsed."

Lenroot Stops Boom To Put Him on Ticket

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Anti-LaFollette members of the Wisconsin delegation who today proposed former Senator Lenroot as a vice presidential possibility were told by Lenroot that he had quit the political arena. Nine members of the delegation were ready to support Lenroot, who is an ardent Hoover leader, but he declined to permit use of his name.

Way Apparently Cleared for the Selection of Hoover, Is View.

NOTICE BY MELLON TODAY IS FORESEEN

Treasury Head and Vare Clash Over Control of Keystone State Delegation.

By RALPH W. WHEATLEY
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—President Coolidge has been eliminated from the considerations of Republican leaders here as a possible nominee for the Presidency, apparently clearing the way for the nomination of Herbert Hoover.

Word has reached Kansas City that in the opinion of his closest friends, Mr. Coolidge would not again consent to run, even if the convention opening tomorrow should stampede for him.

There was every indication late tonight that Secretary Mellon was fully convinced that this view is correct, and that the Pennsylvania caucus to be held tomorrow morning would vote to throw its strength behind Hoover.

Hoover Vote of 600 Now Seen.

Barring upsets between now and the beginning of the balloting on Thursday, the 79 Pennsylvania votes would bring Hoover's total above 600. The number needed to nominate is 545.

In addition, the Hoover and anti-Hoover leaders agree that an announcement by Mr. Mellon for Hoover just on the eve of the convention, would have an important psychological effect on other delegations which have been nursing the Coolidge boom.

Such an anouncement, it was indicated tonight, will be considered when the Pennsylvanians caucus tomorrow.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—With Pennsylvania holding the balance of power in the convention, developments tonight left in doubt whether the Republican candidate for President will be named by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon or by Boss William S. Vare of Philadelphia.

Mr. Mellon reached Kansas City this afternoon prepared to enact the role of dictator of the destinies of his party, if not of his country. He announced that he would receive the press at 8 o'clock tonight and then went into conference with numerous leaders, for the purpose of making up his mind whether it is feasible to prevent the nomination of Hoover and renominate President Coolidge.

In the meantime Vare was cooking up trouble for Mr. Mellon.

He Will Ask Backing for Hoover.

After a conference with his followers, Mr. Vare made it known that when the Pennsylvania delegation meets in caucus tomorrow morning he will move the indorsement of Hoover and support the motion with 15 delegates from Philadelphia. Mr. Vare also asserted that whatever Mr. Mellon and the majority of the delegation may do he and his friends will vote for Hoover on the first ballot.

The development created great commotion among Mr. Mellon and his satellites. It was as clear as a pikestaff that Vare was challenging the ascendancy of Mellon in the Pennsylvania organization, and threatening to wrest from him the leadership and carry the delegation over the breastworks for Hoover. At 8 o'clock Mr. Mellon was not ready to receive the correspondents, more than 100 of whom crowded into the corridor before his hotel suite.

It was not till 45 minutes later that Mr. Mellon communicated his state of mind to the press.

Statement by Vare.

During the wait Vare got out an official statement defining his position.

"The Republicans of Pennsylvania, in my judgment, are for Herbert Hoover for President," said Vare.

"I said in Philadelphia last month at the meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation that he would be the strongest candidate the Republican party could nominate. I now emphatically repeat that statement.

"I am convinced of the sincerity of the several statements by President Coolidge taking himself out of the race, and I shall therefore use my influence at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation tomorrow morning to have Secretary of Commerce Hoover's candidacy indorsed."

This statement was borne into the sanctum of Mr. Mellon and there considered for half an hour longer. At last Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, appeared in the corridor and, mounting a chair, said that Mr. Mellon had requested hi mto make a statement to the press. He then read the following on behalf of Mr. Mellon:

"In view of the fact that the Pennsylvania delegation will meet in conference tomorrow, I do not feel justified in making any statement at this time. After consultation with my colleagues our position will be made clear."

The action of Vare created a sensation among the leaders. It was recog-

105 ADDITIONAL MEN REQUESTED IN HESSE ESTIMATE FOR 1930

$3,337,001 Asked by Police Chief Includes Teletype Installation.

One hundred and five additional patrolmen and a new teletype system are the chief new items asked for by the police department in the estimates for the 1930 District budget, submitted yesterday to Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police.

Maj. Hesse asks for appropriations amounting to $3,337,001.02, as compared with $3,141,545 appropriated by Congress for the metropolitan police force for the fiscal year to begin July 1. Of this total the sum of $52,000 is requested to buy land and erect a garage for the new Fifteenth Precinct station, $8,000 for a garage for the Fourteenth Precinct, on land already acquired and $2,500 for installation by the telephone company of the proposed teletype system.

The new teletype system is for the mechanical recording of telephone messages to the police stations, to promote accuracy and remove part of the heavy traffic over the police telephone switchboard.

Jesse Explains Needs.

Concerning the request for 105 additional patrolmen, Maj. Hesse said, in a note appended to his estimates:

"The metropolitan police force consists of 1,385 men. Allowing for time off, officers and special details, a patrol force of only 539 was left last year which, divided into three shifts left an average of but 179 men on the street at any one time.

"The traffic act of 1925 contained a provision for an addition of 100 men. These men have never been provided for and as a result it has been necessary to withdraw men from patrol service to take care of traffic situations in the District, which are increasing daily, and the placing of men at street intersections at the peak of travel mornings and afternoons and at other times during the day when there is necessity therefor.

"In addition to traffic demands, every school building in the District of Columbia, where it is possible is provided with an officer to safeguard the lives of children at the taking in and letting out hours and during recess periods, which has further resulted in depletion of the ranks of men assigned to patrol duty.

Increase Is Urged.

"The population of suburban precincts is rapidly increasing, which requires additional police attention and it is the opinion of this department that the police force should be increased by at least 105 men, 55 to put into operation the new Fifteenth Precinct police station, which has been provided for by law, and 50 additional men to meet the demands made upon the department by the ever increasing population.

"The additional amount requested is to provide for promotions in the various classes as required by existing law."

The Board of Public Welfare asks for $5,210,000 for 1930, as compared with appropriations of $4,321,759 for 1929. Of this total $225,000 is proposed to be spent for extension of the Tuberculosis Hospital, $325,000 for a nurses' home at Gallinger Hospital, and $200,000 for buildings at the District Training School.

The Fire Department seeks 1930 appropriations of $2,343,730, as compared with $2,130,015 for 1929. Improvements proposed include a new fire engine company in the vicinity of Connecticut and Nebraska avenues northwest, at $63,750, and a new truck company in the vicinity of Twelfth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast at $83,500.

2 MORE TAKE LIVES FOLLOWING SUICIDE AT NAVAL HOSPITAL

Retired Army Captain Leaps to Death From Sixth Floor of Hotel.

A former Army captain, a patient, and a boatswain's mate of the Navy, a discharged patient from Naval Hospital, committed suicide yesterday within 24 hours after receiving the news of the self-destruction of another patient. Despondency is indicated as the cause of the suicides.

Capt. Alonzo B. Yates, 42 years old, retired, a former officer of the Mississippi National Guard, leaped to his death from a sixth-story window of the Atlas Hotel, 601 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Yates left letters addressed to a brother in Utica, Miss. His home was in Columbia, Miss. He was in service during the World War and was discharged because of physical disability.

He had been under treatment at Naval Hospital for a nervous disorder, according to a hospital report. He recently was a patient at Mount Alto Hospital.

Registering at the hotel shortly after 1 o'clock, Yates is said to have told the manager he desired a room on the sixth floor, saying he was an asthma sufferer. Shortly afterward his body was heard to strike the pavement. He left notes to the hotel manager and to the Naval Hospital commander.

Home in Concord, N. C.

McCall, whose home is in Concord, N. C., registered at the Lee House June 7. He had been under observation at the hospital after being away from his ship for about twelve days.

Sunday night he told hotel authorities he intended to leave in the morning and paid his bill to date. The bullet which ended his life lodged in McCall's side.

In a letter to his commanding officer McCall said he had been having trouble with his wife, a resident of Brest, France. He also mentioned his illness and declared he was tired of living and intended to "end it all."

McCall's body was found by Ethel Baker. The sound of the shot was unheard by other occupants of the building.

BOY IN CRITICAL STATE WITH BB SHOT IN BRAIN

Air Rifle Accidentally Discharged, Sends Tiny Slug Into His Head.

BROTHER UNDER ARREST

With an air-rifle slug at the base of his brain, Theodore Curtis, 10 years old, of 1634 Trinidad avenue northeast, is in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital as a result of the accidental discharge of the rifle with which he was playing in his home yesterday afternoon.

His brother, Russell Curtis, 21 years old, was the only other occupant of the house at the time of the shooting, he told police. He was in an upstairs room when he heard his brother's body fall on the stairs, and ran down to find him unconscious, the air rifle nearby. He was held for investigation.

Neighbors were called and a Casualty Hospital ambulance took the boy to the hospital. He was attended by Dr. J. Lawrence Murphy.

The boy's parents are both dead and he lived with a sister, Mrs. Ruby C. Murray. Mrs. Murray, arriving at her home before the ambulance reached the scene, was prostrated at the sight of her brother's body on the kitchen floor. Efforts had been made to revive him.

Describing the affair, the elder brother told police that a few minutes prior to the shooting he had been at play with his young brother in the parlor of their home. He went upstairs, leaving Theodore on the first floor with the rifle in his hand, Russell Curtis said.

The boy evidently had started upstairs to his older brother when the weapon was discharged, sending a BB shot into his head, according to the story told police. The boy had not regained consciousness after an hour at the hospital.

CIRCUS OF RANCH 101 EXCITES AND AMUSES

Daring Rough Riding Done While Cowboy Clown Delights Children.

MORE THRILLS BY INDIANS

With the Washington rain jinx still pursuing the 101 Ranch Wild West Show opened in Washington yesterday with a street parade, cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, Cossacks, elephants, buffalo plodded through a pouring rain, true to the traditions of the profession, the show must go on regardless of the performers. Last year the 101 Ranch was greeted with rain and a storm the first day of its arrival. The Ranch is the last big circus troupe to parade. Others have been driven from the streets by the modern traffic problems of the big cities.

The jinx was still on the job at the opening of the matinee performance. The difficult feats of horsemanship and daring were made more dangerous by a slippery field and a light drizzle that made the saddles and foot pads slippery. The wild West show and rodeo is being held at the Camp Meigs site and will continue through today, with performances at 2 and 8 o'clock.

Capt. Richard V. Swift and his Swift Zouaves presented military drills and wall scaling. The children of the audience appreciated the antics of "Shorty" George Mitchell, diminutive cowboy clown, who mimiced the drills of the Zouaves, probably even more than the drill.

Another favorite of the children was Billy Lorette, the cop, who has been coming to Washington for more than 30 years with circuses. His side partner, Grady Smith, and his funny antics on a diminutive white mule, aided by the wisecracks of the cop, called forth many shouts of approval from the juvenile audience.

Roping stunts and rough riding by Claire Belcher, Grace Runyon, Verne Goodrich, Jack Wright and Ken Williams, topped with the roping of five men and their horses by Mexican Joe, furnished one of the thrilling highlights. Black Horn, Return From Scout, Tall Bow, Walk Under Ground and Kills Crow Indian and their fellow Indians furnished more thrills. Another picturesque figure of the show is Tex Cooper, the announcer. Accompanying the show this year is "Little Joe" Miller and his bride, won after four years of ardent courtship on the campus at the University of Oklahoma.

CATHOLICS TO PROFIT BY M'AULIFFE WILL

Trust Fund Eventually Will Go to Schools; Charities Get Cash.

A trust fund, the amount of which can not now be estimated, is established in the will of Mrs. Rose M. McAuliffe for the benefit of either the parochial school of St. Peter's Parish, of this city, or for the establishment of a Catholic high school. The will, which was filed yesterday in Probate Court, names the Right Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, as the ultimate beneficiary. At the death of Mrs Margaret Braschi, mother, and Miss Anne Braschi and Elizabeth Mannix, sisters of Mrs. McAuliffe, the archbishop is to receive the fund. Mrs McAuliffe was the widow of the late Florence D McAuliffe, a builder. She died May 28. The estate is valued at $188,192.

Mrs. Braschi and her two daughters are given $10,000. Elizabeth Lyons, cousin of McAuliffe, also is given $10,000. The sum of $1,000 each is given to the Catholic Daughters Community House, 601 E street northwest; to the cousins, Maurice and Kathleen Stead. Mary Halslup and Grace Brinkley, and to an aunt, Nellie Kuhn. St. Peter's Parochial School is given $3,000. The sum of $500 each is given to William Boswell, Anne M. Gunn, St. Ann's Infant Asylum, St. Joseph's Male Orphan Asylum, St. Rose's Technical School and the Little Sisters of the Poor. The balance of the estate is devised in trust to Maurice J. McAuliffe and G. Percy McGlue, executors, and the income from one-third is to go to Mrs. Braschi and the other two-thirds to the sisters of the deceased.

Probation Officer Arrested in Crash

A. A. Steele, probation oficer of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, was arraigned on a charge of reckless driving in Police Court last night and the owner of the vehicle alleged to have been struck by the Steele car was arrested on a charge of assaulting the court officer during an altercation which followed.

Michael Aelkan, of Baltimore, Md., and Steele were airing the dispute in the office of Assistant Corporation Counsel Richmond Keech, when the latter decided that it was a Police Court case and ordered the charge placed against Steele. The latter pleaded not guilty and was granted a continuance. The accident which caused the trouble occurred on Columbia road between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets northwest, Sunday afternoon. It was testified that Aelkan's car was parked at the time of the collision.

School Costs Double Those 15 Years Ago

Maintenance of a pupil in a public school today costs two and a half times more than it did fifteen years ago, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Education of the Department of Labor, made public yesterday. In 1913 the survey showed that $38.31 was the cost of maintaining each pupil during a year.

In 1916 the figure grew to $49.12 and in 1920 was $64.16. The latest figures show an expenditure per student of $102.05 per year. The survey revealed that expenditures for public schools have practically doubled since 1920. Annual expenditures for grounds, buildings and other necessities from 1920 to 1925 reached the figure of $433,000,000. The Bureau of Education believes that the increase in school expenditures may be charged to two outstanding reasons, the decreased purchasing power of the dollar and the improved school facilities generally being provided.

MORENO ATTORNEYS CALL ON PRESIDENT

Coolidge Listened Attentively to Plea for Life, Lawyers Say.

President Coolidge yesterday heard a plea for clemency for Samuel Moreno 20 years old, one of the three men sentenced to die in the electric chair at the District Jail June 22 for the Patrolman Leo W. K. Busch murder. Coolidge saw his three attorneys—Martin F. O'Donoghue, Clifford L. Grant, jr., and Reeves Hilton. The conference lasted twenty minutes.

O'Donoghue said the President was familiar with all phases of the case and listened attentively to the plea. The President indicated he would announce his decision in the case the latter part of the week, O'Donoghue said. Affidavits touching on the mental condition of the prisoner, who is described as possessing the mind of a 9-year-old child, were laid before the Chief Executive, O'Donoghue said.

The President now has heard pleas from two of the three men. The plea of John Cline Proctor, 19 years old, youngest member of the trio, was made Saturday by Wilton J. Lambert, his attorney; the Rev. George Dow, Episcopal clergyman, his spiritual adviser; Mrs Walter Tuckerman, society matron, and E. L. Jackson and Forbes Amory, of the Toc H, an international society of service men. The attorneys for Nicholas Lee Eagles, 32 years old, the other man sentenced to die, were at the White House Saturday, but did not talk with the President.

Coolidge Appoints River Board Head

Col. Thomas H. Jackson, named by President Coolidge yesterday to succeed Col. Charles L. Potter as president of the Mississippi River Commission, is an Army engineer officer, at present detailed as division engineer of the Pacific division, and a member of the California Debris Commission, at San Francisco, Calif.

He was born in Ontario, Canada, in 1874, and was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1899. He served twice in this city, from 1902 to 1903 at Washington Barracks, and in 1919, as an engineer supply officer. He served on engineering work in France during the World War and received the French Legion of Honor and the distinguished service medal.

CENTRAL UNION MISSION WIPES OUT INDEBTEDNESS

Campaign Goes "Over the Top" $760; Coolidge Makes Contribution.

WOMAN LEADER IN TEARS

The Central Union Mission's campaign to wipe out its $54,610 indebtedness went "over the top" last night by $760, a personal contribution from President Coolidge helping to put the churches' mission "out of the campaign business forever." Freed from every cent of indebtedness, Supt. John S. Bennett declared that "every brick in the mission building is an answered prayer."

Called upon by Chairman Edward H. De Groote, jr., to announce the result of the financial report, Mrs. Bennett, leader of the women's teams, was choked with tears as she gave the results of the campaign. Enthusiasm ran high over the "victory" announcement as the 400 persons present, most of them team workers, arose and sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Victory was not within the grasp of the campaign workers, however, until three men underwrote a deficit of $1,316, which the men's division under Dr. Everett M. Ellison, reported at the last moment. It was the women's division under Mrs. Bennett, which raised $760 over its quota of $25,000 that enabled the goal to be exceeded, as Samuel W. Cockrell, for the Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church, announced its quota of $4,710 had been raised in full.

President Coolidge made his contribution yesterday morning at the services in the First Congregational Church when he gave the Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, who had pleaded the cause of the mission, a generous check with the request that it be given to Mrs. W. W. Gilbert, team captain of the church and a member of the group of teams headed by Mrs. James MacFarquhar.

Individual high honors among the corps of team workers went to the group of women's teams under Dr. Viola E. Reece, with a total of $6,886 to their credit, while the highest men's group, with $5,394, was headed by J. A. De Force. The high women's team was captained by Mrs. P. J. Altizer, who reported $2,000, while a team of men under Tom Wilson was first in the men's division with $1,170.

Chairman De Groote, to whom the campaigners gave a rising vote of thanks, gave credit for the success of the campaign to the churches of Washington and to the work of the women. He created enthusiasm when he introduced 12-year-old George Cockrell, grandson of the Mount Vernon Church leader, who had raised $1,000 through his own efforts.

HEALTH OFFICER HITS CADET BANQUET MENU

Criticizes Business High Faculty for Mixing Potato Salad and Ice Cream.

Dr. E. J. Schwartz, acting health officer during the illness of Dr. William C Fowler, yesterday criticized the faculty of Business High School for including potato salad and ice cream in the same menu at the cadet victory banquet at which 140 students and teachers fell ill last week. He said:

"All the schools teach dietetics, and yet when a banquet is arranged those in charge seem to insist on mixing foods in indigestible combinations. Acid potato salad and ice cream do not mix well."

Health department officials announced that although their research is not completed they are convinced the germ causing the illness following the banquet was due to paratyphoid germs, which are responsible for what is called walking typhoid fever. Paratyphoid germs were found both in the turkey and potato salad served at the banquet, although in greater numbers in the latter.

REPUBLICANS CONVENE TODAY AMID TUMULT

MANY DIFFERENCES, SOME HELD ACUTE, FACING DELEGATES

Flag-Bedecked Auditorium, Spic and Span, Is Ready for the Gathering.

WELTER OF HUMANITY PUZZLES SPECTATORS

Committees to Begin Work as Soon as Formal First Session Adjourns.

By JAMES L. WILLIAMS.
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

Kansas City, Mo., June 11 (A.P.).—The Republican national convention will meet here at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning with the Hoover star in the ascendancy, but with the air still filled with the uncertainties which only politics can produce.

Meeting in an auditorium built for the Democratic convention which nominated Bryan in 1900, the Republican hosts will find themselves faced with the task of harmonizing the acute differences which have arisen within their party in recent years over the agricultural question, and of drafting a platform upon which it will stand in the November election.

Seating Capacity 15,000.

The convention hall which will ring with praises of men and the party within the next few days has a seating capacity of 15,000 persons, including delegates, spectators and newspapermen, and the blare of music and oratory which will center there will be broadcast to all parts of the United States, and probably will reach nearly every part of the world.

Spic and span and ready for what awaits it, the auditorium, flag-bedecked along with the rest of the city, has been strung with telegraph and telephone wires, which, with the radio, will carry an amount of information to the nation such as was never dreamed of when it was erected within 90 days to house the convention which nominated the Commoner.

Notwithstanding the confusion which outwardly attends a political gathering, conventions themselves generally run along with rules which carry them through despite the ballyhoo which is heard on every side.

Party Managers Active.

While the spectator looks on in wonder at the welter of humanity, apparently going nowhere, the party managers are laying their plans, appointing the necessary committees, arranging for hearing delegations who dispute the right of other delegations to sit in the convention, fixing up the party declaration of principles, and generally smoothing things out so that at the right time the nominee may be named, the business closed and the convention closed.

To this end the plans call for the opening of the convention with a prayer and music. Then William M. Butler, chairman of the national committee, will rap for order and call the roll of the assembled party stalwarts, wearing their badges and massed with the standards of their States and candidates among them.

When the roll call is completed, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, will deliver the keynote address of the convention, the clarion call of a political party about to go into an election. Senator Fess, while not a delegate, is a close friend of President Coolidge and was one of the original "draft Coolidge" men.

Then each State delegation will name its members of the credentials, platform, permanent organization and rules committees and the convention will adjourn for the day.

Work for Committees.

But meanwhile the committees will be busy. The credentials committee must pass on the eligibility of a block of delegates from the South which the national committee has already awarded to Hoover. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, is chairman of this committee. She is a Hoover supporter.

Reed Smoot, another Hoover man, heads the platform committee, which faces the task of bringing out a party declaration harmonizing conflicting views. The rules committee will bring in the rules, and the permanent organization probably will name Senator George Moses, of New Hampshire, another Hoover man, as permanent chairman.

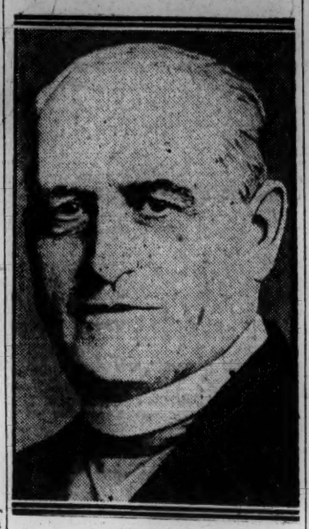

Meeting at 11 a. m. Wednesday to receive committee reports, the convention will go ahead with nominating speeches if the platform committee report, always a subject of oratory, is not ready. If this procedure is followed, Hoover's name probably will be the first to be placed in nomination. Alabama, a Hoover State, is expected to yield to California, on whose behalf John McNab, of San Francisco, will present the name of the Secretary of Commerce.

Next on the list will be Lowden, of Illinois, who will be placed in nomination by Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois, and so down the line of candidates in the alphabetical order in which the name of their State appears.

Before the balloting begins the platforms must be adopted, and the party leaders hope the platform fight will be concluded by Thursday. If that can be done, a nominee may be chosen on that same day, and the hope has been expressed that the vice presidential selection may also be named that day, to end the convention. The probability, however, is that another will be needed to finish up the work.

Kansas City took on the real convention atmosphere today. Bands played on the streets as the delegations began to pour in; caucuses were thick in the hotel districts as State delegations lined up for action; Hoover men, Lowden men, Curtis men, Watson men, Goff men jammed the hotel lobbies. Celebrities were a common sight, elbowing themselves about in the hotel corridors. And there was argument everywhere, the coalition against Hoover talking doggedly for their men and the Hoover crowd showing an air of assurance which was impressive to the listener.

Pershing Denies Knowing of Draft Move for Himself

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 11.—Whatever plans are under way to draft Gen. John J. Pershing as either presidential or vice presidential Republican nominee, are unknown to him, the general declared today on his return from Europe. Nor does he know, he said, of the existence of a "Pershing for President" organization whose plan it is to place his name before the Republican national convention at Kansas City.

"It's all news to me, gentlemen," he told ship news reporters aboard the United States liner Leviathan.

He denied that his departure from France, where, as chairman of the monument commission, he supervised the erection of new monuments over the graves of America's World War dead, had been hastened to enable him to reach Kansas City before the convention concluded its balloting. But he declined to say whether he would accept the nimination or attend the convention. He would, he said, report to Washington, D. C., tomorrow.

C. D. Hilles Rallies After Night of Illness

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman from New York, was reported much improved today after a night under care of a doctor and nurse, due to high temperature. While Hilles was still confined to his bed, Representative Dempsey, of New York, said it was expected he would be out tomorrow to participate in the opening of the national convention.

The New York representative said Willes had been working hard and long hours and had suffered from nervous exhaustion.

CORN BELT CHIEFS VOTE DECLARATION OPPOSING HOOVER

Nomination Means Election of Smith, Is Warning Served on Party.

KANSAS FIRM AGAINST M'NARY-HAUGEN IDEA

Scores of Farm Planks Are Presented; "Caravans" Begin to Arrive.

By ARTHUR EVANS.
Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—Leaders of the corn belt revolt, in a pronouncement to the Republican party tonight, laid it down that if the national convention refuses to hearken to the Midwest farmers, the farmers will speak through a megaphone at the polls in November.

In substance, it said if the ticket and platform are not satisfactory to agriculture the Republicans might as well kiss the election good-by. Farmers paraphrased the dictum as meaning, "To nominate Hoover means to elect Al Smith."

It was signed by S. H. Thompson, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation; William Hirth, chairman of the corn belt committee of fourteen States which grew out of the agrarian protests at Des Moines, Iowa; George N. Peek, chairman of the committee of 22 of the North Central States Agricultural Conference, and by heads of 23 other farm organizations.

A mass meeting attended by some 300 farmers, the early arrivals in the "caravan" promoted by Gov. Adam McMullen, of Nebraska, ratified the declaration with a roar. The uprisers then began to circulate it among the national delegates, with especial attention to the Easterners.

Delegation Goes to Mellon.

A special delegation went to meet Secretary Mellon after he had got settled in his hotel, to paint before Pennsylvania eyes the situation in the West. The picture is that the spirit of revolt is ready to stalk the Mississippi Valley, and the prairies will burst into flame, if the Republicans turn down the demands of the farmers for "agricultural equality."

Much controversy is rife among the agricultural States over the "equalization fee" idea.

A farm plank was being whittled out tonight by the farm leaders. Senator Reed Smoot reports he has already received 50 farm planks of various shapes and styles. If it keeps up the resolutions committee will need a gang of lumber shovers. The Hoover leaders have one, patterned on the Jardine plan, which does not contain the equalization fee.

Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, submitted a farm plank which in general terms pledges "immediate and careful consideration" of farm relief and "effective protection of argiculture equal to the protection given to other industries by our tariff systems."

Against McNary-Haugen.

The Kansas delegation is against a McNary-Haugen declaration. It voted today that its member on the resolutions committee should stand against any criticism of President Coolidge.

"That means Kansas is against the McNary-Haugen bill," said William Allen White, Kansas member of the platform committee. "We want it known we are against such forms of farm relief."

Official interpretation of the plank of the American Farm Bureau, adopted in Chicago Friday, over which there was much dispute Saturday, came from S. H. Thompson, head of the organization. He said Secretary Jardine and others have misconstrued it when they have said it abandons the equalization fee.

"The plank specifically defined the equalization fee as it has been repeatedly described during the last four years," said Mr. Thompson. "The farm bureau is squarely behind the principle of the equalization fee."

The "caravan" of the embattled farmers so far has not come up to the advertising prospectus of last week. Farmers were arriving all day in small numbers.

It appeared that by nightfall about 1,500 had driven in. They filtered through "caravan" headquarters, pinned on the yellow ribbon "Equality for agriculture" and mixed with the milling crowds in the hotels. Their cars are scattered all over town. Instead of going to the camping sites, one of their first inquiries is for a room and the cafeteria which has the most inviting prices.

Palms Are Credentials.

They are more than willing to exhibit the evidence that they are dirt farmers. They stick out horny palms. "There's my credentials." Some of them bring signs:

"Who steals the farmer's purse steals trash in this administration," says one.

"Hoover's free trade farm policy makes Cleveland look like a piker," reads another.

One Minnesotan had one on his lapel. Its legend: "Hi say, Sir 'Erbert! Thirty million farmers can't be wrong."

In Minnesota many of the counties held farm meetings at which six to a dozen farmers were picked to drive to Kansas City. Part of the gasoline bill will be met by collections back home. If the farmers get a cold shoulder here, they plan to keep driving to Houston, Tex., for the Democratic show. North Dakota's cavalcade, some 150 cars, has been straggling in. Gov. Sorlie has addressed the farmers. So has Frank W. Murphy, a Minnesota national delegate, who has been a leading advocate of the McNary-Haugen bill.

"Hoover," shouted Murphy, "is the determined and relentless foe of agriculture. While I am a Republican and a delegate, should he be nominated, I will regard my fidelity to agriculture as much more binding than my loyalty to party."

The group from Indiana brought a petition containing 58,000 names. It was circulated in all counties under direction of Mrs. Verna L. Hatch, social director of the Indiana Farm Bureau. It was in the form of a pledge not to vote for any man for President "who will not pledge his wholehearted support to the enactment of a Federal law that will contain the fundamental principles embodied in the McNary-Haugen bill."

Corn Belt Pronouncement.

The pronouncement by corn belt leaders tonight says the Republican party is in a crisis because party leaders misunderstand conditions in agricultural States.

"The nomination of any man representing views unsatisfactory to agriculture by the Republican party would serve deliberate notice on the organized farmers of the country that for the next four years they need not look to the Republican party for a square deal.

"Republican leaders must not underestimate the extent of farm feeling on this question.

"A candidate unsatisfactory to farmers can not carry normal Republican States where agriculture is a leading industry and without whose electoral votes the Republicans can not be successful in a national election.

"We ask for recognition that the fight for farm equality is not a real move for sectional or class advantage at the expense of the Nation as a whole, but is the most constructive step that can be taken for prosperity and the general welfare."

It asks for recognition on the platform of the principle of equalization fee.

cordance with the circumstances in each establishment or operation and without respect to membership or nonmembership in any organization."

15 Other Planks Included.

Fifteen other planks are included in the platform of American industry. These include the following:

Disapproval of government competition with private business.

Agricultural legislation to provide for "further improvement of credit facilities and for equalization with manufacturers and industry of taxation, tariff and freight rates."

Support of the Federal reserve banking system "because it has inspired confidence in credit and business conditions."

Encouragement of the development of foreign trade both in the exportation of American products and importation of essential raw materials for domestic factories.

Restriction of immigration with a view to the exclusion of the diseased, defective, criminal and those likely to become burdens, and those who oppose all forms of government or advocate the accomplishment of political change by force.

To Promote World Amity.

Avoidance of entangling relationships with foreign nations, but contributions of "our full share toward the promotion of good feeling among the nations of the earth."

Condemnation of continued efforts to impair the judicial power or limit its capacity to protect all citizens as proposed in anti-labor injunction bills.

Reorganization of Government departments with a view to the elimination of duplication and the adoption of uniform cost-accounting systems.

Improved methods of regulation of combinations of industry.

Approval of the American protective tariff system as necessary to the well-being of agriculture, labor and manufacture.

Further reduction in the tax on corporation earnings and repeal of the Federal estate tax.

Approval of legislation to encourage the consolidation of railroads.

The committee of the American Federation of Labor, which is headed by William Green, its president, will take issue with several of the planks of the manufacturers, including that on anti-injunction legislation. The labor group will urge particularly approval of a plank favoring the Shipstead antilabor injunction bill. The committee will also propose an amendment of the Sherman antitrust laws in so far as they apply to labor unions, adoption of the principle of the five-day week, the principle of high wages, legislation for the solution of problems of the soft coal industry and modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of light wines and beer.

Senator Smoot announced that public hearings will be commenced by the resolutions committee tomorrow as soon as its members are appointed.

Broadcast Begins 11 A.M.

The convention radio broadcasting, in so far as Washingtonians are concerned, will begin at 11 o'clock this morning through station WRC. None of the other local stations has announced its intention of covering the event thus far.

WRC officials declare their station will be on the air continuously during convention sessions, day or night, subject, however, to any subsequent orders they may receive from New York.

More details of the convention broadcast will be found on the radio page.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—A wave of farm relief chatter swept through hotel lobbies today as delegates gathered in preconvention knots. In three groups swept together by the milling crowds in one hotel bronzed sons of the corn and wheat belts were voicing their views of the ills of the farmer.

"South Dakota is losing population because the farmers can't get a living price for their wheat," one of the self-chosen speakers was telling his listeners. "We have fewer people, fewer hogs, fewer cattle and fewer horses this year than we had last. And when we ask for relief for which we propose to pay ourselves, our proposal is described with every obnoxious word in the dictionary."

"Here's what happens," another asserted through a cloud of tobacco smoke: "Our wheat is dumped into the same pot with that of Mexico, South America and Europe, and Liverpool fixes the price."

"Naw, he's wrong there," and another impromptu orator launched into an explanation of how "Chicago fixes the prices" to a group which gathered about him.

"Lowden wouldn't have vetoed it; Watson wouldn't have vetoed it; Curtis wouldn't have vetoed it," another proclaimed.

Representative Franklin W. Fort, of New Jersey, who will be the Hoover leader on the convention floor, will have two personal pages, one, Allan Hoover, son of the Commerce Secretary, and the other his own son, Franklin Ryan Fort.

Radios for presidential eloquence and even lemonade for weary delegates grace the women's headquarters opening today in several buildings near the convention hall.

Treasured European tapestries and paintings from Kansas City's most luxurious homes adorn these feminine retreats decorated and redecorated for the occasion.

Captains, lieutenants and platoons of hostesses, on almost 24-hour duty, in 2 and 4 hour "watches," are assigned to booths and desks in every women's headquarters, every important hotel lobby and every clubhouse in the city.

National committeewomen, women delegates and mere observers vie with each other in praising the hospitality of their sisters in arms in the political arena.

Mayor Albert I. Beach, of Kansas City, does not deal in superlatives in discussing his home town.

He explained in welcoming a group of women's organizations for a convention that he would not use superlative expressions because he would accord them the same privilege as Missouri people demand—that they be shown. "But," he added, "we have the most delightful residential section here. We have the greatest percentage of home owners of any other city. We have the most——" and the mayor expanded his description with a string of flowing superlatives.

Boulder Canyon, knocked out in the last round of the recently recessed Senate, may attempt a comeback at the convention. A telegram to the California delegation from Earl Pound, chairman of the Imperial Irrigation District, urged the inclusion of a Boulder Dam plank in the party platform.

MARYLAND'S DELEGATION NAMES COMMITTEEMEN

Jackson and Mrs. Lowndes Are Reelected Members of Republican National Body.

UNIT RULE IS ADOPTED

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Kansas City, Md., June 11.—William P. Jackson and Mrs. W. B. Laden Lowndes were reelected to the national Republican committee from Maryland at a caucus of the Maryland delegation today. The State's delegation of nineteen delegates and nineteen alternates met shortly after its arrival in a special car.

The Jackson-Marchant forces are in indisputable control, having beaten the Weller forces at the recent State convention.

Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore, was named chairman of the delegation; Roland R. Marchant, State representative on the credentials committee; David A. Robb, of Cumberland, to the committee on permanent organization; Galen L. Tait, internal revenue collector of Baltimore, to the committee on rules and order of business; Representative Frederick A. Zihlman, to the resolutions committee, and Joshua W. Clayton, of Elgin, as honorary vice president.

To the committee to notify the presidential nominee, T. B. W. Mudd of La Plata, was named, and William G. Albrecht, of Baltimore, was selected for the committee to notify the vice presidential nominee. The unit rule was adopted.

Under the preference primary vote which Secretary Hoover won unopposed, the delegation is honor bound to cast its nineteen votes for him as long as he has a reasonable chance in the convention. The delegation is not looked upon as a dyed-in-the-wool Hoover one, though, by any means.

Mr. Jackson is known to be friendly to former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, and to have had several conferences with Lowden people before the primary on the subject of making a fight against Hoover. It was finally decided not to do so, largely, it is believed, because the Lowen headquarters would not finance it.

Galen L. Tait and former Senator Weller launched the Hoover boom early and obtained such momentum for it that any opposition would have had an uphill fight. They became so ambitious, in fact, that they sought to get control of the State organization and name Mr Weller to the national committee in the place of Mr. Jackson. An alliance of the Marchant and Jackson forces resulted in their defeating the effort.

Mr. Jackson's friendliness for Lowden, however, is not likely to result in his voting for him because the Maryland delegation looks upon the governor as definitely alienating any Eastern support by his stand on the McNary-Haugen bill. It is a case with the Maryland delegation of supporting the administration.

The delegation may best be described as one of those that is rather lukewarm to the Secretary of Commerce but will vote for him, and just now is not casting about for a second choice because none of the allies is acceptable. But if some one else is produced, say Charles Evans Hughes, it is believed the delegation would be one of the first to bolt to him, after it had discharged its Hoover obligation, of course.

Headquarters for the delegation have been established at the President Hotel.

3 Women to Second Nominating Speeches

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Only three women will make speeches seconding the nomination of presidential candidates before the convention.

Mrs. Christine Bradley Southe, of Kentucky, daughter of former Gov. Bradley of Connecticut, will second for Secretary Hoover; Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, for Lowden, and Mrs. H. J. Cornwell, wife of a newspaper editor of St. John, Kans., for Senator Curtis.

The nominations of Watson and Goff will be seconded by men.

VIRGINIA HELD SOLID IN HOOVER SUPPORT

Loss of Delegates Denied. Boom for Anderson for Second Place Progresses.

Kansas City, Mo., June 11 (A.P.).—With vague rumors from anti-Hoover headquarters that Lowden would receive two of the fifteen Hoover-claimed Virginia delegates, Wade Hamilton, of Wise County, joined the Virginia delegation today and declared that the Ninth District knew nothing of this claim.

Hamilton backed C. Bascom Slemp and Col. Henry W. Anderson in the statement that Virginia was "solid for Hoover."

With State leaders placing the State on the Hoover band wagon the boom to place Col. Anderson on the ticket as Vice President continued to gain force. The delegation was actively organized and establishing contacts, asserting that the South would give the Republican party more this year than it would lose in any other section.

"With Hoover and Anderson on the ticket the South will see Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee in the Republican column in November," said Mrs. M. M. Caldwell, national committeewoman.

MAJ. GEN. H. T. ALLEN TO SEEK NOMINATION

World War Officer Announces Candidacy for President on Dry Plank.

(Associated Press.)

Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen, who was commander of the Army of Occupation on the Rhine, announced yesterday that he had given permission to his friends to present his name to the national Democratic convention at Houston for the presidential nomination.

Gen. Allen, who hails from Kentucky, said a committee of his friends had been advised to advance his campaign. In an announcement prepared by a group of the officer's associates it was set forth that he had been a lifelong advocate of temperance and believes in strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

Gen. Allen organized the Philippine constabulary, when Chief Justice Taft was governor general of the islands; handled the El Caney refugee camp in Cuba during the Spanish-American War and was commander of the Ninetieth Division (Oklahoma and Texas), during the World War. He also served as military attache at various embassies abroad.

MARYLANDERS TO FIGHT FOR DISTRICT SUFFRAGE

Convention Delegation Will Back Demand for Favorable Platform Plank.

ZIHLMAN IS SPOKESMAN

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—The Maryland delegation will join with the District of Columbia delegates in demanding the insertion of a District suffrage plank in the Republican platform. The Maryland delegation, meeting today, adopted a resolution to this end and directed its member on the resolutions committee, Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, to present the plank and make a fight for it.

About the same time five members of the District contingent appeared before Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the resolutions committee, urging that a suffrage plank be adopted. They were: Edward F. Colladay, Samuel J. Prescott, Edgar A. Snyder, Lincoln C. Townsend and Mrs. Spiel. They were assisted by Representative Dyer, of Missouri, who has long championed the District cause before the House judiciary committee.

The proposed plank reads: "We favor suffrage for the District of Columbia."

It is not a new fight on the part of the District delegation by any means, but some progress was made today when Senator Smoot agreed that in the event he could not bring himself to write the plank in the tentative platform which he is preparing, he will give the District proponents a hearing before the resolutions committee.

Heretofore Senator Smoot has been the nemesis of the District suffrage proponents, though that is, insofar as the Republican party platform is concerned.

The District contingent, which has only two delegates in the national convention, has nevertheless an organization here that would compare with the larger State delegations, and another of its efforts will be to increase its delegate allotment. This same fight, too, was made four years ago without success but the Washingtonians are undaunted and are redoubling their efforts this year.

With the exception of Thomas P. Littlepage, the Washington Republican organization, or that part of which plans attending the convention, is on the scene. Mr. Littlepage is expected to arrive tomorrow. Headquarters have been establishd at the Hotel Muehlbach.

The two delegates are still on the fence as to whom they will support. Mr Prescott and Mr Colladay, leaders of the District organization, are keeping their ear to the ground. The fact that they have not yet swung on to the Hoover band wagon is indicative of the general trouble that the band wagon is having in getting under way.

RAIN, HEAT AND CLOUDS KANSAS CITY FORECAST

Weather Man Says Meteorological Condition at Convention's Start Are Normal.

COOL WAVE CALLED PAST

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Rain, continued cloudiness and slightly higher temperatures, with the mercury possibly touching 80 degrees, was the Government's forecast for tomorrow's opening session of the Republican national convention.

Temperatures ranging from 65 to 80, as compared with today's 60 minimum, 76 maximum, were predicted. Local showers were in the offing for tonight and tomorrow, with possibly clearing skies late tomorrow or Wednesday.

"Unusual? Not at all," remarked P. Connor, the local weather man. "June's just smiling on the grand old party."

The past week's subnormal temperatures may be dissipated Wednesday, but Mr. Connor saw hope that the cool weather which has brought forth general praise from convention visitors would last a few days longer.

The record reveals that June's hottest day thus far was on June 8, when the normal maximum of 86 was reached for the first and only time. The June 6 maximum was 84 and other daily maximums were below that.

Minimum temperatures read like the April weather chart. The nightly readings since June 4 were 50, 52, 52, 60, 61, 62, 58 and 60 degrees last night.

Yesterday's maximum temperature was 70 degrees which sent some thinly-clad delegates scurrying to their hotel rooms to change from summer suits and filmy dresses.

The sun never emerged from behind threatening clouds today.

"June's giving us her quota of cool weather at just the right time," Mr. Connor remarked. "The hot corn-growing days will follow, maybe soon."

Women Foes of War To Plead for Cause

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Representatives of another national woman's organization appeared in town today prepared to support planks before the resolutions committee tomorrow, and the reduction of naval armaments was added to the lists of causes whose standards are borne by women.

Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan, a leader of the National Council for the Prevention of War, will speak in favor of "adherence to the world court, multilateral treaties renouncing war and decrease of naval armaments by international agreement."

CLAIMS FOR CANDIDATES AT VARIANCE

VICTORY ASSURED WITHOUT KEYSTONE VOTE, HOOVER CLAIM

Coolidge Enigma, However, Offsets Strength of Commerce Head.

RETICENCE OF MELLON HAS LEADERS GUESSING

Allies, Grimly Defiant, Hold They Control Situation; Seek Candidate.

By PAUL F. HAUPERT
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—The Republican presidential situation hung tonight in a balance, weighted on the one hand by the seemingly overwhelming Hoover strength, but offset on the other by the Coolidge enigma, as party leaders anxiously awaited the final word from delegates that hold the key of solution.

The line-up of the big Pennsylvania delegation remained in doubt, with Mellon still silent, but with Vare announcing that he would use his influence at a caucus tomorrow to have the 79 delegates indorse Hoover.

The eleven delegates from Vermont, native State of President Coolidge, boomed by some leaders for renomination to the consternation of Hoover lieutenants, decided to go to the Commerce Secretary solidly on the first ballot.

Jubilation in the Hoover camp over this development was tempered by indications that most of the so-called Willis delegates from Ohio might cast their lot with Coolidge, helping to build him up, unless he puts a foot down on the movement as Hoover's rival contender for the nomination.

On the night before the convention opening the arrival of the Pennsylvania delegation and conferences that immediately ensued, gripped party chiefs, delegates and newspaper men alike.

Vare Talks; Mellon Silent.

The Treasury Secretary, admittedly one of the men who hold the key to the situation, and Senator-elect Vare, leader of the powerful Philadelphia organization, reached the city late in the day with the other members of the Keystone State delegation, and each immediately was besieged by the friends of the various candidates in an effort to influence their position.

After several hours, Vare summoned the newspaper correspondents to his quarters in the Baltimore Hotel and handed them a brief typewritten statement in which he declared that in his judgment "the Republicans of Pennsylvania are for Herbert Hoover for President." He added that he was convinced of the sincerity of President Coolidge in taking himself out of the race.

Previously, Secretary Mellon had announced that he would see the correspondents at 8 p. m. After considerable delay Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, appeared as spokesman for the Secretary and announced that he had been authorized to say for Mellon that in view of the caucus tomorrow of the Pennsylvania delegation he did not feel justified in making any statement at this time.

Sensing victory, the Hoover people, however, seemed equally if not more confident than Mellon and the big delegation from Pennsylvania, which he leads, would give the Commerce Secretary the votes he needs to go over. At the same time they reiterated that they could win without Pennsylvania.

Allies Claim Victory.

As the situation shaped up tonight, on the eve of the convention, the allied field of candidates against Hoover were in a defiant mood, insisting that their common foe had been stopped. In their camps there was talk of a compromise candidate—talk that was spiced with the recurring suggestion that Coolidge, if he hadn't put down a firm foot to squelch the movement in his behalf, would poll a big vote on the first ballot, and might end up with the nomination in his hand, whether he wants it or not.

In the face of this counter drive from the opposition, the Hoover managers went ahead, assuring their delegates and workers that Coolidge would not cut a figure on the show-down, and that their man was as good as in.

The Hoover lieutenants pointed to delegates they claimed had been picked up in Missouri, predicted there would be breaks to their advantage in other delegations, and were jubilant over Borah's announcement to his fellow delegates from Idaho—that the contest had simmered down between Hoover and Coolidge; that it would be a mistake to force the President's renomination, and that he wouldn't seek to hold the delegation if it appeared wise to go over to Hoover in a body.

Mellon Still Big Factor.

But in all camps, in Hoover's and elsewhere, there was a tendency to attach great importance to Mellon's arrival here and the probable stand of the 79 delegates from Pennsylvania. Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, was one of those who awaited the opportunity to impress upon his chief that the only harmonious course open was to swing to Hoover without delay. The "allies" had spokesmen primed to reemphasize that Hoover would lack vote-getting strength as a nominee, and on top of this there were men who want Coolidge, hoping to get Mellon's ear before he makes the move that will greatly clarify the atmosphere.

In some quarters there were predictions that Mellon would throw his support to Hoover on the first ballot. Such action even foes of the Commerce Secretary conceded would clinch his nomination, with delegates from other States making frantic efforts to board the band wagon.

From the camps of the enemy, however, the word was passed that Mellon, on the showdown, would not be for Hoover, and that when this was established the lines built up for the Secretary of Commerce would crumble. Out of the wreckage, as they pictured it, would come either a deadlock and the nomination of a compromise candidate or a stampede to Coolidge that would end in his renomination.

Discount Draft Talk.

The Hoover managers continued to broadcast the word that their delegates would stand fast in the face of any trend toward Coolidge, believing that under no circumstances would the President accept renomination, and that it would create a disastrous muddle to attempt to draft him.

So far as could be established, President Coolidge has sent no word to the convention regarding the move to bring about his renomination, and there was nothing to indicate that he would do so unless the balloting showed a marked trend in his direction. Everett Sanders, his secretary, came on the scene today, but apparently without any statement from his chief. Whether Mellon has first-hand information of what could be expected from the President was not disclosed.

Hoover managers professed to be without information as to exactly what Mellon and his Pennsylvania delegates of Coolidge would do, but they radiated confidence that the Treasury Secretary, anxious to get things over in a hurry without a bad factional fight, would be "sold" on Hoover, and that the convention would not get out of hand and nominate Coolidge.

The "allies" grimly carried on, with Watson, of Indiana, proclaiming that Hoover had been stopped and the Kansas delegation promising Curtis they would stick to him to the end. Lowden of Illinois, greeted all comers at his hotel suite during the day, but his managers had little to say.

Good Voices Confidence.

James W. Good, manager for Herbert Hoover, declared tonight that the name of the Secretary of Commerce would be presented by his followers "in assured confidence that he will be the choice of the convention now and the choice of the country in November."

"The Hoover forces will enter the convention tomorrow morning not only intact but increased," said Good in a formal statement. "In Kansas City we have had no losses and many gains."

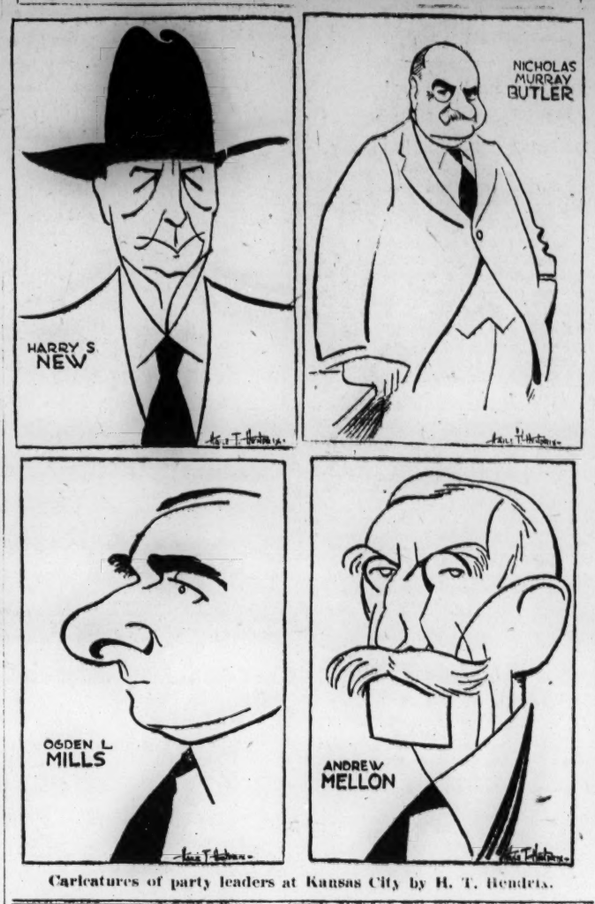

The proposed demonstration of farmers against Hoover in Kansas City has failed to materialize.

"The contested seats in the convention will go to Hoover by right as well as by fact. There is not one contest which the Hoover forces would not be glad to submit to the United States Supreme Court for absolutely impartial legal adjudication. The convention will follow the law and will confirm to all Hoover delegates the seats already granted to them by solemn verdict of the national committee.

"The Hoover forces represent loyalty to President Coolidge and an unfaltering belief in his policies and in his utterances.

"On that basis they have gained the support of the bulk of the Republican party throughout the country."

NEW YORK KEEPS MILLS FROM PLATFORM BODY

HILLES SLATE ELECTED

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Charles D. Hilles and George K. Morris, today retained undisputed control of the Republican party organization of New York, putting through their slate of representatives on convention committees without a word of protest.

Besides being reelected as national committeeman and State chairman, respectively, they frustrated a move to have Ogden Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury, placed on the convention committee which is to draft the party platform. Alanson B. Houghton, Ambassador to Great Britain, instead, was given the place on that committee.

The wet and dry issue figured largely in the rejection of Mr. Mills. He aroused opposition because of his approval of the prohibition plank in the tentative administration platform draft, which was reported to have contained a declaration in favor of the eighteenth amendment. Mills is one of the ardent Hoover supporters in the New York delegation, a large majority of which is declared by State Chairman Morris to favor the renomination of President Coolidge.

The meeting of the New York delegation was held this afternoon. But before it started Morris announced that he would refuse to recognize a motion that a poll be taken at that time. Latest indications today were that the New York group of women delegates, already the largest flock in the convention and increased from six to nine by the illness of three men delegates, present a strong anti-Hoover and pro-Coolidge front.

Confident predictions were made by New York organization women, including Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, an alternate and daughter of Nicholas Murray Butler, that two ballots for Coolidge are to be expected from the New Yorkers.

With only two exceptions, Miss Florence Wardwell, a strong Hoover woman, and Mrs. Marian Mack, an alternate who will vote as proxy for William L. Ward, a Hoover man, the New York women are "for any candidate who will carry New York, but almost any candidate but Hoover."

The three women proxies, who bring the New York feminine total up to almost double the next strongest, Massachusetts and Oklahoma, each with five, are Mrs. Marian Mack, of West Chester, for W. L. Ward; Mrs. Maude Neale, of Brooklyn, for Lewis Swazy, and Mrs. Rose M. Turk, of Brooklyn, for C. S. Devoy.

BUTLER IS IN DOUBT ABOUT HIS OWN VOTE

"for old times' sake" having long been attending conventions.

Tonight there was the usual question of "what about Coolidge?" particularly, pending further word from Secretary Mellon, but many of the administration group were inclined to take the action of the President's friends—Mr. Butler and the Cabinet officers—as the best view of his position. Most of the Cabinet officers who have come here have indicated a preference for Hoover, a fellow Cabinet officer.

It has been no secret that efforts have been made to get some inkling from the President as to whether he would accept the nomination if tendered him, but all have confessed failure. Among those most in the dark on this are members of the Cabinet. They, like Vermont, Maine and New Hampshire, of the New England States, are apparently going to accept the earlier statements of Mr. Coolidge as final.

WEST VIRGINIA GROUP'S FUTURE PLANS PUZZLE

Firm Behind Goff, Swing to Lowden Predicted If Senator Is Eliminated.

FEW HOOVER VOTES SEEN

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—The West Virginia delegation busied itself today between activities seeking to further the presidential candidacy of Senator Guy D. Goff and conferences preliminary to the caucus of the delegation for the purpose of selecting representatives on the national committee and on the resolutions and the credentials committees of the convention. Senator Goff continued his conferences with leaders in the coalition movement against Hoover.

The West Virginia delegation, according to accepted reports, with the exception of Delegate Wafe Pepper, of Clarksburg, who is pledged to Hoover, is standing firmly behind Senator Goff and with the anti-Hoover coalition. They are represented in all meetings and conferences of the executive committee directing the allied campaign and have assisted actively in formulating plans of strategy.

Into what channels the West Virginians will swing should Senator Goff be eliminated, is a question. One of the leading members of the delegation and a party figure in West Virginia expressed the view today that most of the delegates would turn to Frank O. Lowden. Few, if any, with the exception of Delegate Pepper, he thought, would go to Hoover. Anybody but Hoover is the slogan of the majority. There is considerable sentiment in the delegation favoring Senator Charles K. Curtis, of Kansas, for second place on the national ticket.

Gov. Gore, who paid a call of courtesy to the Goff headquarters. Although an interested spectator of the preconvention activities, the governor is refraining from taking a personal hand in them. In addition to visiting with his former associates in Washington, where he was Secretary of Agriculture, he has been busy renewing acquaintance with many Westerners whom he came to know while representing the Agricultural Department in a minor capacity.

Harry C. Woodyard, of Spencer, W. Va., manager of the Hoover campaign in West Virginia, has lost none of his enthusiasm for the Secretary of Commerce following his defeat by Senator Goff. He has taken part in meetings held by the Hoover strategists.

The delegation went into caucus tonight to determine, among other things, whether Virgil L. Highlands and Mrs. Lena Lowe Yost shall be retained as members of the national committee.

LOWDEN ADHERENTS GRIMLY DETERMINED TO REMAIN IN FIGHT

Personality of Illinoisan Alone Holds Delegates Together as Hope Wanes.

HIS CHIEF LIEUTENANTS REFUSE ALL COMMENT

Atmosphere of Defeat Pervades Headquarters Following Swing to Hoover.

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—The personality of Frank Lowden was dominant in holding together his delegates today in the face of waning hope that he can be nominated in the face of an avalanche of Herbert Hoover sentiment. He continued to greet hundreds of friends and delegates in his hotel apartment and to tell them to keep up the battle, but at his headquarters a less optimistic attitude was in evidence.

The Lowden campaign manager, Clarence F. Buck, declined flatly to see newspaper men. When the word was sent him that verification or denial was desired of a report that there were defections in the Lowden delegates from Illinois Buck sent back the information that he had no statement to make.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, one of the leading Lowden workers and spokesman for the "defeat Hoover coalition," was at her office scarcely at all today and it was explained she was in conference with L. L. Emmerson, coalition generalissimo. The latter half angrily refused to respond to questions regarding the Lowden situation.

"There absolutely is nothing to say at this time," he declared.

At Lowden headquarters a large crowd still milled about, but the free predictions of last week that the Illinois man would win were lacking. The delegates and workers for Lowden talked in a mournful tone of the chances of the Republican party in November with Hoover the standard bearer.

"How about swinging to Curtis?" one worker was heard to say in the center of Lowden headquarters.

"Oh, no," was the reply from one of the Lowden leaders, "we're going to stick and see this through."

That conversation appeared to typify the attitude of the headquarters—the feeling of defeat but determination to see their man through to the end.

There was some speculation as to whether pledged Lowden delegates would turn to Hoover after the first ballot should the Cabinet member show great strength, but not be named on the initial tally. The report, however, that some of the Illinois Lowden people already havedecided to forsake Lowden in favor of Hoover was determinedly denied in all responsible Illinois circles.

Similar reports have seeped out from the Iowa Lowden people and have been promptly denied. There is no doubt, however, that some of the Iowa delegates expect to turn to Hoover if a number of ballots should show Lowden to be without sufficient strength.

To some extent this situation also obtains in Minnesota, although no member of the delegation from that State cared to comment for publication on Hoover sentiment there.

As the Lowden workers sought to hold their ranks and keep up the courage among the workers, Lowden himself gave no sign of giving up the fight. He appeared somewhat wearied today by the steady streams of callers he met, but he had a cheerful word for them all. Among those who called was Representative Dickinson, of Iowa, one of the leaders in the congressional farm relief battle.

Other farm leaders were busy working on the demand for "equality for agriculture," as their badges declare, which they will place before the resolutions committee. A wing of the farm leaders is inclined to make a "McNary-Haugen bill or nothing" fight, but many of the recognized leaders, such as George N. Peek, Gov. McMullen of Nebraska and Senator Watson, of Indiana, are insisting that the demand state merely the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill and not the name of the measure itself nor any mention of the equalization fee.

Wisconsin Progressives Regain Committee Seats

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Control of the two Wisconsin places on the Republican national committee were regained today by progressives who lost them eight months ago for the first time in a quarter of a century. At the State caucus today Herman L. Ekern, former attorney general, was the choice of the progressives, who dominated the delegation, for the national committee seat now held by George Vits, of Manitowoc, an administration Republican. Miss Elizabeth McCormick, of Superior, another progressive, was elected national committeewoman to displace Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, of Sheboygan.

The caucus at which the two progressives were elected saw the defeat of a resolution by the conservative Republican minority of nine delegates to put the delegation on record as agreeing to support the nominees of the party. The resolution, which was ruled out of order and on which the chairman was sustained, would have barred delegates who refused to take the pledge from any voice in the selection of the national committeemen from the State.

The conservatives planned to use the defeat of the resolution as the basis for testing the Republicanism of the Wisconsin insurgents. They hoped thereby to block the ratification of the two Wisconsin selections. Leaders of the group, the largest anti-La Follette delegation ever to sit in the convention from Wisconsin, planned to bring the question before the national committee. W. J. Campbell, of Oshkosh, one of the group, said the question had never been acted upon by the party and was somewhat dubious as to the outcome.

All Officials Reelected By Michigan Delegation

Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—Without a single dissenting vote, the Michigan delegation, in caucus tonight, reelected James E. Davidson, of Bay City, national committeeman and Miss Bina West, of Port Huron, national committeewoman.

Members to conventions committees were also reelected: Miss West, committeewoman on credentials; William Bonifest, of Escanaba, permanent organization; A. D. McBurney, of Jackson, resolutions, and E. W. Wood, of Flint, rules. Gov. Fred Green, who presided, had perviously been selected as chairman of the delegation.

PROGRAM OF LABOR PLANKS SUBMITTED BY SECRETARY DAVIS

Collective Bargain, Eight Hour Day and Curb on Injunction Featured.

HIGH WAGES DECLARED FRUIT OF PROTECTION

Immigration Limitation and Exclusion of Child Workers Called Essential.

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Secretary Davis made public tonight proposals which he will submit on behalf of the Labor Department to the platform committee of the Republican national convention, in which "good wages," the eight-hour day and collective bargaining were among the headliners.

"Summing it all up," the Secretary said, "the protective tariff, limited immigration, exclusion of child labor, general watchfulness of women in industry, the eight-hour day, collective bargaining coupled with conciliation and arbitration and curbing the use of the writ of injunction, are the important things in which the American laboring man is very much interested."

"Industrial competition among the countries of the world has caused fundamental changes in American industry which have vastly increased output and, at the same time, relatively decreased the cost of production in practically all lines of endeavor," he continued.

"Thus, in meeting the competition from countries where lower standards of living obtain, the mechanization of industry, there has been brought about a practical industrial revolution in our country.

Wages and High Tariff.

"The American workers are the highest paid in the world; the American standard of living surpasses that of any other country; but even with this enviable record of progress, the mechanization of industry and the development of rapid power machinery processes have displaced many veteran workers and others, necessitating their engaging in other activities.

"This situation has developed with startling swiftness, and President Coolidge has directed the Labor Department to get full information in order that the Government may proceed intelligently in handling these problems growing out of the intensive mechanization of industry and the reduction in hand labor.

"To maintain high wages it is absolutely necessary to have a high protective tariff, a tariff that protects. High wages and a high protective tariff go hand in hand. * * *

"Eight hours a day is sufficient for any one to work, and we must also eliminate the seven-day week. * * *

"The right of labor to bargain collectively with groups of employers of their own choosing can not be denied, and for temporary disagreement between employers and employes we must use conciliation and arbitration whenever possible. Because of the splendid service of our Government in this field there has been a very large decrease in the number of serious labor disputes in our country.

Curb on Injunctions.

"Limiting the number of immigrants coming into our country protects American labor. For humanitarian reasons we are correcting the defects in our immigration laws and strengthening the border patrol and the immigration service generally to prevent the illegal entry of aliens.

"Congress itself should enact a law prohibiting the shipping in interstate commerce the products of convict labor.

"One of the things in which labor is tremendously interested is to curb the application of the writ of injunction in labor disputes. There has been a widespread complaint against the use of the injunction. Labor, too, believes in the protection of property and the upholding of our courts in the just exercise of the injunctive writ in such a spirit of moderation and liberality as will protect the essential and cherished privileges of labor and safeguard its rights and communities from unwarranted invasion."

KELLOGG ASKS CHURCH HELP TOWARD PEACE

are now engaged, and in the name of the Government of the United States I bespeak the continued support of this and every other church in the present movement for the promotion of world peace."

Secretary Kellogg described the founding of the Dutch Reformed Church in Manhattan as the "most significant event in American church history, an event which has had a profound influence on the development of American civilization."

He praised the early Dutch settlers of New York for their important contribution to the country's progress.

President Coolidge in a message to the general synod said, "as we foster and strengthen our religious institutions so we shall continue to advance in power and understanding spiritually and materially."

The President said the influence of the reformed church "on the religious and civic life of our greatest center of population, and indirectly on the growth of our Nation, has been great."

Dr. J. H. Van Roijen, Netherlands Minister at Washington, addressed the church delegates twice today, at the afternoon meeting and again at a banquet tonight. He recounted incidents and personalities of early Dutch colonization in America.

"During 40 years," he said, "new Netherlands was a colony governed by Hollanders and it is a matter of great pride for us that their influence has proved to be lasting on the life, customs and ideas of the people of this great republic."

A message was read at the afternoon session from the British Embassy in Washington conveying the greetings and best wishes of King George V.

Goff Leads Hoover By 19,465 Majority

Charleston, W. Va., June 11 (A.P.).—Senator Guy D. Goff had a majority of 19,465 over Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover in the Republican presidential preference contest in West Virginia, complete official returns today showed. The vote was: Goff, 128,495; Hoover, 109,030.

In the Democratic preferential contest the official count gave Al Smith, of New York, a majority of 5,763 over Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri. The vote was: Smith, 81,739; Reed, 75,976. The Rev. Alonzo F. Workman, of Joplin, Mo., also entered in the Democratic race, polled 5,789 votes.

FARMERS ARE ARRIVING FOR NOMINATION FIGHT

WOMEN DEMOCRATS STAND ON SIDELINES WITH G. O. P. SISTERS

Mrs. Harriman and Miss Blair Watch or Write; Alice Robertson Visitor.

LONGWORTH-M'CORMICK DISPUTE IS DENIED

Ridiculous, Says Daughter of Hanna, That She and Alice Are on Outs.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—Women on the side lines continued to be very much in the center of things in Kansas City today.

"Daisy" (Mrs. J. Borden) Harriman, of Washington, president of the National Democratic Women's Club, and Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the national Democratic committee, are two of the most prominent women from the other side of the fence. Mrs. Harriman is here as an observer and because she "adores conventions." Mrs. Blair has a typewriter and is writing for the magazines.

Another interesting figure is Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania and Washington.

Alice Robertson, of Oklahoma, with a lame ankle from the everlasting up and down of hotel stairs, discovered a way to get rest and information at the same time. She drops into one headquarters, sits down, picks up some news and travels on to the next headquarters. She wears a Curtis button.

Giving Others a Chance.

"No, I am not a delegate. I didn't want to be. I got to Congress and was in the show there; why not let some of the other women get a chance to see a senator if they want to?"

Of course Alice Roosevelt Longworth is still the one woman at the convention whom all the other women want to see. All she has to do to break up the most serious, if informal, caucus of earnest women politicians is simply to walk through the lobby of the Hotel Muehlbach, intent on her own business. Both she and Mrs. McCormick were highly amused at the report that there had been a rift in their friendship, all because Teddy Roosevelt's daughter wants Hoover for President and Mark Hanna's daughter is working night and day for Lowden.

"Perfectly ridiculous yarn," commented one of Mrs. McCormick's friends. "The house Mrs. McCormick rented has only four bedrooms. There are half a dozen guests so some of them stay at the hotel."

Boosters Intrude Voices.

A goodly number of women, worried at the jokes the Kansas City wind was playing on their curls, forgot the privilege of the nineteenth amendment long enough to flock into a beauty parlor on the mezzanine floor of the Baltimore Hotel. Senator Watson's headquarters is next door.

A crowd of jubilating Hoosiers gathered at the door to sing a hearty "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." The crowd grew bigger, and the first thing anybody knew three husky barytones were shouting "What the hell do we care now" in the booth where a lady delegate was getting a permanent wave.

And just as the women here at the convention were getting ready to say that women had at least arrived politically came news that one of their sorority, Miss Jessie Burrell, of Washington, who had been slated to make a fine speech, had up and got married. She sent word that she'll be on her honeymoon in California when it's time for her to make that speech.

First National Films President Resigns

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Clifford B. Hawley resigned as president of First National Pictures at a directors' meeting today.

Mr. Hawley, who had been a member of the executive committee of the Stanley Company of America, withdrew from the banking firm of Edward B. Smith & Co. last September to become head of First National. This followed the consolidation of the interests of Stanley and First National in March, 1927.

His resignation follows a recent shifting of control of the companies When Waddill Catchings, of Goldman, Sachs & Co., was elected to the board of the Stanley Co. Goldman, Sachs & Co. are bankers for Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc. It is understood that Mr. Hawley will shortly become affiliated in an executive capacity with new interests.

Drinking Fountain Asked in Hillsdale

Numerous civic improvements are asked in resolutions adopted last night by the Hillsdale Citizens Association at the Bethlehem Baptist Church. They include a drinking fountain and fence for the playground on Nichols avenue.

J. A. Watson, William E. Stewart, Charles E. Howard, the Rev. C. B. Ashton and Robert Mason were elected delegates to the Federation of Civic Associations. Mr. Ashton presided.

SITUATION IN PEKING CALLED PRECARIOUS; LEGATIONS GUARDED

Plot by Feng's Troops for Kidnaping of Gen. Pao Is Rumored.

FOREIGN TROOPS MUST DEPART, NANKING RULES

Powers Are Notified Mukden Force Will Be Permitted to Retire in Safety.

Peking, June 11 (A.P.).—The situation at Peking, taken over by Nationalist forces, is considered precarious. Yen Hsi-Shan, military governor of Shansi, and Gen. Pai Tsung-Hsi, commander of the Kwangsi forces, both have arrived and the former announces that he intends to remain indefinitely.

Sandbag defences have been erected around the legation quarter and extra guards were posted last night owing to a report that Feng Yu-Hsiang's troops were planning to kidnap Gen. Pao Yu-Lin, commander of the Forty-seventh Mukdenite Brigade, which, while in the process of evacuating Peking, were made prisoners by the Nationalists.

Pao Yu-Lin took refuge in the legation quarter area after his men were disarmed. The night, however, passed quietly.

Shanghai, June 11 (A.P.).—The Nanking government council, the Nanking government official news agency announces, has drawn up a manifesto addressed to the powers having treaties with China which states:

"Foreign troops must be withdrawn from China immediately.

"The presence of foreign troops is causing mutual suspicion. The practice of the powers in sending forces to whatever part of Chinese territory their nationals happed to reside will compel the Nationalists to exclude foreigners from the interior of China."

The manifesto declares that the reconstruction phase of the revolution has arrived, but that it can not be effectively carried out because of restrictions imposed on China by treaties. Therefore the Nationalists hope that the powers will agree to immediate treaty revision.

Protection for Pao's Troops.

(Associated Press.)

Assurances have been given the diplomatic corps in Peking that the Nationalists will make some arrangement for the peaceful withdrawal from Peking of Gen. Pao Yu Lin's Mukdenite troops, numbering about 1,200 men the State Department was informed yesterday.

The State Department made public the message received by the dean of the diplomatic corps at Peking from Y. L. Tong in answer to the protest made to Tan Yen Kai, president of the executive council in Nanking, over the capture of the Northern troops by the Kuominchun forces after it had been arranged for their peaceful withdrawal from Peking.

"I have the honor," Tong's note read, "to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram of June 9 addressed to Chairman Tan Yen Kai, of the Nationalist government, and to inform you that we have taken note of the contents. We are deeply concerned over your report on the sudden return of Gen. Pao's force to the eastern suburb of Peking after they had already effected their peaceful withdrawal from that city. The Nationalist government has telegraphed to the commanders at the front, instructing them to investigate the situation and to devise means for affording safety to the said force."

RITES AT CHURCH FOR RECTOR RIPLEY

Funeral services for the Rev. Reginald John Ripley, rector of Addison Chapel parish, Seat Pleasant, Md., who died Sunday at Emergency Hospital, will be held at St. Matthew's Church, Seat Pleasant, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, will officiate at the services. Burial will be in the cemetery adjoining the church. Members of the clergy will act as pallbearers. The body will lie in state from 10 o'clock this morning until the funeral in the church.

Dr. Ripley was born 62 years ago in Lynn, Cheshire, England. He was educated at the Manchester Grammar School and at Cambridge University. At the age of 18 years he was foreign correspondent in a Manchester shipping house. After some years he resolved to assume holy orders and in 1900 became senior canon at the cathedral in Jamaica, British West Indies. He remained at the cathedral until 1920, when he became rector of Addison Chapel parish.

Dr. Ripley had a prominent part in the celebration of the 230th and 231st anniversary of the founding of the parish held within the past two years. He was president of the Anglo-Catholic Club of Washington, vice president of the Northern Arch Deaconry and president of the Cleggett Club and belonged to several other church and social orders and clubs. Surviving Dr. Ripley are his wife and four children.

REED'S COMMITTEE HEARS MRS FEICKERT

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Lillian F. Feickert, Prohibition candidate for United States senator in the recent primary in New Jersey, received $3,293.13 in contributions and spent all of it, she told the Reed campaign funds committee yesterday.

Mrs. Feickert, who said she made her race "without any hope of being nominated," declared she had received 26,000 votes.

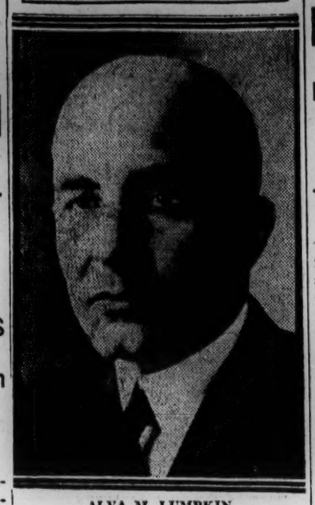

"I know the time has not come for any woman to be elected to the office," she testified. "But I had an opportunity to bring my views before the people."

Edward W. Gray, of Newark, who ran as the wet candidate in the primary, receiving 25,000 votes, spent $3,200, he told the committee. This money came from individual contributions, and he spent no money of his own, Gray said.

This morning at 10 o'clock members of the order will assemble at the temple and journey to Arlington National Cemetery. There they will place wreaths on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and at the foot of the Maine mast. Decorating of the grave of Past Supreme Chancellor Edward Dunn will take place in Congressional Cemetery at noon.

CAPITAL TO WELCOME MEXICAN FLIER TODAY

Diego, Calif., to Mexico City made him a national hero. It was the greatest flight a Mexican had ever made. The other outstanding Mexican aviation achievement up to that time also had been made by Carranza. This was a non-stop flight from Mexico City to Ciudad Juarez, opposite El Paso, Tex., last September.

During the Mexico City-Juarez flight, made in a Mexican built army plane, one of the wings caught fire. Carranza saw a storm ahead and ran his plane into a rain cloud. The rain extinguished the blaze and he successfully completed the flight.

(Special Cable Dispitch.)

Mexico City, June 11.—The flight of Capt. Emilio Carranza to Washington was sponsored by the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior, with funds which were raised by popular subscription. One contribution was received from the United States. The account was 2,500 pesos ($1,250) and the contributor was Charles Augustus Lindbergh.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Chicago Tribune.)

Preparations for a reception in return for that given Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in Mexico City last December have been made for Capt. Emilio Carranza, of the Mexican air service, who is expected to taxi his monoplane to a stop at Bolling Field some time this morning, after a 2,000-mile hop from the Mexican capital.

Acting Secretary of State Robert E. Oolds, and F. Trubee Davison, Acting Secretary of War, will be among the first to congratulate him on completion of his flight. Senor Don Manuel G. Tellez the Mexican Ambassador, and a delegation from the embassy, will also be on hand to greet him.

But before felicitations are in order the flier will be placed in an open car and carried up and down the field, that spectators gathered at the field may view him. Although 10:30 had been set as the approximate hour of arrival, with favorable winds he may reach the Army post hours earlier. Late last night plans called for the official reception committee to assemble at the field at 6 a. m.

Undersecretary Olds will welcome the flier at a special speaker's stand erected on the field. Afterward Capt. Carranza will be escorted to the limits of Bolling Field by Troop F, Third Cavalry, commanded by Lieut. John W. Wofford Here a squadron of motorcycle policemen will take over the escort. Four official cars, bearing Government officials and newspaper men, will join the procession to the Mexican Embassy.

On arrival at the embassy, a salute will be rendered by Troop E, of the Third Cavalry, under Capt. James M Shelton, and Capt. Carranza will be serenaded by the Third Cavalry Band according to present plans. A half hour later he will receive newspaper men at the embassy.

Tonight the Mexican flier will be guest of honor, jointly with members of the French Aeronautical Mission, at a dinner given by the assistant secretaries in charge of aviation, of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments. The dinner, which will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel, was originally planned in honor of the French Aeronautical Mission only.

More Events Tomorrow.

A busy program awaits the Mexican flier tomorrow. At 10:15 he will visit the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. He will be met at the west end of the memorial amphitheater by Brig. Gen. H. C. Williams and his staff, who will escort him through the amphitheater to the tomb. A guard of honor will be present, commanded by Capt. J. I. Wood, of Headquarters Company.

Other plans for the day are indefinite. It is known, however, that Secretary of State Kellogg will receive the birdman at 11:30 o'clock, and may subsequently entertain him at luncheon.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow night Ambassador Tellez will hold a reception in his honor at the Mexican Embassy. Members of the Diplomatic Corps and high Government officials will attend. It was indicated last night that Col Lindbergh may be present.

Capt. Carranza will remain in Washington but two days, unless he alters his plans on arrival, embassy attaches said last night. In all probability he will fly to New York Thursday, they said.

Claudel Given Litt. D. Degree.

Newark, Del., June 11 (A.P.).—Paul Claudel, the French Ambassador, received the honorary degree of doctor of letters from the University of Delaware at commencement today. The ambassador made the address to the graduating class.

Dr. Charles Lee Reese, vice president of the Du Pont Co., received the degree of doctor of science.

LEXINGTON WINS WORLD RECORD; 700 MILES IN DAY

TO JOIN BATTLE FLEET

A world record run of 700 nautical miles in 24 hours by the Navy's new aircraft carrier Lexington, was reported to the Navy Department yesterday by Capt. A. W. Marshall, in command of the 33,000-ton vessel, which left San Pedro Calif., Saturday for Honolulu to join the battle fleet as a unit of the aircraft squadrons.

It logged 437 miles a day. The Leviaits position and the average speed from San Pedro to the point reported, including the period in which the ship was working up to full time, was computed at 29.2 knots. At the time the message was filed the ship was moving through smooth seas under favorable weather at the rate of 30.4 knots. All was reported well. The dispatch stated the ship expected to arrive at Honolulu at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Official computation of distances shows the distance from San Pedro to Honolulu is 2,228 nautical miles and the distance from San Francisco to Honolulu 2,091 nautical miles.

The light cruiser Omaha made the fastest previous passage from San Francisco to Honolulu in May, 1923, in 75 hours, 40 minutes, 40 seconds, from the San Francisco lightship to Diamond Head lighthouse, Oahu, Hawaii. Its speed averaged 27.76 knots. On this voyage, the best day's run of 24 hours was 690 miles.

The fastest day's record on a sailing ship on any sea was made by the "Sovereign of the Seas" on a passage from New York to San Francisco when it logged 437 miles a day. The Leviathan in a 25-hour trial run in 1923 covered 687 miles at an average speed of 27.07 knots an hour. In January, 1911, the Mauretania made a record 24-hour run of 676 nautical miles and in 1924, in a North Atlantic passage, covered 642 nautical miles in 24 hours.

Supervision Is Urged Of Aviation Schools

Government supervision and classification of private flying schools was urged yesterday by Donald MacKenzie, president of the Aviation Service and Transportation Co., of Chicago, in a conference with William P. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in Charge of Aviation. He declared that supervision is necessary to protect the public from exploitation by unscrupulous promoters of schools who are taking advantage of the great interest in aviation to make themselves wealthy.

With T. L. Evans, treasurer of the company, which operates one of the leading schools of the country, Mr. MacKenzie has been in Washington for several days in conference with Government aeronautical officials. Among those with whom they conferred was Col. William Mitchell, with whom was discussed the plan of the former air chief of founding a national aeronautical university.

GALE VICTIM DIES

MRS. AIDA M. WERTMAN.

STORM OF SATURDAY FATAL TO WOMAN

Mrs. Wertman Dies in Hospital of Injuries Suffered When Crushed by Tree.

Mrs. Aida M. Wertman, 49 years old, of 529 Seventh street northeast, died yesterday in Emergency Hospital of injuries which she received when struck by a falling tree at Hains Point during the thundersquall Saturday.

Mrs. Wertman was the most seriously injured of those hurt during the storm. She was with a group of picknickers and was accompanied by her husband, William H. Wertman, and their son, William H. Wertman, jr. One of the huge trees on the point was blown down and pinned her to a table. Her legs were fractured.

The office of Public Buildings and Public Parks yesterday checked up on the trees damaged by the storm, and found that 35 had been blown down on the Speedway. They will be replaced with maple trees.

Dr. W. M. Irvine Dies; Head of Mercersburg

Mercersburg, Pa., June 11 (A.P.).—Dr. William Mann Irvine, head master of Mercersburg Academy, for 35 years, died here tonight. He was 63 years old.

Dr. Irvine was stricken at the commencement exercises of the school last Tuesday. Cerebral hemorrhage was given as the cause of his death by eminent specialists summoned from Baltimore and Washington. One of these physicians was Dr. Joel T. Boone, surgeon on the President's yacht Mayflower.

Both of President Coolidge's sons, John and Calvin, jr., were students at Mercersburg.

The scarlet berries of romance! As you savor their sweet tartness, you recall golden mornings when you slipped down shady lanes to roam in sunny fields—

Now their bright plumpness is comfortably wedged between layers of crisp-baked shortcake that's as light as the heart of a blackbird in June.

Other ripe, juicy berries—lightly sugared—are tumbled over the top of the shortcake, in rich profusion.

And over the whole, running down into crimson juice, is poured thick plain cream.

That's Old-fashioned Strawberry Shortcake Pennsylvania—a dish that will bring back memories of mothers whose baking was an art.

Try it this week on the Liberty Limited—on the diner of any Pennsylvania train. It's just the thing to round out a meal of as fine a quality as you can get at the best hotels.

MAKING THE PLATFORM.

Considering the pressure to which the platform makers of a party are subjected the public should look with a little more charity upon the result of their labors. The task was never an easy one, because of the difficulty of compressing within such a document all of the suggestions for the betterment of the party that have been evolved since the previous convention. What was once difficult has become impossible, for it is now a theory that a platform is not only a party document, but a program for righting all the wrongs of the world.

The situation which exists today at Kansas City is typical. Every faction of the Republican party—and never since its organization did so many divergent viewpoints gather under one label—demands that the platform be an expression of its aims and theories. There are, in addition, a score or more nonpartisan organizations, which deliberately hold themselves aloof from party ties, but see nothing illogical in their insistence upon representation in party platforms. Therefore, it is almost certain that there will be conflicting views to be reconciled on nearly every question with which a platform normally deals.

Only a few examples need be cited. The prohibitionists insist that the eighteenth amendment be upheld in strong language. The American Federation of Labor will not be satisfied unless the Republicans commit themselves to 2.75 per cent beer. Some of the embattled farmers seek indorsement of the McNary-Haugen bill and others do not. The Pennsylvania stalwarts care nothing about farm relief, but demand that the protective tariff schedules be increased. The Progressives, who remain in the Republican party by sufferance and impudence, want to repudiate the administration's Central American policy. The regulars will brook no departure from indorsement of the Coolidge regime. The contrast could be drawn in connection with almost every plank.

Small wonder that when all of these conflicting and divergent ideas are placed in the keeping of the resolutions committee the outcome should be marked by ambiguity rather than clarity. The only way for the party leaders to cure the situation would be for them to reject the advice of those who are not of the party or have no just claim upon it. The Republicans can not hope to speak with a thousand tongues and at the same time make their position plain and definite. They will sacrifice their own policies and principles to the degree that they seek to please everybody, and by so doing they will please nobody.

A POSTAL ACADEMY.

The United States Postal Academy—why not? The question is propounded by Victor Rosewater, writing in the National Republic. The postal service, Mr. Rosewater points out, embraces over 275,000 employes, more than the personnel of the Army and Navy combined. It expends annually more than $600,000,000. The postal service, says Mr. Rosewater, in time of peace is more important socially, industrially and politically than the regular Army and Navy. Its efficiency would be increased many fold by a postal academy in which young men might be properly prepared to assume the active direction of the postal army.

Why should not the postal service be recognized as one of the biggest of businesses, requiring a well-trained personnel, and why should not steps be taken to train that personnel? The postal service, of course, follows more closely usual lines of business than do the Army and the Navy, yet it differs enough from ordinary business to make necessary highly specialized knowledge among postal employes.

Thus far, employes of the postal service have obtained their knowledge in the school of experience. This is a good method, but perhaps better and quicker training could be given, at less cost, in a postal academy.

DISTRICT TAX RATE.

Information that District officials are working out the tax rate for the fiscal year beginning July 1 serves to focus attention again upon the question of the District-Federal fiscal relationship. The new rate will be fixed upon the recommendation of Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor and budget officer, who, in turn, bases his estimate on the new assessment made by William P. Richards, tax assessor. It is believed that the new assessments will not be greatly in excess of those of last year—$1,137,196,162—and it is indicated that the prevailing rate, $1.70 on $100 of assessed valuation, will be continued.

This is not an easy tax rate. On paper, when it is compared with existing tax rates in other jurisdictions, $1.70 does not appear excessive. Washington, however, is one of the few cities in which taxes are paid upon full assessed valuation, and in which the valuation fixed compares favorably with the marketable value of property. This question has been gone into time and again. Comprehensive and convincing reports have been prepared detailing the tax burden under which the Washington property owner labors. Hope was high during the session of Congress that the lump sum method of making appropriations would be sloughed off and an equitable proportionate method substituted. Toward the end of the session, however, the House was able to force its opinion upon the Senate, and the old method was continued for another year.

Washington is about to be informed of the tax rate it will have to meet during the coming year. Whatever rate is fixed, under present circumstances, will be burdensome. The battle for equity should be continued. The smart of the new tax rates should serve to renew interest in a matter that is of vital importance to the continued prosperity of the National Capital.

TOWARD RENOUNCING WAR.

In his address in New York last night Secretary Kellogg expressed the earnest hope that the nations would soon succeed in reaching an agreement as to the precise text to be employed in the proposed multilateral treaty renouncing war. The desire of the leading nations to reach the agreement has been made manifest. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose by renouncing war and agreeing that disputes hereafter shall be settled only by pacific means. But while the end sought is simple and clearly understood, it will probably prove extremely difficult to reduce the proposition to writing.

The abolition of war as an institution means the reversal of fundamental international law and the voluntary abandonment by the nations of an instrumentality that has promoted national policy, good and bad, for ages. If any great power now secretly harbors designs of expansion or encroachment it will probably find plausible reasons for hesitating to sign the text proposed by Mr. Kellogg. If some other power fears any of its neighbors, it too will be reluctant to commit itself absolutely to the pacific adjustment of all disputes.

Mr. Kellogg points out, however, that the pressure of popular opinion is constantly increasing and that governments are becoming more and more responsive to the peoples' wishes. The people are trying to rule out war as a policy everywhere. They wish to see international law revised, so that no nation hereafter can prove its legal right to wage war and claim advantages as a belligerent that it could not claim otherwise. The task of revising international law upon a new basis which would debar the use of war can not be performed by jurists or delegates to an international conference. The question goes to the heart of every country's independence, and can be determined only by the sovereign.

Naturally, the change must be made by the great powers simultaneously, for no one or two of them would dare to renounce war while the others retained the present war advantages under international law. If the great powers, however, should renounce war as among themselves and keep their word, world peace would be practically achieved. Smaller nations would then be safe in adhering to the treaty, and doubtless they would do so.

Some Americans who cordially support the idea of the renunciation of war, and yet cherish the Monroe Doctrine as an essential element of American security, are puzzled by such a question as this: What would the United States do if, after having renounced war, an effort should be made by a European power to acquire a foothold in this hemisphere by purely pacific means? The answer to that question is simple. The treaty renouncing war can not deprive a nation of its right of self-defense. The United States long ago made clear the fact that its security depends upon the maintenance of free governments in this hemisphere. An effort to absorb or overthrow them by an overseas power, however peacefully disguised, would be an act of war, which the United States would be in duty bound to nullify, by force if necessary.

There never would be a conflict between the renunciation of war and the maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine if all parties to the renunciation treaty faithfully observed it. If any of them should violate it, the United States would, of course, be released from its obligations to the offender.

THE SOUTH AFRICAN FLAG.

The flag is universally regarded, and has recently been described, if not actually defined, as the material symbol used to express all those elements which constrain the love of the patriot for his country. The possession of a flag is therefore rightly considered to be a mark and proof of independence and sovereignty or eminent domain. It is for this reason that the long-drawn-out and occasionally bitter controversy on the subject took place recently in South Africa. There were those who wanted a national flag, and there were those who wanted the Union Jack. As often happens when claims seem to be irreconcilable, a compromise has been effected. Speaking on Union Day in the grounds of the parliament buildings at Cape Town, the governor general, the Earl of Athlone, referred to the ceremony of the unfurling of the new flag as a landmark in the history of South Africa, destined to have an enduring influence upon the country. He explained that two flags of the Union were about to be flown together for the first time—the ancient flag, the Union Jack, which had flown in many lands and on many seas, and the new national flag of the Union of South Africa.

The governor general admitted that in the past many South Africans had found no reasons to love the Union Jack, and that to some it had served but as a symbol of bitter memories, but, he asked:

> Have we come together to peer into the last shadows of retreating night, rather than to honor the new day? There can be but one answer—We look to the new day; we turn our backs upon the shadow.

Gen. Hertzog, who had taken an active part in the flag dispute, agreed that when the national flag of the Union contained equally the flags of victor and vanquished, it announced the peaceful conquest of 1910 over the battle and defeat of 1902, and he declared that "it would tell of the eventual impotence of battle and war against the irresistible authority of peace." He took care, however, to point out that the Union Jack, the second flag of the Union of South Africa, did not fly as the flag of Great Britain, but as the flag of the Union, expressing the association of South Africa in the British Commonwealth of Nations, and that it was in a "spirit of patriotism and cooperation that these two flags have been hoisted here and elsewhere today."

Gen. Smuts explained how it was that the unique situation of South Africa enforced compromises. He expressed the hope that now at last finality had been reached, and that the flag would become a spiritual asset and source of inspiration. These pious wishes will be heartily indorsed by every one who has the peace of the world at heart.

THE TARIFF PLANK.

Probably no phase of the platform upon which the Republican party is now engaged will entail more work or command more attention than the section devoted to the tariff. Protection is a political fundamental with those who are now in session at Kansas City. It is on this issue that one of the sharpest distinctions between the two parties is drawn. The Republican pronouncement upon the tariff no doubt will be drawn with great care.

There is a demand from the industrial sections for a revision of the schedules drawn in 1922. Many manufacturing interests, more particularly those in New England and Pennsylvania, feel that the existing rates were drawn too soon after the war to serve as a true foundation for a protective system. Others are of the opinion that the flexible provisions of the existing tariff act have served no good purpose, and that it would be better to restore to the hands of Congress the power to adjust schedules that may need changing from time to time. There are, also, the farmers, some of whom feel that by increased duties on their products they may gain the relief for which they have been clamoring.

The party's stand on the tariff is not a question, which can be disposed of offhand. Protection may prove the means, if properly developed, of reconciling the extremes of the party, and since it is so essentially a Republican doctrine it ought to provide common ground for all. One difficulty which must be considered is whether the Republicans will have the legislative strength with which to put into practice the recommendations of the platform. Satisfactory tariff revision could not be accomplished with the House and Senate as they are now constituted. A solid and substantial protective tariff plank might prove a factor in increasing the Republican majority in Congress.

AVIATION'S WORST ENEMY.

Thick fog and heavy rains have combined to hold land-bound Miss Amelia Earhart and the crew of the plane Friendship, floating fueled and ready for a flight to Europe. Fog prevented Commander Byrd from landing the monoplane America after he had successfully flown from New York to Paris a year ago. Fog constitutes one of the terrors of aviators, and thus far attempts to combat or dispel it have been unsuccessful.

Years ago, says a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture, Sir Oliver Lodge thought he had solved the problem of fog dispersal with an electrical apparatus that he set up on the roof of his house. The scheme failed. Again, the London County Council was approached with a plan for dispelling the famous London fogs with explosives, but since a similar scheme had failed in Italy the council refused to appropriate funds for the purpose. Immediately after the world war the city of Lyons voted funds for fruitless experiments in fog control by coating the rivers Rhone and Saone with oil. About the same time the Cottrell process of electrical precipitation, successfully applied in treating industrial dusts and fumes, was vainly tried on the fogs of the California coast. Recently the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia has been the scene of experiments in dissipating fog by means of electrified sprays, but no tangible results have been announced. Schemes for draining off fog from flying fields and for warming the air over such places, thus causing the fog to evaporate, have been investigated and found impracticable.

Until means have been found to dispel fog aviators must learn to fly through it, aided only by such mechanical contrivances as may serve to make their senses more acute. Lighted beacons with fog-penetrating properties have been developed and promise to be of great service in guiding pilots to fogbound fields. The radio beacon, together with the automatic height indicator, fulfills a somewhat similar function. Fog is still a terror to be avoided if possible.

MORE AUTOMOBILES.

As a result of the removal of the excise tax on automobiles, manufacturers are confident that June will be a record-breaking sales month. In May, members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce produced a total of 388,700 units, a new high output for the month, representing an increase of 14 per cent over May last year. The total output of chamber members for the first five months of the year is 20 per cent over the corresponding period of a year ago. Beginning with June, it is believed, the industry as a whole will show important gains over the 1927 totals, particularly in view of the fact that this year the Ford plants are again in production.

With expected increases in production, it is natural that interest in the so-called saturation point of automobile distribution should be revived. Where, it is asked, can America put any more automobiles? Who, say the pessimists, will be able to purchase the increased output? Manufacturers each year have been able to dispose of their increased output, but one still hears talk of troubled days ahead.

One market that has not yet been adequately supplied, lies in the foreign field. Last year, according to a statement made recently by J. D. Mooney, president of the General Motors Export Co., foreign purchases of motor cars and trucks of American origin totaled approximately 500,000 units. Within a comparatively few years, he said, this market will demand 1,000,000 cars annually. The foreign market, however, can not absorb the entire increased output of the American motor car manufacturer. It is true that there always will be new buyers and first-time multiple-car owners, and that the American replacement market will continue to need a large quantity of cars. Yet as the old-established companies continue to increase their output, it seems inevitable that they will be forced to go out after markets that previously belonged to the weaker independents. It is not likely that prosperity can continue for all. The weeding out process, however, will have a beneficial side.

A Bold Start and a Lame Finish

PRESS COMMENT.

Slumbering Dynamite.

St. Louis Globe Democrat: Finally the prohibition question will rise up and rend the politicians—but no use to let it rise any sooner than he can help, thinks the politician.

Lots of Men.

Atchison Globe: Lots of men who feel they need a big city to give full opportunity to their talents haven't been big enough to make good in a small town.

And There You Are.

Brooklyn Eagle: One big business man, who doesn't like to be investigated and can be witty on occasion, says Smith vs. Hoover would be Corkscrew vs. Screwdriver. Some people may remember this later on.

The Darling Thing.

Louisville Times: Don't think we didn't have stunts in the Mauve Decade, too. Ask Dad to tell you about the fellow who fearlessly rode a bicycle down the steps of the Capitol Building.

'Tisn't So.

Milwaukee Journal: Another one of the very many things that isn't so is the statement of a bridge expert that nobody plays poker any more.

Super-Salesmanship.

Ohio State Journal: Our idea of super-salesmanship crystallized into definite form yesterday when a member of the Women's Republican Club of the Franklin Avenue Protective Association got $10 for the building fund out of the leading Al Smith man of the neighborhood.

Birds.

Akron Beacon Journal: Four billion birds in America! Well, well. When the bird who sticks ads on parked cars is found, there will be 3,999,999,999.

How Polit'cal.

New Orleans Times Picayune: One of the group of lagoons surrounding the summer White House on Brule River is appropriately named "Pork Barrel Lake." How charmingly political that sounds.

That Would End It.

Indianapolis News: Some of the delegates evidently are waiting for President Coolidge to say that he doesn't even choose to choose.

Politics and Government.

Boston Transcript: Politics is declared to blame for poor city government, but, to be fair, it must be admitted that as long as officials are chosen by popular vote, politics will have something to do with good city government.

And Only Then.

Buffalo News: Once in a while you see a man who doesn't want any more money. He is holding a lily.

The Transatlantic Flights.

Philadelphia Ledger: North Atlantic weather is obviously no respecter of persons. For weary days and nights it has held Miss Earhart and Miss Boll anxiously teetering on the edge of their great adventure, as it held Commander Byrd and other distinguished pilots back a year or more ago. But, obviously, too, the storms are impartial. Each of the two daring women is determined to be first of her sex to complete the transatlantic hop, and each is similarly balked by the unfavorable winds reported by meteorologists. More gallant than Nature, the public is wishing for both aspirants the best of conditions throughout their daring ventures. Whichever of the two first touches the shores of Europe may be assured of its enthusiastic acclaim. And regardless of what the public may think of the wisdom of the proposed adventures, it will continue to hope that both Miss Earhart and Miss Boll come safely through.

Rivers of Doubt?

New York Sun: What if all those Wisconsin trout streams do not choose to run?

Inevitably.

Atlanta Constitution: This is the month of weddings and cooing. The billing follows.

Exposed.

Atlanta Constitution: It is now proven that Senator Heflin has been talking through his hood.

Arguing Against Progress.

Baltimore Sun: A British railroad will race an airplane on the London-Edinburgh run, and it claims in advance that its passengers will enjoy the scenery more than those who fly high and miss the details of the landscape. So did another generation speak when swift express carried it at tremendous speed through country which it had traversed before in trains so slow that they almost persuaded their passengers to feel at home, permanently, in the great out-of-doors. And so did conservative patrons of the stage coach argue against traveling by train. And will ordinary fliers thus discuss the rocket plane?

Use for That $7,000.

Witchita Beacon: If Senator Borah can't find any other way to dispose of the $7,000 he raised toward a $160,000 "conscience fund," we'd suggest that he donate it for the building of a pygmy statuette to be known as "Political Conscience."

The More Enemies an Animal Has, the More Prolific It Is

By ROBERT QUILLEN

GOVERNMENTS, parents and individuals create most of their own troubles. They live in anxiety and burden themselves with problems because they don't understand the simple laws of Nature.

Nature has established rules. Play the game her way and she lends a hand; try to circumvent her and she works against you.

That simple fact is so glaringly obvious that a simpleton should be able to see and comprehend it, and yet the world is full of well intentioned and apparently sane people who multiply sorrow by their futile and foolish efforts to teach Nature new tricks.

Consider the dandelion. Dip the point of an ice pick in a bottle of sulphuric acid and puncture the heart of the plant with this poisoned weapon. It dies. But if you break off the stem and thus thwart Nature's effort to produce dandelions, she retaliates by producing two stems.

Climbing roses, peach and pear trees must be pruned very little. It is their nature to produce much new wood; endeavor to combat that growth and Nature girds up her loins and produces twice as much as she normally would.

Surely the lesson is clear enough! It is the nature of steam to expand. Compress it and something blows up. It is the nature of water to run down hill. Dam it and there's a flood.

An obstacle is a dare. Wherever and whenever you place an obstacle in the way of Nature, she sets herself the task of generating sufficient power to overcome it.

Now consider the child. If it is free to play in the street, the street seems no more attractive than the yard. Restrict it to the yard and its nature crys for liberty to play in the street.

Liberty is Nature.

The beginning of all rebellions is the word "don't." The fewer "don'ts," the wiser the parent and the better the child.

The best government is the one that governs least. Freedom is a state of mind. Men are content with chains placed on themselves: but a crown unwillingly worn is proof of slavery.

People of the colonies had more freedom than citizens of the United States have today. But they heard the clank of chains because their master was an individual who said "Thou shalt" instead of the anonymous tyranny that now restrains them in the name of liberty.

Every "verboten" sign is an invitation to rebellion. The greatest enemies of law and order are those who make unnecessary rules.

The success of the Yankees doesn't prove anything except that the man with the most money can own the fastest car.

A country isn't going to the dogs while a majority still reads the last chapter first to see if the story turns out right.

A mere human couldn't be as smart as a man feels after trimming Wall street for about $600.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

One Family's College Record.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I notice among the Associated Press dispatches in your paper yesterday that the McGills of Arkansas claim a world's record in education, the dispatch coming from Camden, Ark.

I submit that my father's family beat this record. Of the fourteen children who grew up to manhood or womanhood, thirteen are graduates of college or university, one from Kansas University, one from Wellesley College and eleven from Oberlin. In addition to the college work, two of the family have graduated also from theological schools, one from medical school, two from library school, one from law school, and others have had postgraduate work at Columbia, Harvard and the University of Berlin.

Crowding Up to Street Cars.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the most frequent infractions of the traffic regulations is the crowding up of autos on street cars stopping to take on or discharge passengers. It is a very common thing to see autos crowding up against the rear end of the street car, and a very rare thing to see one stop at the regulation distance in the rear. This crowding is not altogether by taxis or buses, but private cars are the more frequent violators. It is getting quite common now for autos to race past a street car, not stopping at all. The other day I saw this done three different times between R and U streets, on Fourteenth street. Would it not be well if street car companies would instruct their conductors to take the license number of all autos failing to obey regulations and report the same to the proper authorities? On one occasion I saw a lady make three attempts to get from the curb to a waiting street car, but was balked each time by autos running by.

A CITIZEN

Saved From Unemployment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are in the Bureau of Engraving today about 80 printer and twice as many of their female helpers who have reason to give thanks to The Post. Last Friday an editorial appeared in your columns which showed that in an endeavor to gain credit for "turning back into the Treasury" a large sum at the close of the fiscal year the unnecessary furloughing of 240 of the employes, whose combined wages aggregate $1,440 each day had been ordered. Under the proposed furlough during the remainder of June there would have been a loss of $22,600 by these workers simply for the purpose of "making a Roman holiday" for the director of the bureau.

You and your readers will be interested in knowing that before 10 o'clock on the morning of the publication of The Post's editorial, Henry H. Bond, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who has authority over the bureau, appeared in the office of the director and that a conference was held which resulted in the immediate revocation of the furlough order. The Post is directly responsible for the fact that during the month of June, 240 employes of the Bureau of Engraving will be able to earn upward of $22,000 more than they would have received but for The Post's timely comment.

Your advertisers, the business men of Washington, are the indirect beneficiaries, for there will be many thousands more dollars to be expended among them than there would have been but for the fact that The Post called the attention of the Assistant Secretary to the plans of the director of the Bureau of Engraving. We thank you.

The wedding of another of this season's debutantes took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, when Miss Celeste Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Pope, became the bride of Dr. Thomas Lyon Fentress, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, of Hubbard Woods, Ill. The ceremony was performed by Canon Anson Phelps Stokes.

The chapel was decorated with white roses, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of heavy white satin made with a full skirt and long sleeves, trimmed with duchess lace. The veil was of tulle with a cap of the same lace, which was originally worn by her mother on the occasion of her marriage, and the bridal bouquet was a combination of white gardenias and lillies of the valley. The bride was attended by two college mates, Miss Esther Wurst, of Buffalo, who wore beige point d'esprit lace, and Miss Catherine Roberts, of Johnstown, Pa., who wore point d'esprit. Both dresses were made with long ruffled skirts with large blue bows at the waist and large blue hats. They carried bouquets of pink roses and blue delphinium. Mr. Calvin Fentress, jr., of Hubbard Woods, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Miss Pope is the granddaughter of the late Judge G. W. Wall, of Duquoin, Ill., and was graduated from Wellesley College in 1627. Dr. Fentress was graduated from Princeton in 1924 and from the Harvard Medical School this spring.

The bride's mother wore a blue lace gown with a blue hat.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. G. W. Wall, Mr and Mrs. H. O. Pope, of Duquoin; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, Mr. and Mrs. James Fentress and Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon, all of Hubbard Woods, Ill.

A small reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the wedding. Dr. and Mrs. Fentress will pass the summer at Brier Neck, Gloucester, Mass.

NOBILE LEADING 5 FROSTBITTEN MEN ACROSS ARCTIC ICE

Two of Little Party Injured; Three Men Are Missing After Separation.

ATTEMPTING TO REACH RESCUE SHIP BRAGANZA

Main Group, Adrift, Rations Food; Has Medicines; Nearing Land.

London, June 11 (A.P.).—Small hope for the three members of the Italia's crew who left the rest of the expedition after the dirigible was forced down on the Arctic ice is held out by advices received in London.

A special to the London Mail from Oslo said that when these three men started out in search of land, they had no food and took no extra clothes with them. All advices from the north agree in reporting that nothing has been heard from them since they disappeared from the sight of their comrades.

Two Hurt as Gondola Fell.

Oslo, Norway, June 11 (A.P.).—Reports to the Italian legation from the Citta di Milano, base ship at Kings Bay for the Nobile Arctic exploration party, confirm that three of the party are missing and that two are hurt.

The advices state that the Italia's crew is particularly short of drugs and that they are rationing their provisions which, thus economized, may last six weeks or more.

The reports to the minister state that the gondola, which became detached from the dirigible, contained six men, including Gen. Nobile. Two of this half dozen suffered broken legs when the gondola dropped on the ice.

Others Were Carried Away.

The rest of the vrew, borne away by the big bag, landed about 20 miles eastward. Three of the party, who started across the ice toward land, have not been heard from.

The advices to the minister emphasize that the ice conditions would prevent airplanes from landing and that a strong ice breaker is the only practicable means of rescue.

Capt. Otto Sverdrup, Arctic expert, was pessimistic about rescuing Nobile and his men. He thought that ice breakers offered the best chance of rescue, but he doubted whether vessels could reach the castaways in time.

Nobile Leading Five to Land.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 11 (A.P.).—Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader of the ill-fated Polar expedition on the dirigible Italia, is leading five of his men across the Arctic ice in an effort to meet the steamer Braganza. Two of this party are suffering from hurts incurred when the gondola of the ship was torn loose by its first contact with the ice.

This information came in radio messages received late today. The messages added that the men still have a small supply of fuel, but that their progress is hampered by the frost bitten hands and feet, coupled with the condition of the injured men.

The Italia's crew split into three groups when the disaster occurred on May 25. Gen. Nobile and his companions were left behind when the gondola was torn away. The others in the crew came down on the ice about 18 miles farther east.

Three of this second group started across the ice toward land. Nothing further has been heard from them.

Others Have Sufficient Food.

The remainder of the main group, including the wireless operator, report they have sufficient food, but that the provisions are being rigorously rationed. They need medicines for those suffering with frost bites. They report themselves as drifting on the ice, but generally westward toward land.

Little progress was reported by the rescue ships Hobby and Brangaza. The latter is making the best headway eastward around the north coast of the archipelago and it generally is believed that she will be first to reach the stranded explorers.

Lieut. Luetzow Holm, whose base ship is the Hobby, was forced down in his seaplane at Mossel Bay after a vain effort to get back to the vessel through a heavy fog. His fuel was almost exhausted, but he had enough left to fly to the Braganza and drop a note telling of his situation. A radio message to the Hobby resulted in that vessel's starting a supply of gasoline to Holm over the ice by dog sledge.

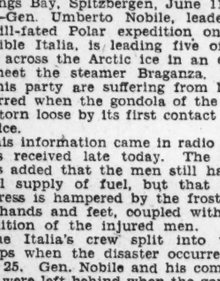

Sees None of Crew.

Holm reported definitely that he had seen nothing of any of Nobile's men on his flight. He did, however, meet a party of Alpinists under Capt. Sora which started overland from Kings Bay last week. He found these men at Mossel Bay.

An ice breaker of greater power than either the Braganza or the Hobby is the main hope for quick rescue of the Italia crew. The fact that the Russian government has started northward two of the most powerful ships in the Arctic brought cheer to the anxious watchers here. It was fervently hoped that they would make good speed.

New Clews Are Found To Child and Kidnaper

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—The police today began their second week of searching for 10-year-old Grace Budd and the elderly "Frank Howard," with whom she disappeared, with two fresh clews concentrating the hunt in the central area of Manhattan.

A telegram received at the Budd home signed "Frank Howard," read "been over in Jersey on business, call in the morning." The police traced the message and were able to obtain a specimen of the sender's handwriting.

A street peddler has been found who remembers having sold a pot of cheese to the man calling himself Howard, on the day before the abduction. Howard presented the cheese to the Budd family saying that it came from his farm.

REPORT OF SEA STORM DELAYS BOLL TAKEOFF

Levine Reveals Plane Was to Head for Europe; Miss Earhart Also Waits.

SETS FLIGHT FOR TODAY

Curtiss Field, L. I., June 11 (A.P.).—With their monoplane Columbia fueled for the long flight to Europe, Miss Mabel Boll and her pilots, Capt. Arthur Argles and Capt. Oliver C. Le Boutillier, rested all day hoping for favorable weather reports late tonight.

A lone mechanic appeared at the airdrome following upon a last minute postponement of the takeoff early this morning, and worked on the motor.

Postponement of the takeoff came shortly before the hour set by Miss Boll last night in an announcement that a start would be made today. She had said that the Bellanca plane would leave the runway at Curtiss Field at 5 a. m.

Levine said that weather reports he had received from steamers at sea indicated there was a storm along the course mapped out for the plane. He disclosed that it had been the intention of Miss Boll and the two men who are to accompany her on the flight to head directly for Europe, had the plane taken off this morning.

Trepassey, Newfoundland, June 11 (A.P.).—A sudden break in the weather today brought hope of an early resumption of Miss Amelia Earhart's transatlantic attempt in the Fokker monoplane Friendship. When the sun broke through the fog after several days of unfavorable weather, Miss Earhart and her companions, Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, mechanic, announced that they would fly tomorrow.

Throughout the day conditions continued to improve and tonight the fliers appeared jubilant over the imminent prospect of continuing their ocean venture.

Cubans to Compete At U. S. Rifle Match

Havana, June 11 (A.P.).—A Cuban rifle team will enter the American national rifle championships at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Officers of the Cuban army have already started practice at Campo de Tiro, Fort Cabanas. The team will probably be headed by Capt. Alberto Gandia.

Comments on Sermons of Scholastic Ministers

By Augusta E. Stetson, C. S. D.

(Broadcast from WHAP, June 6, 1928)

ON MONDAY morning I opened the New York Herald Tribune to the page containing reports of the Sunday sermons by ministers of various creeds. One of the first to meet my eyes was the statement of Dr. A. Wakefield Slaten, who spoke about the informal war in Nicaragua, in which 21 Americans and 200 Nicaraguans have been lost. Dr. Slaten said, "I can hear their voices asking, 'Why did we die?' "

In all kindness, I must repeat the words of Jesus, as applying to these scholastic ministers, "They be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch." (Matthew 15:14.)

Why do mortals die? Because they think the thoughts that produce death, namely, lust, greed, hatred, revenge, idolatry, fear, ambition, and human hypnotic will-power; they die because they think and act in sin, and "the wages of sin is death." (Romans 6:23.) They die because they are taught that death is the inevitable and natural end of all men and things. And who has taught them this falsity, this contradiction of the words of Jesus Christ, who said, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death?" (John 8:51.) The self-same scholastic clergymen, who are asking in the press, "Why do we die?"—they have taught the people that they must die; they have sown in their minds the seeds of death, so-called. They call themselves followers of Christ, ministers of His gospel. But do they preach that gospel? No, they preach and live the opposite of it.

The Bible from which these ministers take their texts, supplies the answer to the question, Why do mortals die? St. Paul tells us plainly, "To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace . . . For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live." (Romans 8:6, 13.)

Life in pursuit of fleshly appetites, or mortal life, a false sense of existence, is not condemned effectively by the clergy; for they officiate at the union of flesh with flesh, call it a sacrament of the church, bless its material fleshly generation, and then bury it in the dust of the earth, at the end of its mortal term.

Christian Science, discovered and founded by Mary Baker Eddy, my great spiritual Teacher and Leader, has taught the nothingness, the unreality, of this fleshly dream of life and intelligence in matter. Christian Science has revealed the spiritual meaning of the gospel of Christ Jesus; it is the promised Comforter, which Jesus said the Father would send in His name; the second dispensation of Truth, or coming of Christ. As of old, scholastic ministers have no ears for the spiritual truth renewed in our age by the same Christ consciousness, manifest this time as a woman, Mary Baker Eddy. In Jesus' time, the orthodox rabbis, the scribes and Pharisees, scoffed at His message, scorned Him, and at least crucified Him, because His spirituality rebuked their carnality, and the following He gained endangered their income in money from the people.

Another minister, Rev. William Henry Owen, assistant to Bishop Manning, preached at the ordination of two priests of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Addressing the new priests, he said:

> "Yours is indeed the supreme mission. Men are beating the air, seeking after God almost in hysterics. They are thirsty for something—they know not what. But you possess the secret. You hold the key that can unlock the doors and lead them unto Him who alone can satisfy their thirst."

What secret do these scholastics possess? What key have they to unlock the door to Christ? Has this orthodox sectarianism, which has come down to us from scholastic theology, and further back, from pre-Christian paganism—has this sectarianism fulfilled the command of Christ, "Go ye into all the world, preach the gospel to every creature, heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse the lepers, cast out demons"? They do not raise the dead, but bury the dead. Their churches carry the advertisement of the sexton and undertaker. Spiritual healing, the heart and center of Jesus' ministry on earth, which Mrs. Eddy restored in Christian Science, is forgotten by Christ's professed followers of today. Healing has been relegated to the medical fraternity, who delve into matter, flesh, vivisect animals with fiendish cruelty, and distil poisonous potions, in the vain effort to heal mental conditions with doses of matter. Wars increase in ferocity and destructiveness; the cunning of chemical and electrical science is applied to creating liquid fire, poisonous gases, high-powered explosives, torpedoes, giant bombs; all this has continued under the leadership of the so-called Christianity of the scholastic ministers. Jesus said, "Thou shalt not kill," and "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

Turning a catch phrase, Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick said in Park Avenue Baptist Church, "The only successful way to save religion is to get a religion that will save us." That is quite true, and in reply, I invite Dr. Fosdick and all the other ministers to ponder the fact that the religion that will save them is here, and has been available to them for many years. Christian Science, leading away from the flesh and the material concept, into Spirit, is this saving religion. Christian Science preaches life, not death. It indeed possesses the secret, that thoughts are the cause of phenomena, that disease follows sin or wrong thoughts, that life in the flesh results in death, while spiritualization of consciousness brings newness of life.

Well may the clergy begin to inquire, "Why should we die?" Why should man kill his brother as Cain killed Abel? Why should the world continue to think death, instead of life, when God is Life and God is eternal? Why do not the clergy preach Christ and his mighty gospel of external Life? Why does scholastic theology dwell upon the crucifixion of Christ Jesus—which Mrs. Eddy defines as a crime on the part of those who accomplished it and in no wise a vicarious atonement? Christ Jesus entered the valley and passed into the tomb to prove that man is deathless, spiritual, the reflection of God, not the offspring of flesh, or Adam-Eve. Every one must follow him in this demonstration and find Life in God, Mind, Spirit, Soul, eternal Life and Love, the only Father-Mother. O, clergy of the twentieth century, you have a weighty responsibility resting upon you. If you do not teach the people eternal Life you are not preaching the gospel of Christ's healing, which he taught his disciples and which they practiced. If you continue to preach the second chapter of Genesis, which says that man creates man through flesh, to sin, suffer and die, you are not preaching the gospel of Christ and that is why you die.

Read and study the eighth chapter of Romans and learn, from Paul, the great metaphysician of Jesus' day, that death is the wages of sin and that eternal Life is the gift of God; that to be carnally minded, that is, to live in the flesh, indulge its pleasures and, as a consequence, suffer its pains, is death; but to be spiritually minded is Life eternal. Since God is Spirit and God is All, and man is His image, or reflection, as a ray reflects the sun, it follows that death is an illusion of the carnal or so-called mortal mind and not the outcome of thinking God's thoughts after Him.

In 1884 Mary Baker Eddy taught me, in three classes of twelve lessons each, including a review class, the mighty truths of Christian Science, or the Science of Christ, who came to the world to teach mankind how to attain eternal Life. Mrs. Eddy sent me to New York City in 1886 to "establish the Christianity of Christian Science in New York City." I have done this. My church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, stands at the corner of Central Park West and Ninety-sixth Street. Its spire is capped by a pyramid, the symbol of man's eternal existence as the child of God. My "mansion," which is one of the "mansions" which Christ Jesus promised to his disciples when he, Christ Jesus, should come again, stands next to my church; and radio station WHAP, my "pulpit of the air," is adjacent to my home. Surely my Father-Mother God has well cared for me, as my blessed Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, assured me he would. I am fully equipped to preach the gospel of Christ, eternal Life in God, Spirit, which is the right of every man and woman and child to possess.

I beseech you, my dear brethren of the clergy, to awake from the dream of life in the flesh. "Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light." Awake from the mesmerism of the carnal mind, the belief of life in matter, flesh, in the reality of its pains, and what is worse and far more dangerous, in the seduction of its pleasures. Awaken yourselves and arouse your people to struggle out of the flesh and into Spirit, the natural realm of spiritual man. I intend to urge you continuously, until you do this; for the reign of terror and death must forthwith cease from the earth; and I intend to continue, as I have for the past forty years, under the mighty inspiration and impulsion of my forever Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, to cause so-called death to cease from the earth. "There is no death." Then why do men and women die? They seem to die, because of sin, for death is the wages of sin. And what is sin? Dear brethren of the clergy, do you not see that your flocks are going into the bypaths of sin, wandering about in the maze of a so-called world of matter, or flesh, and you are not showing them how to escape from it? Paul says, "The wages of sin is death," but the clergy teach that death is the gateway to Life eternal. Why do you not teach the people the truth that Jesus taught and which healed the sick? Christ healed the sick and raised the dead. Why do you not learn Christ's method of healing, how to live, how to love God and your brother man, who is God's child, for there is one Father-Mother, eternal Life and Love, and so resist the wages of sin—death?

All who live after the flesh, Paul asserts, will die, "for to be carnally minded is death." Yet, even this is illusion, for there is no death and all who seem to die awaken to know that they have not died, that they must again take up their problem of gaining the Mind of Christ and learn life in God, who is eternal and limitless Life. No one really dies, for God is the only Life and man is His image. You may ask, "Did not the marines in Nicaragua die?" I answer, "Mortal man appears to die, but he awakens to learn that he has not died and that he must, either here, or hereafter, find his life in God." You may ask me, "Did not Mrs. Eddy die?" I say, NO. Mary Baker Eddy never died, neither did she live in the flesh, any more than Christ Jesus, who conquered death and the tomb and reappeared, victor over them. Christ Jesus manifested the Fatherhood of God, the masculine representative of the Principle of Being, Life and Love. Mary Baker Eddy, in the fullness of time, appeared as the feminine representative of Christ, Truth, the Motherhood of God. Jesus said to his disciples:

> "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.
> "And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14:2, 3.)

I can testify that Christ has reappeared, and that he has prepared me a mansion in my Father's house, and I have occupied it for many years. No good thing has the second manifestation of Christ withheld from me, and I should like to impart to my brethren of the clergy the key to the Science of Life, the Key to the Scriptures, which is Science and Health, by Mary Baker Eddy. She will conquer death, so-called, as Christ Jesus vanquished it at his first appearing, and will reappear, to prove that man, in the image of God, eternal Mind, is deathless, immortal. I have proclaimed this and will continue to proclaim it, even should I have to wait many years more for its fulfillment; but I anticipate the reappearance of my Leader, Mary Baker Eddy. The second appearing of Christ is imminent.

You ask me, "Do you not expect to die?" I answer, No, I intend to demonstrate eternal Life in Christ. I have not been striving all these many years to attain the Mind of Christ, merely to arrive at death; my goal is eternal Life. I say with Job, "I know that my Redeemer liveth and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth"; and because he lives, I live also. I intend to prove the validity and efficacy of Christ Jesus' words, "If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death." I shall continue to keep close to Christ, at his second appearing as the Motherhood of God, in my Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, to watch for her coming, and to follow her in overcoming so-called death, which is always the result of fleshly thinking, and consequently of fleshly living. Again you may say, "Did not Mrs. Eddy go down into the tomb?" That was only an unreal, fleshly belief. Mary Baker Eddy never died. Her last audible words were, "God is my Life." Since God is eternal Life, she claimed her life in God and she will prove that her conscious individuality is eternal in Mind, and is not contingent upon matter, or flesh, as Jesus proved this spiritual fact at his first demonstration of the power of spiritual thought-force, which he had taught his disciples.

Mrs. Eddy has commissioned me, her student, to occupy until she appears, to maintain the truth and purity of Christian Science, namely, that man is the image of God, deathless, eternal and spiritual, and she will prove this to a waiting world. David sang, "I shall not die, but live and declare the works of the Lord." I repeat these words of David, with an understanding of their spiritual vitality and truth; therefore, I shall live, not die, and welcome Christ at his second appearing, which is now imminent. I shall continue to proclaim to the people that all life is eternal, since Life is Spirit, or God, and that they must awake to put on eternal Life, by thinking God's thoughts after Him, and not submitting in any way to the flesh, its pains or its pleasures, yielding to which causes death, so-called.

Christ Jesus suffered out of the flesh; and so must all who follow him in his demonstration. They must strive to demonstrate life in God, and this means a battle with self. Many of those professing Christian Science have become faint of heart, wearied of the struggle, and have yielded to the last enemy, that they should have overcome. Jesus fought to the end, on the cross, and walked forth triumphant from the tomb, in proof of eternal Life. Jesus came the first time, in Palestine, to demonstrate the Fatherhood of God, and to overcome Adam, or the fleshly, masculine belief; and the second time, Christ has appeared in this age, in consonance with the prophecy of John in Revelation, as "a woman clothed with the sun," that is, a woman having the full understanding of Spirit, the sun of righteousness, to demonstrate God's Motherhood, and that man is in reality the child of God, and not the offspring of flesh. Mary Baker Eddy is the second appearing of Christ, in this age. Man is now discerned to be wholly mental, spiritual, the reflection of omnipotent Spirit, Mind, Soul, Principle, God; and thus the fullness of the Godhead bodily is shown to be reflected in His offspring—man in God's image and likeness.

I know that you, as my brethren in the ministry, want to heal the sick and overcome death, as Jesus did. I urge you to cease teaching the second chapter of Genesis, of Adams and Eves, who bring forth Cains and Abels, but teach the true spiritual creation of the first chapter and hold man up to his rightful place, as the image and likeness of his Father-Mother God. I know that my mission is to behold Christ and reveal God's beautiful world, His creation, His trees, His fragrant flowers, His mighty rocks and vast oceans, His animals which He created, and His man, whom He made in His own image and likeness. In God's universe, His creatures all manifest His love.

> "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them." (Isaiah xi, 6.)

In the exquisite words of Frances Ridley Havergal:

> From glory unto glory, with no limit and no veil,
> With wings that cannot weary, and hearts that cannot fail,
> Within, without, no hindrance, no barrier as we soar,
> And never interruption to the endless more and more—

more and more of Life, more and more of beauty, more and more of the "liberty of the sons of God," more and more of Spirit, of Love, of peace, of heaven. I must continue to awaken the people from the dream and mesmerism of so-called death. I must arouse the world to fight for spiritual Life, eternal Life in Mind, and awaken the clergy to their sacred duty to preach the true gospel of Christ, which is contained in the first chapter of Genesis, wherein all creation is the reflection of God, Spirit. They must cease preaching the false account in the second and third chapters of Genesis, the story of the lying, talking serpent of material sense, which tempts man and woman to assume the prerogative of God, and assert themselves to be the creators of man, or a false belief of man in flesh. I intend to accomplish this mission, just as I have fulfilled my Leader's commission to "establish the Christianity of Christian Science in New York City." I have preached the gospel of Christ in this great city for more than forty years. I have healed every form of disease brought before me, including so-called cancer, through spiritual reflection alone, or the knowledge and understanding that God is the only Life, and that man is spiritual, God's image and likeness, therefore man is perfect and immortal. The fleshly man is not God's image, for the fleshly belief must be relinquished and overcome, and man must find his life in God. The clergy must awake and help the people to save themselves from a perverse generation, a seeming universal hynotism of the carnal mind, the materialistic beliefs of the age.

Like my Master, Christ Jesus, I have been persecuted by my brethren; but I have overcome the persecution of those who have not risen to spiritual sense, by my reflection of divine Love, by loving "more for every hate," as my Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, taught me, and by knowing that God is Love and Life, man's only Creator, and that man is immortal. I do not fear "hatred, scoffing and abuse," nor the seeming power of these to harm me, because I have risen to understand that my life is hid with Christ in God, and that I live by divine authority, as my Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, taught me. She gave me the great commission to establish the mighty truth of Christian Science, in accordance with her teaching, who is forever the Head of her Church, the Church of Christ, Scientist, and is for all time its Leader without successor. She will reappear, to take visible control of her Church and to purge it of all worldliness and sensuality.

After my long years of service to the cause of Christian Science, in the organization stage of Church activity, in the course of which I, with my students, built First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York City, the Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, saw that I was ready to emerge from material organization, and ascend with her in spiritual organization, in the compact of Love and Life and Truth. In 1909 she addressed a spiritual message, entitled "The Way of Wisdom," to her "dear brethren in New York City," telling us that when we desired to build higher, we "must begin on a wholly spiritual foundation, than which there is no other . . . Spirit is infinite; therefore Spirit is all. 'There is no matter,' " flesh. The only reply to this message was sent by me and my co-trustees of my Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York City. When the materialists in Boston, the directors of The Mother Church, assumed the authority to question my interpretation of Christian Science, which my Leader had given to me, and dropped me from the rolls of material organization, this was, in effect, a demonstration of the injunction which the Leader, Mrs. Eddy, had given me in her Message, just as Jesus's crucifixion at the hands of materialists was an inevitable step in his proof of the power of the Christ-mind over the forces of sin, disease and death, so-called. But this call of Mrs. Eddy was only for me and my students, who had prepared ourselves to take this spiritual step. It was not for the Field at large who were in the primary stages of development in spirit. Therefore, Mrs. Eddy instructed the Field to remain under the directors. This held the churches open, preserved distribution points for her books, so that the public in the future, as in the past, could obtain them. From the pulpits only the reading of the Holy Bible and of Science and Health, without comment, was permitted under the Church Manual, as the Leader knew that the organization members, under the directors, were not qualified to preach.

I shall continue to fulfill her command implicitly, as I have for more than forty years, and I shall proclaim the eternal life of Christ, the Son-Daughter of God. I joyously await the reappearing of my Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, as the second appearing of Christ in the Motherhood of God. I intend to live, and continue to resist so-called death, which is nothing but the result of sin, or belief of life in matter, flesh. Life is God, and man is the image of God; therefore man is spiritual, deathless, immortal. The world must awake to this truth; and I shall proclaim it, until my Leader, Christ Jesus-Mary, the Fatherhood and Motherhood of God, appears. I shall continue my spiritual work of awakening the clergy to the realization of their sacred duty, to preach the Gospel of Christ, which is eternal life in Spirit, not in flesh. I shall continue to preach to the people, over the air, through Station WHAP, the allness of Love and the nothingness of the claim of death, until I arouse them from self-imposed mental bondage to unreal beliefs. I do not believe in death, or in matter, flesh; therefore, I shall triumph over the claim called death. I know that I am the spiritual reflection of God, eternal Life and Love, as are all men in their reality, as Christ Jesus and Mary Baker Eddy taught. The clergy today must preach Christ, and cease producing Cains and Abels in material generation, to sin and to die. "Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils," cries Isaiah.

Clergymen of the twentieth century, my heart goes out to you in love, as I call you to awake, and learn that Life is God, and man is God's image and likeness, in accordance with the teaching of Christ Jesus and Mary Baker Eddy. Get Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures; study it, ponder it, learn the true meaning of Christ's gospel, which it unfolds. Take it into your pulpits and preach from it; read it to your flocks. The people will not continue to come to your temples to be told that death is inevitable, or is real. Life is the eternal reality; man does not live in flesh, but in Spirit; there is no death. The "Key to the Scriptures," Science and Health, is the guide to eternal Life for all mankind. In the words of its author, Mary Baker Eddy:

> "Man, made in His likeness, possesses and reflects God's dominion over all the earth. Man and woman as coexistent and eternal with God forever reflect, in glorified quality, the infinite Father-Mother God.
> " 'Genesis i., 27. So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him. . . .'
> "The harmony and immortality of man are intact. We should look away from the opposite supposition that man is created materially, and turn our gaze to the spiritual record of creation, to that which should be engraved on the understanding and heart 'with the point of a diamond' and the pen of an angel.
> " 'Genesis ii., 6. But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.'
> " . . . The Second Chapter of Genesis contains a statement of this material view of God and the universe, a statement which is the exact opposite of the scientific truth as before recorded.
> "The history of error or matter, if veritable, would set aside the omnipotence of Spirit; but it is the false history in contradistinction to the true.
> "The Science of the first record proves the falsity of the second. If one is true, the other is false, for they are antagonistic. The first record assigns all might and government to God, and endows man out of God's perfection and power. The second record chronicles man as mutable and mortal—as having broken away from Deity and as revolving in an orbit of his own. Existence, separate from divinity, Science explains as impossible." (Science and Health, pp. 516, 521, 522.)

Christ Jesus said, "I will come again." This promised coming is fulfilled in Mary Baker Eddy, as compound spiritual idea, manifesting the Fatherhood and Motherhood of God, eternal Life and Love, or the Godhead bodily, the second coming of Christ. She will never have a successor, for her impersonal spiritual presence is forever here, in verification of Christ's words, "Lo, I am with you alway." I repeat, I joyously await the reappearing of my Leader, Mary Baker Eddy, as the second appearing of Christ.

one can OR six

In your grocery store, you'll hear some women order one can of Heinz Cooked Spaghetti—

Some women order six cans.

Why the difference?

The first women have never tasted it before. They don't know its flavor. They are "trying it".

But the next time they'll probably order six, too. For they will know then that it's as good as they could make themselves and so much less bother.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

MRS. HIBBARD SCORES IN "THIRTEENTH CHAIR"

SUPERSTITION IS RAMPANT

After trying their several hands at romance, rebellion, movie madness, with a dash of Oriental lore of only a week ago, the National Theater Players are this week rounding into midseason form with their favorite article of diet: A mystery play. The play purveyed for those who would be thrilled is "The 13th Chair," the well-known thriller that Bayard Veiller penned for the theatergoers of another era.

First nighters, anticipating a rip-snorting murder story, turned out in full force—and the reality of their satisfaction made the rafters ring more than once.

Bayard Veiller's "The 13th Chair" has become an institution in the American Theater. A pen-product of the author who created "Within the Law" and the current "Trial of Mary Dugan," this drama has to do with another lady of the Veiller imagination. "The 13th Chair" is a lively story in its entirety—strangely reminiscent of the antics of the thespians in the lamentable "Donovan Affair."

The story has a highly proper inception: In the drawing room of the home of the fashionable Will Crosbys There are twelve guests assembled in honor of a son's announcement of approaching wedded bliss. To add zest to the party a certain seance-sister, one Madame LaGrange, is ushered into the scene—and the happy choice of Mrs. Hibbard in this role went well with the customers. From the moment Mrs. Hibbard makes her bow the show holds her in the center of its spotlight. To reveal the plot of "The 13th Chair" would be akin to sacrilege—but to make an observation as to its excellence would not be amiss. It is the sort of play that calls for darkened stages—and unholy knockings on walls—and strange, short breathings from the balcony—and many observations as to the integrity of the butler.

As is the custom of the Cochran-Brooke combine, this, "The 13th Chair," has been cast with an eye on the capabilities of the personage. Mrs. Hibbard has the big part, which reflects great credit on her ability; John Glynn Macfarlane (the hero of last season's offerings) is back in harness again as the police inspector; Stanley Ridges is a somewhat forlorn lover; Dennie Connell dies early in the first act; Leneta Lane is nicely cast; and the small parts are farmed out to the remainder of the cast of seventeen.

Charles Squires has done a fine job with the one scene—Mr. Brooke makes a nice little apology for a program omission—and a startling engraving of Lee Somers stares at one from page 6 of the program.

DIRECTED VERDICT REFUSED STEWART

Hogan and Rover Will Make Arguments to Jury Today.

(Associated Press.)

The motion of defense attorneys for a directed verdict of not guilty in the trial of Robert W. Stewart, charged with a misdemeanor for refusing to answer questions put by a Senate committee, was denied yesterday by Justice Siddons in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The jury was excused until this morning when Frank Hogan, chief of defense counsel, and Leo A. Rover, district attorney, said they would require the remainder of the day for argument on motions for instruction.

Hogan noted exceptions when the Court refused to direct a verdict for Sewart. He also moved for reconsideration of the ruling striking out defense testimony to show which members of the Senate public lands committee were actually present when Stewart was called before it.

Rock Creek Sewerage Study Group Named

The Piney Branch Citizens Association last night at a meeting in the Hamline M. E. Church appointed a committee to study the sewerage in Rock Creek Park with a view to drawing up a resolution recommending its improvement. The resolution will be submitted to other citizens associations for adoption.

The members of the committee are W. E. Hoffheims, H. J. Brown and E. E. Papst. Children, it was stated, play about that part of the sewerage system in Rock Creek Park which is exposed and are menaced by the deadly germs from the tubercular hospital and other sources. A resolution offered by G. L. Shorey opposing the establishment of dog kennels for commercial purposes in residential portions of the city was also adopted at the meeting C. W. Mitzler was admitted to the membership of the association. Edgar B. Henderson, president, presided.

DeWolf Hopper Company Gives Best in "Robin Hood"

Entire Cast Takes Every Advantage of Opportunities With Which Old Favorite Abounds. Star Scores in Sheriff Role.

"Robin Hood," presented this week at Poli's by the De Wolf Hopper Comic Opera Company, is probably the most satisfying light opera ever written, for it is at one and the same time a pleasure to both the audience and the cast. The DeKoven score and Smith book abound with opportunities. By now they are all old favorites and last night they gave the members of the Hopper company every opportunity to put their best foot forward. They did so in more satisfactory fashion than at any time this season. This was more particularly true in the second act where everything sparkles.

"Robin Hood," for one thing, gives Mr. Hopper the best chance that he has had since opening week. As the Sheriff of Nottingham, drunk or sober, the veteran comedian has ample scope for his talents. The humor is applied with a broad brush and enhanced by the capabilities of Mr. Hopper.

Other notable features of the evening were the return of Forest Huff, whose rendition of "Brown October Ale" was not only in splendid voice but in a spirit which has been lacking since the era of Volstead dawned, and the opportunities which the production gave Ann Yago, as Alan-a-Dale. It is not necessary to dwell on the merits of "Oh, Promise Me," hundreds of voices have done that since the song was first written, but Miss Yago emphasized the possibilities of the old favorite.

Miss Lillian Glaser, as Maid Marian, and Oliver Reese, of Robin Hood, were in an element that suited them and their exceptional voices. And the fact that Ed Metcalfe had two such bass solos as the "Tailor's Song" and the "Armorer's Song," detracted not a whit from the enjoyment of the evening.

There was a noticeable improvement this week also in the choral work of the company. It seemed, in fact, as if the productions that have already been done here have increased the ability and interest with which every member of the cast tackles his job. There has certainly been no let down in the quality of each week's offering, and if the improvement already shown continues new heights will be reached before the season is over.

COLLAMORE AGAIN BIBLE PRESIDENT

Home Institute Chooses Him for Eleventh Term; Others Elected.

Edward Winslow Collamore was elected to serve his eleventh term as president of the American Home Bible Institute last night at the tenth annual convocation of the organization in Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South, Ninth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Other officers elected were Miss Hannah H. Frick, vice president; Miss Ethel Vance, general secretary; William W. Tuckey, treasurer; Miss Mary A. Harvey, registrar; Mrs. Mary N. Parry, Miss M. L. James Shera Montgomery, member of the advisory board.

Reports of the work of the organization showed that 4,000 members were enrolled in the United States and Canada, of which 730 are in the local school. Twenty-nine students were awarded certificates of credit for work accomplished in the past year.

French Air Experts Are Expected Today

Eleven French aeronautical experts, members of a special commission created by the French Committee for the Development of Aeronautics, are expected to arrive at Bolling Field at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon for a brief visit here The experts have been making a tour of the United States to study aeronautical conditions in this country and will leave for France this month.

The French visitors will be guests of honor tonight at a dinner tendered them by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics; Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, and William P. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics The commission began its tour of the United States on May 25 from Hadley Field, N. J., and has just returned from its visit to the West coast by way of Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and other large cities. Weather conditions delayed the party for several days. They were expected to reach Washington last Saturday.

Clayton and Roberts Lauded in Edgewood

Commendation of their work and confidence in the stand of William McK Clayton, chairman, and W. A. Roberts, vice chairman, of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, was voiced in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Edgewood Citizens Association held last night at the Lincoln Road Methodist Episcopal Church.

The resolution commends the work done by the two on the merger problem and condemns the tactics of the minority who have opposed these men in their stand on the merger The resolution was adopted after considerable discussion in which many of the members commended the two committeemen. H. C Turner, vice president of the association, presided. The association voted to suspend meetings until October.

July 4 Celebration Planned by Citizens

The citizens' committee appointed by the District Commissioners to arrange for the local celebration on July 4, in the board room of the District Building yesterday made preliminary plans for the observance.

It was decided that if the citizens want a display of fireworks they will have to pay for it, and to this end the committee issued an appeal for residents to contribute $1 each to a fund Checks should be sent to the Community Center Department, or to Isaac Gans, chairman of the finance committee.

CHEVY CHASE SCHOOL GIVES DIPLOMAS TO 9

Don Carlos Seitz Urges Students to Avoid Harmful Leadership.

Nine students yesterday afternoon received diplomas from the Chevy Chase School at graduation exercises in the auditorium of the school, 6410 Connecticut avenue, Chevy Chase, Md.

Six of the graduates are of the junior college. They are: Mary Frances Bethell, of Florida; Kathryn Sommers Glaser, of Missouri; Catherine Shirley Herzig, of New York; Edith Sylvia Ollive, of New Jersey; Isobel Frances Spender Owens, of New Jersey, and Mary Harriet Owens, of New Jersey. The other three were graduates of the senior high school department. They are: Cherie Burnham, of Illinois; H. F. Patricia Collins, of Montana, and Marietta Shorter Robinson, of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. S. E. Farrington, president of the school, made the presentations, which were preceded by an address by Don Carlos Seitz, of the New York Evening World. He said the young people of today had a greater sense of propriety than the older persons It is a case of daughter and son guiding father and mother, he said Seitz urged the students to avoid harmful leadership. The World War was the result of such a leadership, he said. The Rev. Henry T. Cocke pronounced the invocation and benediction. The National Stringed Quartet played.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 11.—The fifty-second academic year of Johns Hopkins University closes tomorrow with the conferring of the degree of bachelor of arts on 84 students and the degree of doctor of philosophy upon 56 students, of whom 7 are women. Fifty-four received the degree of bachelor of engineering. The M. A.'s number fifteen, including two women. Seven of the 70 to receive the degree of doctor of medicine are women, and the winner of the William H. Howell award is Miss Sarah Sheldon Tower, of Chicago.

Dr. J. S. Ames, dean and acting president in the absence of Dr. A. J. Goodnow, now in England, will deliver the address to the graduates and will make some important announcements.

Among those who will receive degrees are the following residents of the District of Columbia: Charles Calvin Brunner, bachelor of science; Doris Mabel Cochran and Richard Harbert Smith, master of arts; Raymond McGeary Hann, Garvis Hovannes Keulegan and Arnold Henry Scott, doctor of philosophy.

More Police Urged In Congress Heights

The Congress Heights Citizens Association requested better police protection for the Congress Heights School at its meeting last night in Congress Heights Baptist Church.

Miss Sara A. Tichenor, principal of the school, reported that on a number of occasions unknown persons had broken into the school and staged some "wild parties." Although nothing has been removed from the school, she stated, bottles and other refuse was scattered over the building. The association also urged the zoning commission to change Wheeler road, from Trenton street to Alabama avenue, into a residential A zone, instead of a first commercial zone.

A thousand new sights and things to do

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA did not "just happen" to become the world's motion picture capital. Here—conveniently assembled for the moving picture director, as for the tourist—is almost every kind of natural scenery that the world affords. And when you see a picture depicting life in Europe, Asia, Africa or South America—usually the out-of-door scenes, at least, were made in Southern California.

You have seen these places in moving pictures. Come and discover them for yourself. See new sights, do different things, get that refreshment of mind and spirit which comes from a complete change. You'll see rearing Alpine peaks, snow-clad in June. You'll see gay and colorful watering places. You'll see Spanish Missions, reminiscent of early days—crumbling, yet full of old world color.

You'll see the rocky headland at Santa Monica resembling a stretch of the Riviera. A desert like Sahara providing unique foliage, or a sandy waste. Gardens of rare blossoms set in velvet lawns. You'll see giant monarchs of the forest contrasting with green acres of oranges, avocadoes and walnuts—vast wildernesses but a few hours' ride from famed hotels, theatres and restaurants. You'll see an island playground, Catalina, rising from the sea. A great valley, once desert, now growing the fruits of the tropics.

The hub of all these near-by scenes is Los Angeles, modern city of a million happy people. At close-by Hollywood at night in the mountain-surrounded Bowl, you will hear and see "Symphonies under the Stars" directed by world-famous conductors. And Los Angeles County is not only one of the country's richest in natural resources, but in it are located many of California's finest playgrounds. The annual agricultural output of this single county is valued at $92,000,000. Through its harbor lies a new gateway to Hawaii and the Orient.

Here, too, are delightful sunny days—with no rain all summer long to interfere with industry or recreation. Come to rest and relax, or come to play! Bring light wraps for evening (but no umbrella). You'll sleep under blankets. Whatever your favorite sport, you will find it here—at its best. Sixty-five evergreen golf courses will challenge your skill to the very limit!

Come by rail, steamship through the Panama Canal or motor. Railroads offer special low round trip fares effective until Oct. 31. You can see the entire Pacific Coast at small extra expense. Ask your nearest ticket agent for details. Send for our 52-page book on Southern California vacations.

Come this summer. Return revitalized in mind and body. You'll call it the best investment of your life!

LORD URGES DRIVE TO CUT PUBLIC DEBT TO $15,000,000,000

Budget Director Despairs of Reducing Annual Expenses to $3,000,000,000.

Calls on Business Heads of Government for Fight to Balance Accounts.

Admitting the improbability of again getting the Government's expenditures down to $3,000,000,000 annually, Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget, set a new objective for the business organization of the Government at its annual meeting yesterday —that of reducing the national debt to $15,000,000,000 in the next three years.

"It is with regretful resignation to the inevitable that admission is made of the improbability of again getting down to that $3,000,000,000 mark," Gen. Lord said, "and so I offer a new objective: 'The national debt down to $15,000,000,000 in three years.' It is an objective worthy of our best effort. Every dollar applied to the debt means permanent reduction in expenditure, another step toward adequate tax relief, a contribution to national defense."

By the close of the present fiscal year, June 30, the debt will be approximately $17,650,000,000, or more than $8,000,000,000 under what it was eight years ago he stated, but it will not be of manageable proportions, so that it can be administered in a normal way, without resort to extraordinary measures, until it is down to $15,000,000,000.

$94,000,000 Deficit Threatens.

He predicted a surplus for the present fiscal year of $308,000,000, which will bring the total surpluses for the last eight years to $3,000,000,000. A threatened deficit of $94,279,000 faces the Treasury for the fiscal year 1929, however, he said, as a result of new laws increasing expenditures, combined with the new tax law that reduces revenue.

"If I mistake not the purpose and policy of the Chief Executive, a deficit will not be tolerated," Gen. Lord declared. "Expenditure will be kept inside revenue, no matter what the decrease in revenue may be."

He advised department heads to work out their 1929 spending program carefully in advance, providing first for the things that must be done, and going slowly on other obligations, so that if, as the year develops, the President finds it necessary to impound funds in order to avert a deficit, it will not interfere with priorities.

"Make no expenditure that can be avoided," Gen. Lord warned. "In view of what awaits us, people in the service who are not prepared for a fight should get in training immediately, for a fight is sure brewing in the interest of a balanced budget."

Club Saves $20,000,000.

Approximately $20,000,000 will have been saved this year through the Federal Two Per Cent Personnel Club, which is finishing its second profitable year, he stated. Last year by permitting vacancies in the Federal service to remain unfilled wherever possible, $21,573,436 was saved, he said, and the policy will be continued through 1929.

"People in the Federal service should be given an honest day's pay for an honest day's work," Gen. Lord declared, "and should have opportunity for advancement to the positions the quality of their service merits."

"Of all employers in the world the United States Government should be the last to fail to properly pay for service rendered and the last to fail to recognize diligence, loyalty, and ability," he asserted.

The struggle for recovery in this country from the World War—the fight for return to normal conditions of business—is a glorious record of patriotic effort, of wise administration, and reveals a faith in our Government and its ideals that is reassuring of the stability and soundness of the Republic, Gen. Lord declared.

Budget Has Justified Self.

Outlining some of the many achievements of the Budget Bureau since its inception eight years ago, he said that despite adverse criticism, the budget system has justified itself, and that the thinking, well-informed people of the country realize they are better off with it than without it.

In 1927, the last complete fiscal year, the Government spent $2,044,000,000 less than was expended in 1921, the last year free from budget interference, Gen. Lord pointed out. Hundreds and thousands of contributions, big and little, the results of the successful efforts of service people to cut out needless expense and make the taxpayer's dollar work overtime made up that savings, he said.

The budget organization found the Government as a whole blissfully oblivious of the value of prompt settlement of its bills, he stated. Few Federal agencies had given consideration to the advantages derived from prompt settlement of obligations—advantages consisting not only of the saving of cash discounts, but in better prices, better goods and better service a prompt-paying customer gets, he explained. Today the entire Federal organization is alive to the necessity of prompt payment, and up to and including June 30, 1927, the Government's discount earnings totaled $4,507,907, he said.

$75,000 Saved in Phones.

A survey of the Government's telephone facilities by experts from the Bureau of Standards saves it $75,000 a year, and has been ever since it was inaugurated by the bureau seven years ago, he said. The Federal message center, under which arrangement Government agencies in Washington have their official messages sent free to any part of the world where the Army and Navy have radio stations, last year saved the Government $1,711,923.25, while the record for nine months promises a saving this year of $2,183,000, he pointed out. This latter saving will cover the expense of the new Federal building proposed for Seattle, he said, and is one that goes on from year to year.

In the disposal of surplus war supplies, Gen. Lord said, the Budget Bureau brought the supply and need together, coordinated chaos, and successfully engineered the most stupendous selling effort in history. It sold goods to the value of $3,539,679,861.32 and saved for the Government $143,981,115.36, he declared.

With the first year of the budget the policy was adopted of putting aside a reserve to meet unexpected needs, and what was left after caring for emergencies was saved. June 30 next the balance in the general reserve will be in excess of $384,000,000, the budget director said.

267 Coordinating Agencies.

"The effective work of our great coordinating agencies, the profitable labors of our wide-awake Federal business association—267 in number—scattered all over the country, better business methods that are saving millions of dollars annually, the improved morale of the service, of inestimable value, and the development of teamwork, potent for efficiency—all these have been barely mentioned in this discussion, but they contributed the lion's share to the $2,000,000 reduction," Gen. Lord declared.

In closing his address, Gen. Lord paid tribute to President Coolidge, addressing him as follows:

"Mr. President, preparation for this meeting has been brightened by a sense of gratitude and of elation that I have been privileged to serve during these stirring days of national rehabilitation. It has been a great opportunity to labor under your far-sighted leadership, with the loyal, faithful people in the service. Shoulder to shoulder we of the Federal service have fought to carry out the wise policies you have defined. There have been trials, but there have been compensations; there have been mistakes, but there has been real achievement. I think we have all found joy in service."

WASTE HIT BY PRESIDENT

speculation, which contributes nothing to the sum of our national wealth," he said.

Predicts Balanced Budget.

Turning to the fiscal affairs for 1929, the President declared that although the figures would indicate a deficit of $94,000,000, he did not face the year with any thought that the budget would not be balanced.

The President gave the estimated receipts for the fiscal year 1929 as $3,707,000,000, against estimated expenditures of $3,801,000,000. The fiscal year now closing, he said, would show a surplus in excess of $400,000,000.

In preparing the budget estimates for 1930 for the next session of Congress, President Coolidge declared he had tentatively fixed upon $3,700,000,000 for expenditures, which he said would be $60,000,000 less than for 1929 for ordinary routine operations of Government.

Following President Coolidge's address, Director Lord, of the Budget Bureau, urged the Government officials to tackle the task of a balanced budget with the spirit of the water-boy aboard "Old Ironsides."

The President's speech was as follows:

Members of the Government's business organization:

It has always seemed natural at these business conferences to discuss the finances of the Government in their relation to national prosperity. While that relation, I believe, is exceedingly intimate, it is nevertheless possible to place upon it altogether too much emphasis. It is true that our Government has been established and is conducted for the people. Its finances should be so administered as to promote their welfare. Yet the reciprocal duties of the people should by no means be forgotten. The obligation is equally on them to support the Government with their services and with their money. This has to be done not only when times are good but when times are bad. The Government of the United States must always be supported for its own sake.

It has been my endeavor, however, to manage the national finances as to secure the greatest benefit to the people. I have rejoiced in keeping down the annual budget, in reducing taxes, and paying off the national debt, because the influence of such action is felt in every home in the land. It has meant that the people not only have greater resources with which to provide themselves with food and clothing and shelter, but also for the enjoyment of what was but lately considered the luxuries of the rich. We call these results prosperity. They have come because people have been willing to do their duty. They have refrained from waste, they have shunned extravagance. They have paid their debts, they have improved their credit. If, out of all these efforts, the reward of prosperity has come, there is reason for national thanksgiving.

Prosperity No Obligation.

It would be unfortunate, however, if out of these discussions the impression should be gained that it is the obligation of the Government to furnish the people with prosperity. They are entitled to such an administration of their affairs as will give them every fair opportunity, but it should always be remembered that if there is to be prosperity they must furnish it for themselves. Neither should it be supposed that prosperity is something to be worshiped. The moral power of the people

Pressure is also low over the Canadian Northwest. High pressure prevails along the middle Atlantic and southern New England coasts and thence southeastward to Bermuda, 30.26 inches. During the last 24 hours showers have occurred in the South Atlantic States, the south portion of the middle Atlantic States, the north portion of the Gulf States, Tennessee, the plains States, the north Pacific States, and at scattered points in the middle and northern Rocky Mountain region. Temperatures have fallen in Virginia, the interior of the south Atlantic States, the northern Plains States, and the middle and southern Rocky Mountain region, and have risen in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, the southern Plains States, and the north portion of the west Gulf States.

The outlook is for showers Tuesday morning along the middle Atlantic and southern New England coasts, and for showers on Wednesday in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, and portions of the middle Atlantic States. Elsewhere the weather will be fair Tuesday and Wednesday in States east of the Mississippi River. Temperatures will rise on Tuesday in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, the middle Atlantic States, and the southern Appalachian region.

Our Responsibility and Our Obligation

"The American Telephone and Telegraph Company accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust. Its duty is to provide the American public with adequate, dependable and satisfactory telephone service at a reasonable cost."

WALTER S. GIFFORD,
President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company
(Bell System)

¶ This expresses the policy which has guided the Bell System from its beginning. By a strict adherence to it there has been created a great, nation-wide system of communication which has placed every city, town and hamlet in the United States within reach of every other city, town and hamlet.

¶ Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor, more than fifty years ago when the telephone was in its infancy, made the prophecy that such a nation-wide system would some day become a reality. It has become a reality, because from the very beginning of the industry down to the present time the management has continuously worked with this objective ever in mind.

¶ The very nature of the telephone business necessitates a single interconnected system. It is, therefore, without competition in the usual sense. This in itself imposes an exceptional responsibility and obligation, amounting to a public trust. Speculative profits have had no place in its development. Always the management has had before it the ideal of rendering a service as nearly perfect as possible, at rates as low as would be consistent with financial safety—thus to encourage the most wide-spread use of the service throughout the nation.

¶ The result is that today the United States, with only 6 per cent of the population of the world, has 60 per cent of the world's telephones. And at no time in the history of the industry has greater progress been made in the development of the telephone art than is being made at the present time.

COOLIDGE PRAISES BUDGET SYSTEM

may be just as great, the standard of character may be just as high, the entire spiritual condition of the Nation may be just as good in time of adversity as in time of prosperity. It all depends upon what use is made of the rewards of success. It is always possible to use them extravagantly and in disreputable ways. It is also possible to use them as the main supports of the real progress of enlightened civilization. Prosperity is only an instrument to be used, not a deity to be worshiped.

It is my firm belief that for the most part the people of the United States are making a proper use of their prosperity. When we emerged from the war with its great burden of debt and high taxes, it soon became evident that, although the country appeared prosperous, in reality it was consuming its capital. It was necessary to bring it back to a condition where it would live on its income and out of its surplus restore its exhausted capital. The first step in that direction was National Government economy. To secure this a Budget Bureau was established by the Congress to bring appropriations within our resources, and a comptroller general's office was established to bring expenditures within appropriations. It is seven years now since this plan went into effect. The results are far beyond anything which could have been foreseen.

Depression in 1921.

The industry and trade of the United States in 1921 were suffering from grave depression. They had been severely affected by the inevitable reaction from the war period. Our foreign trade was experiencing a great decline. Production had been sharply restricted. There were many cancellations of orders. Business failures were numerous. Railway traffic, commodity prices, and the value of securities declined by June, 1921, to the lowest point in a decade. Unemployment had reached a most disquieting state. The prevailing feeling in the commercial world was one of pessimism and profound uncertainty. Commercially speaking, we were at that time at the bottom of the pit.

There is a striking contrast between those dark days of 1921 and the remarkably favorable position of our trade industry today. It is the human element in the situation that deserves to be stressed first, and here the question of unemployment comes strongly to the front. In July, 1921 more than 5,700,000 people were without work in the United States. At the present time, according to the most careful computation by the Department of Labor, the number is not much more than 1,800,000, nearly half of whom are normally to be expected as temporarily unemployed while in transit from one position to another. Forces are in operation which promise to take care of many of those who still find themselves without remunerative employment.

Manufacturing output during the first quarter of 1928 was at a rate nearly one-third higher than in 1921. Iron and steel production was more than twice as large as in the earlier year, and the automobile industry has shown a much more rapid growth. Various manufacturing industries have achieved an extraordinary increase in efficiency, and the average output per worker is therefore substantially greater.

The mining industries were in a particularly depressed condition in 1921, whereas several of them have been very active thus far in the present year. Check payments, electric-power production and contract awards for new building have had, in the early months of 1928, a monthly average about twice as large as in the year 1921. Railway traffic is about one-fourth greater. Agricultural prices have been more favorable during the current year, whereas the reverse was the case in 1921.

Stabilization and Security.

Stabilization and a feeling of security have been the primary factors in the great "upward swing" of American industry and commerce since 1921.

The one and only interest of our Government is the interest of our people. The two are inseparable. We have approached the tax question from the angle of requiring no more from the people than necessary efficiently to operate the Government. The effort has been to reduce the cost of government so as to make room for tax reduction. That effort has been singularly successful. Since the commencement of the fiscal year, July 1, 1921, we have had four reductions in taxes.

The revenue acts of 1921, 1924, 1926 and 1928, when fully operative, will reduce taxes by approximately two billions of dollars a year as compared with what would have been collected if the act of 1918 had remained in force. It is inconceivable that in such a short space of time the Government could cut its tax rates to that extent. Yet that has been done. Millions of individuals in the lower brackets have been entirely stricken from the tax rolls. Personal exemptions for individuals and heads of families have been greatly increased. Preferential treatment has been given to earned income. War taxes and nuisance taxes have been repealed. Business has been freed of many hampering and uneconomic restrictions. Instead of a complicated and burdensome system of wartime taxation, there has been evolved a system of few and relatively light taxes, balanced in such a way as to give benefits to all classes of taxpayers. The prosperity of today can be directly attributed in a large measure to the lessening of the burden of Federal taxes.

Debt Cut $6,327,000,000.

The reduction which has been made in the national debt since July 1, 1921, has contributed much to the ability of the Government to lessen taxes. That reduction at the end of this fiscal year will amount to approximately $6,237,000,000. The total debt will then be $17,650,000,000. It is one-third paid. The total saving in interest over all that period will amount to approximately $950,000,000. The reductions in the debt required by law for the same period total $3,296,000,000. By the end of this fiscal year we will actually have applied to debt reduction $3,031,000,000 more than required by law. That represents what was saved from national revenue. These, together with refunding operations which converted securities bearing high rates of interest into securities having lower rates, represent a perpetual saving in interest of $274,000,000 per year. The tangible results of constructive economy in the business of government are clearly indicated by the reductions in taxes and public debt.

We have been favored with a long-continued era of prosperity. Year after year the tide of good fortune has steadily risen. It seems not yet to have reached its flood. Measures and policies that contribute to a continuance of good times should be encouraged. Whatever threatens to interfere therewith should be discouraged. Students of business trends, experts in economic conditions, view with alarm the continued advance in the cost of government. The cost of government in the United States, Federal, State, and municipal, in 1921, was $9,500,000,000. In 1925 it had increased to $11,124,000,000. During that period the national Government had reduced its expenditure by $2,000,000,000. In that period, States, counties, municipalities, and other taxing agencies increased their cost by $3,500,000,000. The year 1926 recorded another advance in cost to $11,607,000,000. This steady increase in governmental cost on the part of the States and municipalities is a menace to prosperity. It can not be ignored. It can not longer continue without disaster. It will not correct itself. I can conceive no more dependable guaranty of genuine prosperity than a Nation-wide effort in behalf of less and wiser spending by State and local governments.

Extravagance Labor's Worst Foe.

Already the adverse effects of the great increase in such expenditures, with the corresponding rise in their taxes, are being felt. With much capital in the country, new investments are showing a tendency to be insufficient to furnish as good a market as we could wish for labor. While no serious unemployment exists, and the trend of wages is still advancing, if all the money that can be made in employing labor is going to be taken away in local taxes, old and established industries will attempt to struggle along, but new enterprise is not going to be undertaken. About the worst enemy of the wage earner is Government extravagance. Another adverse tendency is for people to take their money and use it in speculation, which contributes nothing to the sum of our national wealth.

In conducting the business of the Federal Government we must necessarily look to the welfare of the future as well as the requirements of today. We are embarked upon a program of perfecting the physical plant of the Government. This involves a large outlay of funds and years for its completion. The means to accomplish this have been derived from the policy of economy in the expenses of government.

I am not now concerned with the current fiscal year which closes within a few weeks. We will have for that year a substantial surplus in excess of $400,000,000. I am, however, concerned with the outlook for 1929, for which appropriations have been made, and with 1930, for which detailed estimates will be prepared within the next few months. Taking into consideration the legislation enacted during the last session of the Congress, we find that for 1929 our receipts will be about $3,707,000,000 and our estimated expenditures $3,801,000,000. These estimates might seem to forecast a deficit. We must not have a deficit. I am acquainting you with what the estimates show so as to impress upon you the need for the utmost care in arranging your expenditure programs for the coming fiscal year. I am counting on the prosperity of business for an increase in receipts. I am counting on you for a reduction in the amount of your estimated expenditures. I do not face the coming year with any thought that we will not balance the budget.

This Nation is committed irrevocably to balancing the budget. Nothing short of a national emergency can trespass upon that commitment. We are facing a situation where the full utilization of the funds authorized by the Congress may exceed our estimated receipts. The duty is upon us to see that our outgo does not exceed our income. One of the main principles of a budget is the estimating of receipts and expenditures in advance of the period to which they relate. The business of our Government is a real business and it must be conducted as such. It immediately affects 120,000,000 of people. If there is anything worth while, it is the welfare of these 120,000,000 of people.

In less than six months the budget for 1930 must be laid before the Congress. I intend that the estimate of appropriations contained therein shall reflect expenditures well within our estimated receipts. With this in view I have tentatively fixed upon $3,700,000,000 as the amount available for estimates for 1930. This figure covers tax refunds, permanent and indefinite appropriations, the postal deficit, and funds for extraordinary new projects, amounting in all to $460,000,000, which were not included in the maximum for 1929. The amount contemplated in the 1930 restrictive figure for the ordinary routine operations of government is really less by $60,000,000 than the availability for these purposes in 1929. The necesity of keeping expenditures within receipts, the importance of continuing our pay-as-we-go policy, can not be overemphasized. This primary limitation on estimates is the first step toward the continuation of that policy in 1930. It means that there will be no latitude for expansion where expansion is not made compulsory by new law or by conditions that leave no choice. In preparing your preliminary estimates for 1930, which you will submit to the Budget Bureau by July 15 next, you must keep this in mind.

Each succeeding year gives added evidence of the concern we have for the veterans of our various wars. There will be available for this purpose next year $743,000,000. This is for the veterans of all wars. And this is not a gratuity. It has been earned. During my term of office the pensions of all wars have been increased. We take pride in our great resources, our unparalleled prosperity, our phenomenal growth, but we should take equal if not greater pride in the generous and just treatment accorded those who fought our battles.

The annual rates of compensation of Federal personnel constitute an item which is not automatically affected by prosperous conditions which have raised the wage scale in private industry. The fixing of these rates is controlled, as it should be, by the Congress. That duty, however, has not been disregarded.

Salary Boost in 1923.

The classification act of 1923 and the application by law of its principles to the field service have done much to improve the Federal service. The arbitrary fixing of salary without specific regard to the particular kind of work being performed has been discarded. Compensation is now determined by the importance, difficulty, responsibility and value of the work performed. That is right. All employes have been benefited by the change in the manner of determining compensation. The average compensation of these employes has been increased under the act from $1,674 to $1,886, an increase of $212. The cost of this increase for the 150,000 employes is nearly $32,000,000. The question of cost, however, has not been the controlling factor in fixing increased rates of pay. Proper compensation has been the objective.

We are concerned with the efficiency of our personnel. We can not hope to have the desired degree of efficiency with inadequate compensation. The two are incompatible. In a going business concern the most important requisite to maintain efficiency is an adequately compensated personnel. That is a business asset. I am just as much in favor of adequate compensation as I am opposed to overcompensation. What we are seeking is justice to the employe and justice to the taxpayer. The right principle for fixing compensation has been established. Readjustment may be necessary from time to time to correct inequalities in the salary schedules, but these should not interrupt the present principle nor destroy the uniformity assured by that principle.

Salaries Must Be Earned.

Within the last month the Congress has enacted a measure which readjusts the salary schedules for certain classes of our employes. This readjustment will advance the average salary from $1,886 to $2,072 per year. While the pecuniary benefits of this act apply to both the department and the field service, the Congress has wisely provided for a study of the salaries of positions in the field services, as compared with the compensation of like positions in private business and for the submission of recommendation with respect to the proper compensation for such positions. Now that salaries have been increased, it is the duty of all supervising officers to see that they are earned. One of the most valid criticisms against the Government service is its inefficiency, wherever it exists. Those persons on the pay roll who are not able to earn these high rates of salaries should be replaced by those who are more competent.

While credit must be given to the Congress for general moderation in the making of appropriations, and especially to the great abilities of Senator Warren and the late Representative Madden, the Senate and House chairmen of those important appropriation committees, and to the various departments for their wise recommendations and careful expenditures, nevertheless the Director of the Bureau of the Budget has a great restraining influence upon us all and is the originating agency of Government economy. Gen. Lord has so conducted his important office as to gain the respect of the Government and the country. If he is ever tempted to feel that his efforts are not appreciated, I trust he can find consolation in the reverence in which the memory of Representative Madden is universally held. Gen. Lord will now address you

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

CONTINUING the series of bidding questions, how many of the three following can you answer before reading the replies given below? Score in all cases love-all (nothing-nothing).

TODAY'S HAND.

1. What should South (Dealer) declare, holding the above hand?

2. What should North (Third Hand) declare with it; South having bid one Heart and West having passed?

3. What should East (Fourth Hand) declare with it; South having bid one No Trump, West having doubled and North having passed?

THE ANSWERS.

1. Pass. The question of whether a dealer who holds Ace, King and two small of a suit and no side strength should bid or pass initially, is one on which the expert opinion of the country is not unanimous. It is nearly so, but there are a very few (and that few quite expert) who favor bidding with this combination. The trouble with bidding on so light a holding is that it makes it dangerous for a partner to raise with the minimum strength that conventionally justifies the raise of a partner's initial suit-bid of one. It is a mistake to make initial bids so light as to create timidity in partners who are considering whether or not to assist.

2. Two Clubs. The hand is of the denial type, having only two small cards equal in partner's suit and some strength elsewhere. A pass would announce either that North had normal Heart assistance or had no bid with which to deny. The two-Club bid notifies the Dealer that North has less than normal assistance for Hearts, strength in Clubs, and no other assistance for No Trump.

3. Two Spades. The answer to a partner's double should be made with a long suit (four cards or more). As between two available suits of equal length, the stronger should be selected if both are Majors or both Minors; but when one is a Major and the other a Minor, as in this case, the preference should be given to the Major even when the Minor is materially stronger. The doubler presumably is anxious that a Major be the trump, provided he can find four cards of it in his partner's hand; the high cards of the Minor will help the Major declaration, whereas the low cards of the Major are not apt to be helpful for the Minor bid.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

Is slapstick comedy art?

Apparently it is when the slapstick heroine is the Marquise de la Falaise in a Mack Sennett bathing suit. At any rate, Hollywood's only avowed "art" theater—probably just another utilization of that convenient assumption of highbrow endeaver to conceal a purely commercial undertaking—has been featuring "The Pullman Bride," made by Sennett in 1918 before Gloria Swanson had become either a star or a marquise. Phyllis Haver and Polly Moran play bits in the picture, and Mack Swain and Chester Conklin are the principal comedians.

When the Filmarte Theater opened in Hollywood with the customary hooey about its avowed purpose of presenting American and foreign film ordinarily too artistic for exhibition on a box-office basis, there was some argument as to whether even Hollywood's screen writing and acting colony would support such a venture. Then the management stuffed the ballot box—as all such managements do—by dipping into history and bringing up the old Gloria Swanson opus. They had a crowd on opening night, at least.

It's the old army game!

Word has just come to me from Corbin Shield, one of my most reliable sources of news items, that work is rapidly nearing completion on the new cooling system that is being installed in the Rialto Theater. Manager Frank Steffy expects to have it in full operation during the current week and passes the word that a positive guarantee is given by the contractors that it will provide a throughly comfortable temperature on the warmest day without dampness, vaporous effect or draft—which seems fair enough.

And speaking of cooling systems, do not think that the boys supplying manufactured weather to their customers have not had a tough time guessing what's coming next this spring—blistering hot one day; chillingly cool the next with rain in torrents and snow flurries in the top galleries! The lads at the throttles have turned the cooling systems on and off until they are almost worn out— both the lads and the systems.

They are complicated mechanisms, these refrigeration plants for large theaters. By some miracle which I do not profess to understand, I recall some of the details concerning the plant at the Earle. I was there the day they put it in at an approximate cost of $75,000, which, you will admit, ought to buy a pretty fair ice box! To mention only three items, there are three and one-half miles of coils in the cooling system; the tank on the roof of the building, for purposes of condensation, contains 14,000 square feet of cypress lumber; the water system has in continuous circulation 800 tons of liquid under forced feed at a pressure of from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds per square inch.

Although of slightly different type, there is as large a cooling plant at the Palace and an even larger one at the Fox, the house with the largest seating capacity in the Capital, barring only the Auditorium.

It wouldn' surprise me to learn that the overcoat manufacturers get a percentage!

Those who have watched Alice White progress from "bits" to featured roles since her promotion from script girl on the First National lot to a part with Milton Sills in "The Sea Tiger"—in which she played a show girl—will eagerly await her first individual starring vehicle, "Show Girl," now being scenarized from J. P. McEvoy's magazine story by J. T. O'Donohoe. Henry Hobart will be the producer with Alfred Santell, maker of "The Patent Leather Kid" and "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," directing.

There certainly will be a bunch of the boy friends hanging around the projection room door when they rewind this one, unless these "stills" I have are all fakes.

Probably a greater number of boudoir dressing tables are being rearranged to make room for one or more photographs this morning than ever before in the history of the National Capital. The senior prom program, the White House invitation, the World Series score card, the program of the Preakness—in fact everything but the cap captured at Annapolis last week after Secretary Wilbur had finished distributing the diplomas—have been bundled away into the trunk in the attic to make room for the picture that is coming home tonight.

For you see, Jack Pepper, master of ceremonies, is holding a levee in the promenade lounge of the Earle Theater this afternoon from 2:45 to 4:15 o'clock, and to such of his feminine friends as desire them will be happy to present autographed photographs as long as the supply holds out.

Having met this ebullient young man—although not under precisely parallel circumstances—I may be pardoned for advancing the theory that he will be found even more attractive at close range than from across the footlights. LeRoy Sherman, manager of the Earle, will act in the capacity of host, and I assume that these twain will be assisted by others less liable to break down under the onslaught of Washington's pulchritudinous hosts.

Why not draft a few sharpshooters from Miller's "101 Ranch," just to be sure no one gets hurt?

It seems, after all, that they do come back!

In 1911 there was a feminine player in Hollywood who made some slight impression on celluloid and then disappeared. Her name was Blanche Le Clair. Now Blanche Le Clair is back on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot and is still young enough not to be worried by the threat of a new generation of screen beauties.

Her earlier appearances were in productions of her father's, Frank Le Clair. She was 2 years old at the time and has devoted the intervening period to acquiring an education!

At the Palace this week one may view a supporting player in the cast of the artiste whom she is being coached to succeed. Olga Baclanova has the role of a venomous countess in Paramount's production of "Three Sinners," starring Pola Negri. When Negri leaves the Paramount roster it is the company's plan to put Baclanova in her place.

Incidentally, this young woman's name upon her accession of stardom will be "Baclanova," with the Olga deleted to facilitate billing, newspaper advertising and display in electric lights.

Detecting a rather more facile than usual rendition of the piano part in the orchestra at the Fox on a recent visit, I strained my eyes, twisted my neck and dislocated all of my favorite vertebrae before I was able to discern that the one responsible for my conviction of new fingers on the keyboard was Tom Gannon, formerly one of Washington's best known figures about the motion picture palaces.

The orchestra is in luck in having three members thoroughly schooled in the intricacies of both stage and screen accompaniment — Leon Brusiloff, conductor; Fred Stark, associate, and Tom Gannon.

It won't go wrong now!

BEAUTY AND YOU

BY VIOLA PARIS

FOR ENLARGED BODY PORES.

I have received a letter from a young woman in a small Western city who is troubled with large pores on the chest and back that become quickly clogged. She says that she works in an office in a manufacturing district where, especially in damp weather, there is a great deal of smoke and fine soot. She asks if this is the cause of her skin trouble.

I have no doubt that the soot, sifting down to the chest, shoulders and back, is a contributing cause. Soil of this sort, however, while it might aggravate trouble with enlarged pores, would not be the fundamental cause.

When body pores become relaxed, enlarged and clogged with grime and oils, attention should be paid both to the general health and to the methods of cleansing the skin. The skin is an organ of the body just as definitely as the stomach or the liver. It is not merely a protective covering. Overeating, excesses in rich foods or stimulants, indigestion or faulty elimination are certain to have a damaging effect on the skin. The first step for this young woman, then, is to substitute good habits of eating for bad and to include among her habits some regular exercise out-of-doors. The skin, and especially the affected parts, should receive a thorough cleansing every day. I suggest the following methods.

First steam the skin well with Turkish towels wrung out of hot water. Follow the steaming by scrubbing with a bath brush, hot water and pure soap. After a thorough rinsing with cool water, dry the skin thoroughly, but gently, and apply toilet alcohol.

A stimulating bath should be taken in the morning. This may be a sponge, a shower or a tub, in cold or tepid water. I advise against very cold water except for robust persons. After the morning bath, when the skin has been dried, an astringent toilet-water should be patted on the surface where the pores are enlarged.

If my correspondent will follow these suggestions faithfully, not only the pores that trouble her, but her general body tone will surely respond.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Mortgage on Love.

DEAR Miss McDonald: Can you give me any encouragement?

We are two of your New England friends. So you think we are failures? We were married three years ago at the age of 21. We didn't have a thing, but we were sure that with youth and health and ambition we could work together and "get ahead" as quickly as we pleased. We counted on Lady Luck being our constant companion, I guess. We found out! We're still waiting for a break. Eleven months after our marriage the baby arrived. We saved enough so that we didn't have to pay for her in installments, anyway. After that we kept even until this last winter. We sunk. Two hundred dollars worth.

We are appalled and discouraged. My husband has a job with a beautiful future and abominable pay. We have scraped and our only recreation is thinking of the "beautiful future." We are still fond of each other, strangely enough, and we have a lovely child. Aside from those things, which we realize are of no mean value, we have gotten little out of marriage. My husband has lost fifteen pounds and I have dark circles under my eyes and four white hairs. The past three years sped by. We were in a daze and woke up to find ourselves in debt instead of sitting on top of the world, as we had planned. We try to kid ourselves that we are still young and in ten years or so will be very wealthy and appreciative of our good fortune, but in our hearts we are afraid that we are failures. Are we?

This isn't a very tragic problem, is it? Perhaps you won't want to bother with it. If you will, though, we'll appreciate it a lot. Sincerely,

MRS. JEAN.

In the first place you are neither "sunk"—nor sinking! In the second place a thousand women will read your letter today with brimming eyes, remembering the dear gone days when they, too, owed their first $200 as a mortgage on love and the world. They now have everything, and it seems so long since they had anything!

Jean, please believe that you will some day hug to your heart the memory of the day, the love, the baby, the high hopes, the first gray hair even. Life is made of a few great moments and a mass of days. These are your great moments. Even the success that will surely come to you, as it has to others, can never bring you the richness of knowledge that is yours because of this first lean year.

All the rest is just everyday existence. This is living. And you will some day know what I mean. In that day, as your eyes brim with memory, may there be no ache in your heart.

Conduct and Common Sense

SILVER AND SERVANTS.

AN Interested Reader writes: "I notice that you say the round-bowled soup spoon is not used in smart houses. I have seen it in houses that were quite the right thing so far as table implements are concerned. If it is not smart to use the round-bowled spoon, I wonder why some of the most beautiful sets of silver on the market today include the round-bowled soup spoon in their service. What, to your way of thinking, is correct? I think the ordinary tablespoon dreadfully awkward."

Modern silver is made as the modern silversmiths please. Many excellent patterns may carry the round-bowled spoons, but I venture to think that nobody who owned good old silver would care for them. I often see them for sale, but have never found them on any table. I know they are favored by general custom. I still maintain that they are not in smart usage. The tablespoon is approved by social opinion and is to my mind more graceful to look at and less awkward to use than the round one.

Some one whose signature I can't make out is curious about my household. "I see that you have a cook and a 'sensitive' servant. Please tell us how many servants in all you have."

It doesn't seem very important, but I am always willing to oblige. The article referred to was to stress the stupidity of being sensitive, not the fact of having servants. As a matter of fact, I run a good-sized house with two, and think I'm pretty clever to do it. If I had more, I'd find it easier, but if I had none, I could manage. I have done so. With varying fortunes, my household has changed. When I was a child in my grandfather's house we had many. When I was growing up in my father's house we had four. After my parents' death, I had, for a time, an old charwoman, who came in by the day. If there's anything more you want to know, don't hesitate to ask. Can I cook? A little. Can I housemaid? I can. Can I waitress? Beautifully. Would I like being waited upon much more as I get older? I should.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

The Parent Counselor.

Dr. Dean will answer all signed letters pertaining to parents' problems with their boys and girls. Writers' names are never printed. Only questions of general interest answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Arthur Dean, in care of this paper.

"I AM puzzled over your age," writes Katy D. "Daddy says you are an old bird, but I say you are a young man, because your ideas are young and current. But I do agree with father that you could not write as you do if you were in your twenties or thirties. Are you young or old?"

A person is young who accepts and adapts himself to the ever-changing conditions of life. He is old whose ideas stay hitched to the ideas and ideals of the first two decades of his life. Adaptability is youth and while we have it we are young, though the sands in the hour glass of life have passed the middle mark.

I am young enough to have gone this spring, as I have for many springs, searching during April showers for arbutus, nestling under the dry oak leaves.

I am young enough to remember that as a boy I had more general cussedness in me than most of those whose mothers write that their sons are incorrigible. I am young enough to know that if I could live my life again I would value time more highly and waste less of it.

I am young enough to enjoy the exhilarating thrill of the rushing breeze caused by 50 miles an hour in an automobile, but I am old enough to know that if I get a blowout in the front tire I may awaken to the rustle of wings and the muted notes of the harp.

I am young enough to enjoy the memory of the day when I preferred to eat a scorched potato baked in a stove made of stones on a river bank rather than to dine more luxuriously in my boyhood home.

I am still young enough to enjoy every week-end in the summer in the open under a blanket, but not old enough to know that by this time I should have grown up.

And, finally, Katy D., I am young enough to want to tell you a lot more, but old enough to know that discretion is one of the fruits of half a century of experience.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

Put the Devil Out of Business.

Schools are closing. This means five or six hours more a day for the boy or girl in the back yard, or in somebody else's back yard, or on the street. It is the devil's busy time. He dislikes to see boys using tools, making things at home, reading, earning money, doing home chores, and a few thousand other things which very much interfer with his business.

This department is going to make it its business to offer helplets to parents and children that will be useful during the summer months. It offers one today: A list of books on "Things Boys Can Make." (S. A. S. E. necessary.)

Boys and Girls Club.

I am a pastor of a small church. I want to organize my boys and girls into a club where they will do something besides dance and make fudge. Can you help me? A PASTOR.

Answer—Junior Achievement League, Springfield, Mass., offers a most excellent program of activities for country churches. It is nondenominational and works with boys and girls from 8 to 18.

Standardized.

When I get to college next fall I am not going to wear the freshman cap. I'll wear what I please, regardless of the sophs. Am I not right in refusing to be standardized? I am and always will be independent.

INDIVIDUAL THINKER.

Answer—I fear your independence springs from conceit and sense of self-importance that are far from lovely. It is really worth while to have that conceit knocked out of one if it can be done with good judgment and decency. The sophs will undoubtedly do a good job.

Saxophone or Boy?

Nearly every Sunday my boy friend comes up and plays his saxophone for us. My mother does not like him. How can I make mother take an interest in him? She would let me go with other boys, but I can't let him go. Please help me. UNHAPPY SIXTEEN.

Answer—Is it the boy or the saxophone which wears on your mother's nerves? Why doesn't mother like him? It is only fair that she tell you.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT THE JOURNEY'S END.

Come, death, be merciful and end his pain!
Life has deserted him and hope is vain.
You were his foe, but at the journey's end
Now he would welcome you and call you friend.

The life he loved is over. All is done!
He is too tired to greet the morning sun,
He is too tired for laughter or for care,
Strike the last blow and let him slumber there.

No bright tomorrow here for him can dawn.
The last sweet joys of earth for him are gone.
Anguish and pain are all life has to give,
He longs for sleep, but sleep life can not give.

Come, death, be friendly—end his bitter pain,
Seal those brave lips which shall not smile again.
We who must stay shall weep that he must go;
Peace comes with death—and it were better so.

Myths of Olden Greece

II. THE FIRST WOMAN.

THE Greeks said that the first woman had been made in heaven. They spoke of her as Pandora, which meant "all-gifted." When she was created, each god gave her a different gift. Apollo gave her musical ability. Aphrodite gave her beauty, and from other gods she also received valuable things.

Pandora was sent to earth. Prometheus, the giant who had given fire to man, was bound on a mountain peak; but his brother, Epimetheus, received the fair woman into his house.

The gods, according to one Greek story, had given Pandora a box full of wedding presents. Each present was a blessing. Pandora was not supposed to open the box, but she grew curious and tilted the lid a little. Out flew the blessings, one after another—all except Hope, which remained as a comfort to man.

Another story says that Epimetheus had in his house a jar, filled with evil things—sickness and plagues, envy, spite and revenge. These were left after birds, beasts, and man had been made.

Pandora was warned not to touch the jar, and for a time she obeyed the warning. Then a day came when curiosity got the better of her. She tiptoed to the jar, and lifted the lid. Out flew the evil things, the troubles which have since made the world unhappy. Only hope (a good thing) was left when Pandora put the lid back on.

She grew curious and tilted the lid a little.

These stories sprang from the wish of the Greeks to explain why so many things were wrong with the world. For my part, I do not see why early people should have put so much blame on women—men are at least as much to blame for human ills.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertinent to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

GAS BURNERS LOWER BODY'S RESISTANCE.

WHEN a person breathes air into which agas burner in discharging, his resistance to disease will be lowered. This was determined by Dr. E. R. Hayhurst and his associates.

The question is not one of pollution by unburned gas or by carbon monoxide, soot, or other products of incomplete combustion. The burner they experimented with was a good type. No gas leaked through it or around it. It was also a good type in that combustion was complete. The gas was burned into carbonic acid and water, and nothing was taken from the air except oxygen. The pipe did not discharge carbon monoxide, nor unburned carbon, nor smoke, nor any other harmful chemical, into the air.

Nor was it a question of overheating the air or of poor air conditioning. Reduced to the simplest terms, Dr. Hayhurst's experiment proved that stoves must have vents or pipes. They must not be so constructed that the products of combustion discharge directly into the room air. Such products are harmful even though they do not look or smell like smoke, do not cause the eyes to water, and do not soil the curtains. They are harmful even though there is no odor of unburned gas and chemical analysis fails to show an excess of carbon monoxide.

In this experiment rats were made to breathe air polluted in this way for three or four months. The death rate among these rats was several times the normal. The rats did not die from pneumonia. In fact, it was not certain what disease killed them. The only certain fact was that they died. However, when rats that had been breathing this polluted air were injected with a standardized pneumococcus culture they died off with great rapidity. They seemed to have much less capacity for resisting pneumonia than is usual among rats.

Dr. Hayhurst started out to find whether breathing air containing slight excesses of carbon monoxide tended to lower resistance to pneumonia. For instance, whether men who work in garages, around automobiles, and in rooms heated by stoves and gas burners are more subject and have increased susceptibility to pneumonia. But his experiment never reached that phase of the question. He will extend his studies.

INTERMITTENT BACK PAINS.

A. P. B. writes: I am a young man of 23. About three years ago, while at work, I sprained my back. Every now and then I get a pain in my back. What would you advise me to do?

REPLY.

Industrial surgeons have found that when there is a history of repeated backaches there is likely to be something wrong with the joints of the backbone. X-ray pictures sometimes show this plainly. If your trouble is simple lumbago, get more exercise, do more bending, improve your habits, look after your diet. Maybe Turkish baths would help.

WHAT A "STROKE" IS.

G. A. writes: Nobody seems to know what a stroke is. I have asked a great many people. They all know what a stroke is, but not a stroke. Does a stroke originate in the brain, or in the heart, or where?

REPLY.

Stroke is a commonly used abbreviation for "stroke of apoplexy." Apoplexy is the term used for a form of paralysis caused usually by the rupture of a blood vessel of the brain.

Children Present Plaque to Coolidge

School children of New Orleans yesterday presented to President Coolidge a silver plaque in appreciation of his efforts in obtaining the passage of Mississippi River flood control legislation.

The presentation was made on behalf of 46,680 students by Oswald Ecuyer, 17 years old, an honor student of the Samuel J. Peters High School of Commerce.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Becomes Interested in Aviation

By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi wants to do something new, something different this summer. What could be newer or more different, she wonders, than being a passenger on a plane covering the new aeroplane route and reaching Los Angeles in two days, especially if one could dress the part.

Mitzi immediately donned her three-piece tweed sweater suit—it has a long coat and a white sweater for a blouse—and consulted the authorities. "What," she asks the perfect saleslady, "is the correct costume to wear when flying across the continent?"

The question is such a new one that the information Mitzi receives is more colorful than correct, for costumes for air travel are the same as for train or boat. Mitzi, however, thinks she might go in for aviation, because the helmet, jacket and breeches are so becoming.

Air travel is thrilling, no doubt. One sees so much of the country from a bird's-eye view. "But," wonders Mitzi, "what I really want to see is something new. I'd be entirely too high to see the styles." Which makes Mitzi speculate as to whether the pilot sees the apple blossom print collar to her dress.

Tomorrow—Travel Coats.

Kenna's Pinch Hit Defeats Tribe, 7-6

Rookie's Single Puts Vital Run Over in See-saw Game.

Marberry and Braxton Rescue Nats After Hadley Fails.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

CLEVELAND, June 11.—A timely hit by Ed Kenna, pinch hitting for Fred Marberry, gave the Nationals a 7 to 6 victory over the Indians this afternoon in the tenth inning. Five straight triumphs are now boasted by the Nats, who scored their first extra-inning victory of the year today and neared fifth place, while the Indians have yet to win an overtime game.

It was one of those "you chase me and I'll chase you" affairs with the Indians doing all the chasing. Twice they overcame two-run leads, while they equaled the Nats' efforts in the ninth when a run was scored. The the Nats scored a run in the tenth, and Garland Braxton took great care that this lead was preserved by setting down the natives in order in their half.

Judge opened the tenth inning with a single to right, and Reeves sacrificed him to second. After Bluege walked, Ruel lofted to Jamieson. Harris sent Kenna to the tee in Marberry's place, and the rookie came through with a drive past Burns that gave the Nats the victory.

Seven pitchers performed during the pastime, the Indians starting George Grant and then calling on Bill Bayne and Garland Buckeye, while Irving Hadley, Milton Gaston, Fred Marberry and Garland Braxton did the Washington mound work. Although Marberry pitched only two balls to but one man, he was given credit for the triumph.

The Indians negotiated four double plays to the Nats' one, but the latter came at a most helpfu time, while Ruel, who pegged out three Indians trying to steal, also helped out the Nats on defense, as well as helping them on attack with three singles. Fonseca was the only Tribesman able to make more than one safety.

Each team scored twice in the first two frames, the Nationals getting one run in each, while the Tribe knotted the count in its second. It seemed as though the first round would net the Harrismen two or three runs, for Rice, first up, walked and advanced to third when Harris' attempted bunt got by Morgan and went as a double. After Barnes fanned, Goslin was purposely passed. This filled the bases and one run was forced over when Judge coaxed a free ticket to first. The Indians then pulled out of the hole by turning Reeves' grounder into a double scalping.

Joe Sewell's error paved the way for Washington's marker in the second. It gave Bluege life, and he advanced a base each on two useful outs and scored on Rice's one-shot to right.

Langford singled and died stealing in Cleveland's first, but the Tribe tied the score in its next turn at the tee. Hadley hit J. Sewell and Fonseca doubled him home and scored himself on Summa's one-baser to left. Hadley then put on the brakes.

PECK SHIFTS CLEVELAND LINE-UP

Also Fires Mascot as Team Slumps; Jones to Pitch Today.

By FRANK H. YOUNG

CLEVELAND, June 11.—The third game of this series with Peck's Tribesmen is due for decision tomorrow afternoon, with Joe Shaute likely to do the flinging for the home team, with "Sad Sam" Jones, Harris' probable mound selection.

With his team in quite a slump, Manager Peckinpaugh has begun experimenting in the hopes of changing his team's luck. His first step today was to "fire" the mascot and replace him with Roger Peckenpaugh, jr. Then, he decided to switch Ed Morgan, who has been playing right field, to third base Morgan was a fly chaser all of last season while with New Orleans, but was considered a good third base guardian while a rah rah boy at Tulane.

It is more than likely that the successful conversion of Fonseca into a first baseman has influenced Peck in experimenting with Morgan, who shows signs of being a good hitter, although not a good outfielder. Fonseca has taken to his new job like a duck to water and has yet to make his first 1928 error at the doorway, where he has accepted more than 500 chances.

Manager Harris did the unusual in the opening inning of today's game when he bunted a double. Rice was on first and the Nat Manager's bunt skidded past Morgan as he charged in for it. Before Jamieson could rush in almost to the infield to retrieve the ball, Rice advanced to third and Harris got all the way to second.

Catcher Ed Kenna, who also has played in the outfield and at third base, has been told by Manager Harris to practice at the latter position and he looked quite at home there in pre-game practice this afternoon.

The Nationals need another relief infielder as Jack Hayes is the only extra one and, with Boss Bucky still far from right, he is likely to be needed at any time. For this reason, the Nats' leader is grooming Kenna for use in case of an emergency.

The Nationals received some good news today in the form of an announcement that Manager Peckinpaugh plans to give Pitcher George Uhle a rest and that the veteran will not perform n this series. Uhle always has been effective against the Harrismen, with his bat as well as with his arm.

Robins Held to 6 Hits By Bush, Cub Hurler

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 11 (A.P.).—Guy Bush allowed the Robins six hits and the Cubs handily won the first game of a series here, 3 to 1. Stephenson's timely hitting was the leading feature of the Chicago attack. He drove in two runs with a single in the third and scored the other run on McMillan's grounder in the sixth.

Reds Menace Double Play Record

Fraction of Second Is Vital to Work of Brilliant Duo.

By F. G. VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 11 (A.P.).—Hughie Critz and Horace Ford, the great second base-shortstop combination of the National League-leading Cincinnati Reds, would rather make double plays than base hits.

They admitted it today when cornered in the lobby of the hotel where Jack Hendricks and his Reds make their New York headquarters.

"They just hit 'em at us," was the naive explanation vouchsafed by Ford when asked how they have managed to pile up the amazing total of 82 double plays in 55 games, a mark which threatens to beat the big league record before the season ends.

But Ford a minute later had to admit there is a little more to it than that. He nodded at his diminutive double-playmate and, as one stating a fact not a compliment, said:

"A big reason is Hughie there. Critz is the fastest man I ever saw at getting the ball away. Other second basemen make the catch, then have to get set to throw. Hughey gets it away all in the same motion. That saves a fraction of a second."

"Yes," chimed in the little Mississippian, whom both John McGraw and his own manager, Hendricks, have called the greatest defensive second-sacker they ever saw, "but they's a whole lot in knowin' right where you're goin' to be. I just throw the ball and look afterward."

That accounts for another wink of time in the fractional second that distinguishes a double play from just a play.

"You have to take chances to make double plays," said Ford. "You have to shorten up the field for one thing, play in closer, so you can get the ball quicker, 3, 4 or 6 feet closer makes a lot of difference."

"And the harder they hit 'em the better we like it," said Critz. "Gives us more time to work."

"Another important thing is knowing your hitters," went on Ford—"Where they actually hit the ball, whether they're fast or slow. Right-handed hitters are easier to double than lefters. They're more likely to hit them to shortstop, where it is easier to start a double play.

"A shortstop can get the ball away faster on most plays, as a second baseman has to turn to throw to second. To make it more sure that the right handers will hit to short, your pitchers usually throw them curves, that helps."

This Ford-Critz pair has its eyes on the ball all the time, but those keen orbs don't miss anything else that may be happening on the ball field. When opportunity calls, they're there.

Yanks Held to 4 Hits; Chisox Rout Pennock

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Herb Pennock was pounded for seven hits and six runs in the third inning and the White Sox took the second straight game from the Yankees here today by a score of 6 to 1. Although wild in the early innings, Blankenship pitched brilliantly for Chicago. He held the league leaders to four hits, two of which came in the seventh inning and produced New York's only run.

REDS DEFEAT GIANTS WITH 5 IN 9TH

Leaders Stage Rally; Picinich Is Hero With 2 Homers.

NEW YORK, June 11 (A.P.).—After the giants broke a 2 to 2 tie with a three-run drive in the eighth inning the onrushing Cincinnati Reds staged a five-run rally in the ninth to defeat the Giants by a score of 7 to 5.

The hitting of Picinich featured the game He drove out two home runs, one of which brought in the two winning runs, a double and a sacrifice fly and walked once in five times up. Picinich also drove in four runs.

Kolp started off in a sensational fashion in the box for the Reds, only allowing one Giant to reach first in five innings. However he weakened and was replaced by Rixey in the eighth.

Crowder Gives 6 Hits In Beating Red Sox

St. Louis, Mo., June 11 (A.P.).—Allowing but six scattered hits, and striking out half a dozen who faced him, Alvin Crowder won his third straight victory and the St. Louis Browns defeated the Boston Red Sox 2 to 1 for the second straight win of the series here today.

A balk by McFayden after Kress had singled and Blue was issued a pass placed the Browns' shortstop in a position to score the winning run on a long fly in the seventh.

Floored 8 Times, Maloney Wins Bout

Boston, June 11 (A.P.).—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, was knocked down eight times, but won a ten-round decision over Jack Demave, of Holland, at Braves Field tonight. Maloney weighed 196 pounds and Demave 191.

Maloney, attempting a fistic comeback, went to the canvas five times in the first round, once in the second and again in the third and fifth. But Demave apparently weakened himself by his wild style of attack and Maloney, much the stronger, carried six of the ten rounds and had his opponent greatly weakened at the finish.

Best Lacrosse Performers Play Here

Hopkins, Improved, Is Favorite to Win From Army.

By ARTHUR A. HEYWOOD.

WHEN Maryland meets Navy and Army plays Johns Hopkins next Saturday at Central Stadium, in the semifinals of the Olympic lacrosse play-off series, experts who are picking all-American teams will have another opportunity to witness in action players of four of the leading teams in the country.

"Lighthorse Harry" Wilson and Born, famous football stars of the two cadet teams, who play in home and third defense, respectively; "Gabby" Street, colorful goal keeper, and Fred Linkous, out home of the Maryland Team; Cashman, out home, and Ransford, in home of Navy, and Mallonee, cover point; Biddison, out home; Logan, in home, and Boynton, third defense of the Hopkins Team, are a few of the most brilliant players in the country.

"Gabby" Street, who has watched Maryland's goal like a hawk, and Fred Linkous, who has played sensationally afield and who is among the leading scorers of the country, are generally regarded as sure to be placed on the All-America twelve.

Gardiner Mallonee, who rushed from New York last Saturday so as to play with his team against Mount Washington, is the inspiration of the Hopkins Team. Hopkins' power is centered in this quartet of Mallonee, Boynton, Biddison and Logan.

Maryland, the team which will hold th interest of a majority of the local fans, has several other players who will be watched with interest. Among these are Ady and Evans, second and third attack, who starred against Rutgers Saturday, and Beagy and Loane, defense men.

The Army Team will arrive here Thursday night and plans to work out Friday at Central Stadium. It is expected that all of the teams will be quartered here Friday night. Headquarters for the Olympic lacrosse committee will be t the Lee House.

The limited supply of 8,000 tickets will go on sale this morning at A. G. Spalding's on G street. The committee has set the price of admission for the two games at $1. No orders by telephone will be honored.

All the teams which will line up Saturday have faced each other before this season. Army has previously beaten Hopkins, and Maryland downed Navy on May 5, 3 t 2, in a game which was decided in the last few minutes of play, and which kept the crowd on its feet throughout.

These victories mean little, as Hopkins has improved so much in its last two games that it is the general favorite to beat Army, while Navy is anxious to meet Maryland for a chance to reverse the 3-2 score of their first encounter and advance to the finals in the playoff. The probable line-ups of the four teams Saturday are as follows:

MARYLAND.	Position.	NAVY.
Streett	Goal	Kopf

Homers by Simmons, Foxx Beat Browns

Detroit, June 11 (A.P.).—Successive home runs by Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx with the score tied in the eighth inning gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 4-to-2 victory over Detroit in the second game of the series here today.

The circuit drives decided a pitchers' battle between Sam Gibson, Tiger right-hander and Ossie Orwoll, recruit southpaw of the Athletics.

Latzo and Lomski End Hard Work for Fight

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Two bulldogs of the light-heavyweight division, Pete Latzo, the Scranton miner, and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen Assassin, finished heavy training today for a ten-round match in Ebbets Field Wednesday night. The battles will have a distinct bearing on two of the principal outdoor shows scheduled for the latter part of the summer.

Neither battler expects difficulty making the class weight.

OUT OF NATIONAL OPEN

ROLAND MACKENZIE.

4 of 7 Washington Pros Fail in Trials for Tourney.

Congressional Golfer Runner-up With a Card of 153.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

PITTSBURGH, June 11.—The Washington professional golfers, playing 36 holes on the Oakmont course today to qualify for entrance in the national open to be played at Olympia Fields, Chicago, June 21, came through with flying colors. There were seven District competitors, and three of them qualified, two of them finishing in the second and third places.

The fortunate contestants were Alex Armour, Congressional, brother of the national open champion, who finished second with a card of 77—76—153; J. Munro Hunter, Indian Springs, with 81—75—156, and Fred McLeod, Columbia, whose score of 81—80—161 enabled him to qualify, with three strokes to spare. With two of the Washington contingent finishing second and third in a field of 126 players, there was glory enough for one day.

The other four members of the Washington delegation who failed to qualify were Arthur B. Thorn, Town and Country, 86—83—168; Robert T. Barnett, Chevy Chase, 86—86—172; Eugene Larkin, Chevy Chase, 90—89—179, and Antony Penna, Congressional who after a round of 86 in the morning withdrew in the afternooon.

The field was led by George M. Christ, a young golfer from Rochester, N. Y., with a card of 75—75—150, but until he finished his round on the thirty-sixth hole, as the sun was sinking behind the western hills, "Sandy" Armour had the glory of the day all for himself.

Armour played on the Oakmont course the same brand of golf which he has been exhibiting on the Congressional course all spring, especially the 29 strokes in which he negotiated the second nine of that course last Sunday. His score of 77 for the morning round led the field at lunch time, until Christ came in with a 75 and insured his qualification beyond doubt.

Armour's outgoing nine in the morning, played in 41, four strokes over par, due to encountering traps and failing to reach the greens on his second shot, was amply compensated by the 36 for his incoming nine, when two shots, lost on the fourteenth and fifteenth holes by playing out of traps, were offset by birdies on the eleventh and seventeenth holes, due to holing out 10-foot putts. In the afternoon he played the same consistent and brilliant golf, with 38s for each nine, although on the first nine he had two shots out of traps and on the second nine he had the same experience.

Hunter, the Indian Spring professional, started badly with two 6s and a 5. And although he negotiated a birdie 2 on the short sixth, a 6 on the seventh and a 6 on the ninth gave him a 42 for the first nine, with nine shots out of the 42 played out of traps, due to weak approaches to the greens. However, he was back in 39 for a total of 81, and this placed him well among the leaders.

In the afternoon round, when he had gauged the distances to the greens with greater accuracy, Hunter played the first nine holes in 35, two strokes under par, missing two short putts which would have given him 33. As he started on the last nine it looked as if he had wrecked all his hopes, for a 6 on the tenth, a 6 on the eleventh and a 6 on the twelfth, playing out of traps for each hole, seemed to be fatal to his chances.

A birdie 2 on the thirteenth gave him renewed hope and after he had had another trap experience on the fourteenth, which cost him a 5, he played the remaining holes in par figures and finished with 40, giving him a 75 for the round and landing him in third place. His tee shots were, as

Local Amateur Ace Decides To Quit Qualifying Tourney

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Roland Mackenzie, clever young amateur golf star, of Washington, D. C., and member of the Walker Cup Team, failed to qualify for the national open championship here today when he retained his card for the last eighteen holes. Mackenzie had a 76 for the morning round and was not so far from the leaders over the links of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. But at lunch time he announced that he would not turn in a card for the 36-hole grind as he felt that it was far from a certainty about his going to Chicago.

Rather than run the risk of keeping some contender from the trip to the natoinal open, Mackenzie decided to withdraw, and although he is reported to have had a score of 73 for the last eighteen holes, his total was not posted.

The withdrawal of Mackenzie came right on the heels of similar action on the part of Watts Gunn, of Atlanta, who withdrew in order to concentrate on the coming intercollegiate championship. Mackenzie was a finalist in this tournament last year, and Gunn was the title winner

Bill Leach, Overbrook professional, setting a new record for the Flourtown course, with scores of 73—71—144 led the field of qualifiers, while Charles H. Hoffner, Ocean City, N. J., with a card of 148 was the last to qualify.

Other qualifiers in the Philadelphia district were Al Herron, Reading, Pa., 145; Ralph Beach, Pikesville, Md., 147; Felix Serafin, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and L. H. Goldbeck, Philadelphia, Pa., 148 each.

Shorey Fails at Richmond.

Richmond, June 11 (A.P.).—Charlie Isaacs, Richmond professional, and Roland Hancock, young pro of Wilmington, N. C., today qualified at the Virginia Country Club for competition in the National Open Golf Tournament at Chicago. Isaacs led the field of 12 professionals with a score of 152 for 36 holes, while Hancock was a stroke behind him.

Mel Shorey, Washington, D. C., pro, was among those who failed to qualify. Shorey was unable to reach the goal, scoring a 79 in the morning round and a 79 in the afternoon, to finish in third place.

Brady First in New York.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., June 11 (A. P.).—Turning in a card of 151 for the 36 holes, Mike Brady, of the Winged Foot Club, today led the field seeking the New York district's 14 places in the national open golf championship at Chicago, June 21. The fourteen qualifiers and their scores:

Von Elm Leads at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich, June 11 (A.P.).—George Von Elm, former national amateur golf champion, made a great comeback on the afternoon round to tie with Charles Hilgendorf and Clayton Attridge for first place in the qualifying round of the national open tournament here today. Von Elm scored an 80 in the morning round but produced a brilliant 70 in the afternoon for a total of 150. L. L. Bredin, after scoring 153, assuring himself of a place with the qualifiers, withdrew. The eight qualifiers and their scores:

* George Von Elm, 80—70—150; Charles Hilgendorf, 74—76—150; Clayton Attridge, 74—76—150; * William Courtney, 74—80—154; Charles Guest, 77—77—154; Bill Trovinger, 78—76—154; Clarence Gamber, 77—80—157; Jake Fassezke, 79—78—157.

* Amateur.

St. Louis Amateurs Qualify.

St. Louis, Mo., June 11 (A.P.).—Five pros and three amateurs qualified to represent the St. Louis district in the national open golf tournament in 36-hole medal play at the Sunset Hills Club here today. Shooting his home course, John Manion, Missouri professional champion, was the medalist, with 74—69—143. James Manion, district amateur champion, and Bryan Winter, another star, failed to place in the select octet. The qualifiers and their scores:

John Manion, 143 (professional); Dave Sutherland, 146 (professional); Tom Kelliher, 147 (professional); Elliott Whitbread, 147; Walter Kossman, 149 (professional); W. S. Medart, 150; Francis Schwartz, 151 (professional); Clarence L. Wolff, 151.

Johnny Jones First In Northwest.

Portland, Ore., June 11 (A.P.).—Johnny Jones, professional at the Glendale Club, Seattle, and Neil Christian, Waverley Country Club pro, won the right to compete in the national open golf tournament when they topped the field in the Pacific Northwest sectional qualifying round here today. There was just one stroke difference in the 36-hole cards of the two leaders.

The Seattle pro led the sectional qualifying field by one stroke. He took a 71 and a 76 for his two trips over the well-trapped Waverley course, finishing with a total of 147. Christian, with two rounds of 74 each, was one stroke behind the leader with 148.

Two Oakland Pros Qualify.

San Francisco, June 11 (A.P.).—Charley Sheppard and Dewey Longworth, both Oakland professionals, in low scores today to qualify for the national open golf Championship. Sheppard had at 77—74—151, and Longworth, 74—78—152, in their 36-hole sectional qualifying round. Twenty northern California pros competed at the San Francisco Golf Club course.

Atlanta Amateur In Fold.

Atlanta, Ga., June 11 (A.P.).—Charlie Black, Atlanta amateur, and Frank Ball, professional, qualified here today for the national open golf tournament. They tied for the lead with 150 strokes for the 36 holes, leading a classy field of contestants in the 36 holes of medal play.

Al Umer, Jacksonville, Fla., and Jimmie Thompson, Knoxville, Tenn., were next in the scoring. Only Black and Ball will go to the national open.

3 of 27 Succeed at Kansas City.

Kansas City, June 11 (A.P.).—Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., Harold McSpaden, of Kansas City, and "Chick" Trout, of Topeka, Kans., qualified out of a field of 27 for the national open golf tournament in this district's eliminations today.

Smith's 145 for the 36 holes was low. McSpaden, Trout and Chester Jones, of Lawrence, Kans., tied for second place, with 151, requiring a nine-hole playoff, as the district is allowed but three qualifiers. On the play-off McSpaden had 39; Trout, 38, and Jones, who was eliminated, 42.

Jack Burke Leads at Dallas.

Alex Hits Home Run In Defeat of Braves

Boston, Mass., June 11 (A.P.).—Alexander pitched tight ball for St. Louis today and the Cardinals took the first game of the series from Boston, 8-1. Three home runs figured in the game. Holm drove out one in the fifth with one on, and Alexander in the ninth directed the ball into the new left field bleachers. Boston's only run came in the second inning when Bell lofted one into the same bleachers for the circuit. The veteran Alexander was never in trouble.

KENTUCKY II BEATS BLACK PANTHER AT AQUEDUCT

Ramoneur Sets Pace But Wilts; Victory Nets $8,650.

Little Colonel Barely Lasts to Win Feature at Latonia.

AQUEDUCT RACE TRACK, June 11 (A.P.).—The Queens County Jockey Club began its spring meeting here today and Kentucky II, owned by A. C. Schwartz, won the Queens County Handicap, which featured the opening day program. It was a brilliant performance and the colt ran the 8 furlongs in 1:38 4-5. Black Panther was second and Tantivy third.

Ramoneur jumped away to a long lead and attempted to make a runaway race of it, leading the field. However, Kentucky II, which was kept in a contending position, came along in the final quarter and won going away by two lengths. Black Panther, which trailed the field to the stretch, finished fast and won the place by a head over Tantivy. The race was worth $8,650.

Latonia Racetrack, Ky., June 11 (A.P.).—Little Colonel, owned by S. J. Kelly and ridden by W. Barrett, won the Mount Auburn, a claiming affair for 3-year-olds, over the 6-furlong distance, which served as a feature of the card here today. Kentucky Ace was second and Prince Bulbo third.

At the rise of the barrier Little Colonel went to the front, followed by Prince Bulbo and Hedemora. As they came into the far turn Hedemora began tiring and shortly after faded from the picture. At the same time Kentucky Ace began moving up. Meanwhile Little Colonel, who had been enjoying a long lead, also began tiring and just managed to win by a head. The track was very holding, but overhead conditions were ideal.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ST. CHARLES, $3.68, $2.80, $2.58; UPDIKE, $5.26, $4.10; HARRY B, $4.88.

ST. CHARLES, running back to best form, took command soon after start and, opening up a good gap while saving ground on both turns, was never seriously threatened. UPDIKE, well up for entire trip, saved all possible ground and closed well, but could not menace leader. HARRY B closed some ground in final furlong after a slow beginning. FUSS AND FEATHERS, much used up in early stages, tired at head of the stretch.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,500. For maiden 2-year-olds, colts and geldings; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:35. Winner, W. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ST. IGNATIUS, $10.00, $5.48, $2.92; PAUL REVERE, $4.54, $2.78; DOLTAIRE, $2.64.

ST. IGNATIUS, away well, was in tight quarters first part of it, slipped through on inside when clear entering stretch and, continuing gamely final furlong, overhauled PAUL REVERE and drew far out last seventy yards. PAUL REVERE, also in tight quarters first three-sixteenths, came with a rush on outside entering stretch, took a short lead midway of stretch, but tired in final drive. DOLTAIRE took command rounding stretch, raced wide and held on well under punishment. BIG SANDY closed resolutely. NICOLETTE tired.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. For 4-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:03. Off at 3:05. Winner, R. L. Baker's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILLY BAUGHN, $15.70, $4.24, $2.48; ROYAL OMAR, $2.84, $2.16; WOLFY, $2.22.

BILLY BAUGHN assumed the lead on first turn, opened up a good gap while saving ground on inside and, holding on better than usual through stretch, lasted to outgame ROYAL OMAR in a hard drive. Latter always closest to winner, responded gamely when hard urged entering stretch, but faltered slightly near the end under a weak ride. WOLFY, well up for most of the trip, was allowed to drop back on stretch turn, came again when taken to inside and finished strong. MARLBORO tired.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:33. Winner, J. Dolan's blk. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—EFELDEE, $8.72, $4.64, $2.92; MADAM EMELIE, $6.84, $4.06; JOLLY BOY, $5.32.

EFELDEE, away slowly, lost ground on outside while steadily improving her position, got on even terms with MADAM EMELIE a sixteenth out and, continuing gamely under good handling, got up in final stride. MADAM EMELIE, prominent in early stages, raced INDIAN into defeat on far turn, held on stubbornly while making pace under pressure and only faltered in final strides. JOLLY BOY, also forward from start, held on gamely in final drive to close a good gap. INDIAN tired. BON BON raced sluggishly.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. The Mount Auburn. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start bad. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 4:00 p. m. Off at 4:05. Winner, S. J. Kelley's br. c. (3), by Colonel Vennie—Little Bit. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $259.50; third, $148. Time, 0:25 1-5, 0:51, 1:20.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LITTLE COLONEL, $6.68, $3.88, $3.24; KENTUCKY ACE, $6.68, $6.62; PRINCE BULBO, $14.22.

LITTLE COLONEL took command at once, shook off HEDEMORA at far turn, raced into a long lead on stretch turn, but tired badly final sixteenth and just lasted. KENTUCKY ACE, away poorly and far out of it first half, came with a belated rush on outside in final quarter and would have won in a few more strides. PRINCE BULBO, a factor throughout, made a determined bid midway of the stretch, but tired final drive. SESQUI closed a big gap in final quarter after being practically left. HEDEMORA quit. CANBERRA was weakly handled.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:33. Off at 4:34. Winner, E. J. Holland's b. g. (7), by Ballot—Galloping Queen. Trained by D. T. Morris. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $225; third, $125. Time, 0:25, 0:53, 1:21, 1:50 3-5, 1:55 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BALLOT BRUSH, $4.26, $2.92, $2.60; SAMARON, $3.58, $3.02; OPEN GO SHUT, $3.16.

BALLOT BRUSH, much the best, set a good early pace on inside, responded gamely when threatened at head of the stretch and was well in hand at wind-up. SAMARON, always in closest pursuit of the winner, saved ground on all turns, but could never seriously threaten leader. OPEN GO SHUT, a strong contender in early stages, moved up stoutly entering stretch, but was taken in deepest going on inside and tired badly in final sixteenth. RICHELIEU showed a good effort.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start fair. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 5:02. Off at 5:03. Winner, H. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOIREE, $4.96, $3.94, $3.18; TANGRAM, $10.52, $5.84; CASSIE, $5.52.

SOIREE, racing in best form, took command at start, opened up a big gap rounding far turn and, continuing gamely through stretch was easing up near end. TANGRAM never far out of it moved up strongly on outside entering stretch and closed strongly, on outside entering stretch and closed strongly, but could not threaten winner. CASSIE, a factor throughout, held on well under hard urging final quarter. CHATTER DRUM was taken wide on last two turns and closed big gap final furlong. BETTY BUX quit after alternating in pacemaking first half-mile with winner. HAZEL McNAMARA stumbled and fell.

Heeney Reaches N. J. Farm To Start Training Campaign

Outdoor Ring Pitched on Picturesque Site Where Public Will Be Permitted to Watch Challenger at 50 Cents Per Showing.

By JACK FARRELL.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 11.—There was no crashing of cymbals, none of the fanfare that usually signalizes the arrival of a contender for a world's heavyweight title when Tom Heeney, the honest blacksmith from New Zealand, arrived today in the picturesque village of Fair Haven, N. J., to start active preparation for his tilt with Champion James Joseph Tunney on July 26.

Tommy's departure from New York and his arrival at the Rumson Farm Kennels, the 700-acre tract that will be his abode for the next six weeks, was as free of excitement as the advance sale for the fight itself. He motored down to the Jersey shore resort with Manager Charley Harvey and was met on the outskirts of Fair Haven by the mayor of the town.

Heeney will have about the finest training quarters ever pitched for a fighter. They are on the fringe of a main automobile highway, and, while he can have absolute privacy if he wishes it, it is understood the public will be admitted to see him train for 50 cents five days a week and $1 on Saturdays and Sundays.

An indoor ring has been erected in a private barn with seating accommodations for 1,500 people. An outdoor ring has been erected in a clover field where Tommy will disport himself when the weather is suitable for outdoor workouts.

A short distance away from the camp proper one can take a free peek at Host Raymond Hoagland's 140 prize beagles and pointers. Heeney can do his 5 miles of road work daily without going off the Hoagland estate.

The challenger will live at a private cottage and his staff will be billeted and fed in comfortable living quarters adjoining the indoor gym.

Everything is in readiness for Heeney to start work, but he will not buckle down to intensive training until Thursday, at which time Promoter Tex Rickard will sail a mob of Gotham newspapermen down to Fair Haven on the good ship "Maxine" to review the proceedings.

Tommy Loughran and Jimmy Slattery are going to battle for the world's light heavyweight title indoors at the Garden on June 28. Tex Rickard switched the bout from the Yankee Stadium today for obvious reasons. In the first place he will not have to worry about the weather and secondly he will not have to hand over 10 per cent of the receipts to Col. Jake Ruppert for the use of his ball orchard. Both fighters agreed to the change.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER.

COURIER.

Well, well, as I live and breathe, look 'ooze 'ere, and by the same token I have word from Pittsburgh, which is a "whisper" for bum ears: "Books here loaded to the guards; these people have been 'shooting' rather lucky of late."

If you need it any straighter go "shoot" yourself. Eh, wot, Bill? Fourth spasm down at Latonia.

ROYAL PENNANT is taken to cop a rather easy heat in the opener. BLUE GRANITE was a supposed good thing last time, when beaten by Thec Red. There will be dough for him again today.

If KITTY MULLALLY fails to bring home the kale today they should send her to the sausage factory. Looks like this is a "spread." Take yours while there's some left.

In the closing dash it is my understanding that "Uncle Dick" and the "dynamiters" have Louisville loaded to the guards on McCULLOUGH. Yea, Bo, if you don't believe me go ask Ed Alvey. Yes and tell him I sent you. Personally, I don't believe the issue will even be close. Yes, yes, I know all about the last effort when greeted by Mr. Sweeney, the gent who manicures the morgue. Ye' wekkum.

Out at Arlington, the lads slip me COMPLICATION as the XXX special. Lamp the gab they append, "here is one to take to the cleaners. Was interferred with last time and is expected to run a ten-pound better race today." LADY PARTRIDGE and RHUBARB for what is left. MASTER ACE was also passed about as worth while. In this, however there is a sleeper named MIMI, which is finer than split silk while MOLLIE DEAR'S last was above the ordinary.

Trainer McGarvey has GIBBONS right on edge and this way rigged should show the way home. ARNO is a contender and if any mistakes are made is liable to spill the frijoles.

Then we have HENRY HORNER, which finished second to Scotland last time. And from way down deep in the old pickling vat I slip you FANNIE J. Now don't ask too many questions it has only too often spoiled the coup.

More anon.

KENTUCKY II, going in best form, raced RAMONEUR into defeat then drew away to win nicely in hand. BLACK PANTHER broke slowly and was outrun to the stretch, where he got through on inside and finished with a rush. TANTIVY saved ground all the way and ran a good race. RAMONEUR set a fast pace but tired badly after running seven furlongs. DOLAN lacked speed.

FIFTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. Allowances. For maiden 2-year-olds, fillies. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:17. Off at 4:26. Winner, F. KENNA HELPS NATS BEAT INDIANS

The Nationals forged ahead in the next two innings, each of which was good for a marker. Successive singles by Bluege, Ruel and Hadley netted one in the fourth, while a walk and Goslin's double were good for the other in round five. The "Goose" was thrown out trying to stretch his blow into a triple.

At the end of the fifth, however, the Redskins were trailing by but 1 run, for their half of this round also was productive. Hadley hit Morgan and he scored when Grant and Jamieson hit Hadley, each getting a single.

Two native errors helped the Nationals become 2 up again in the sixth. Bluege led off with a single and went all the way to third when Langford let the ball get by him. After Morgan dropped Ruel's pop foul, "Muddy" singled his mate home. Hadley then fouled to Fonseca and Rice hit into a double play. The advantage was short lived, however, for the Indians again tied the score in their half of the sixth.

Hadley walked J. Sewell, tribe lead-off man, and Harris' poor peg to Reeves on Fonseca's roller put two on with none out. Both advanced on an out and registered on Morgan's single to left. Gaston relieved Hadley on the mound at this stage and, although he issued a pass, he managed to stop further scoring.

Singles by Goslin and Judge with two out were not used by the Nats in the seventh, while a third Cleveland double play canceled Ruel's one-shot in the eighth. All these two frames netted the home gang was a walk to Langford and he died stealing.

When Rice opened the ninth with a double and scored on Harris' suicide and Barnes' single, it looked as though the Harrismen would duplicate their stunt of yesterday and cop in the final frame, but the Indians not only equalized in their half but gave the Nats quite a scare.

L Sewell opened with a double and, after pinch hitter Burns died on a roller, Jamieson and Lind singled successively, the first of these blow shots bringing the run home. Jamieson was held at second on Lind's blow. Marberry relieved Gaston here and Langford lifted to Rice, Jamieson being doubled up at second when he headed for home thinking the Nat right fielder would not make the catch.

Buckeye faced the Nats in the tenth and it was off his slants that the winning run was scored.

Phils Triumph Again; Pirates' Errors Aid

Philadelphia, June 11 (A.P.).—The Phillies scored their third victory since they returned home by winning the opening game of the series from Pittsburgh here today, 6 to 4.

The tailenders bunched their hits in three innings for their runs. The seventh, in which four runs were scored, featured. Don Hurst got a homer over the right field fence with one man on base in the seventh. The Pirates had a bad fielding day, making five errors.

STOCK PRICES CRUMPLE; MARKET AGAIN NERVOUS

49 NEW LOWS RECORDED

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, June 11. — Widespread nervousness over the political situation, high money rates and professional bear pressure caused stock values to crumble today, although several aggressive attempts were made in the forenoon to check the slump. The market's activity increased as its strength ebbed and the ticker was more than 20 minutes behind at the close. The day's turnover was in excess of 3,800,000 shares.

Net losses for the day extended to 21¼ points, the maximum being in Rossia Insurance, and there was a long list with recessions ranging from 3 to a dozen points, including most of the usually strongest leaders. General Motors lost 5½ points net in a turnover of 289,000 shares. Chrysler lost 6½; American Telephone & Telegraph, 4½, and General Electric, 4⅜. It was among the specialties, however, that the largest depressions occurred. The airplane issues were hard hit, with Curtiss closing 12¾ points net lower and 15¼ points under the forenoon high level, and Wright 10 points down, although nearly 2 points above the day's low. United States Cast Iron Pipe finished 10 points off, Coty, Inc., Jewel Tea, Shattuck and Cushman yielded 9 points net; Case Threshing Machine, 11½ points; Universal Pipe, 6½; National Tea, 8; International Telephone & Telegraph, 6½; Internal Combustion Engineering, 5¼; International Match preferred, 6¼; Electric Autolite, 5¼; Bucyrus Erie, 5⅜; American International, 6½; Bayuk Cigars, 6; American Water Works, 7; Advance Rumely preferred, 7⅜; American Bank Note (ex dividend), 9¾, and so on.

Forty-nine new lows for the year were established, against three new highs—which were in Colorado Fuel & Iron preferred, Burns Bros. preferred and Hackensack Water preferred.

Radio was the chief rallying point for such resistance against selling as appeared at intervals, and it ran up as much as 7 points in the first hour, but dropped back with the rest when the trend became pronounced and finished fractionally under Saturday's closing quotation. During the last 2½ hours of the session there was no semblance of a rally to interrupt the downward swing, but the recession was orderly, and except in such notoriously speculative and jumpy vehicles as the airplane issues, Case and one or two more, there were no wide breaks between sales. Prices simply slid slowly and sedately lower.

Baldwin Locomotive was one of the few active issues to wind up with a substantial net gain. It moved over a 10-point range and at the end was 3½ points to the good.

Oils were notably weak, with Houston 6¾ points loser on the day and Atlantic Refining down 4⅞.

Tire and rubber stocks experienced something of a recovery, following the news of the cut in tire prices posted by the largest independent and followed quickly by several other companies. This development had been foreshadowed by rather authentic rumors last week that such a step was being contemplated. Reports that price cuts were impending naturally led to a deal of speculative selling of the rubber shares then and the moderate and temporary rally today reflected the taking of profits by recent sellers on the theory that the "bad news" was out.

One of the more disturbing incidents of the day was the acute weakness which developed in the market for bank stocks, both over the counter and on the curb. Possibly the weakness here was influenced in a degree by the sharp break in Bancitaly shares on the curb, where that issue suffered a slump of 53 points net. It will be recalled that Bancitaly officials warned traders some time ago of the part which speculation had played in the long and sensational rise of the stock. Over-the-counter bank shares were equally weak, with bid prices falling 15 to 30 points in many of the higher-priced description.

With political news superimposed on the money market, the hopeful still clung fast to the "Coolidge-draft" theory on the eve of the convention, but the speculative fraternity as a whole was in a maze, with the absence of enlightening developments at Kansas City only serving to complicate matters. A majority were disposed to look for a highly nervous market until the crisis is reached later in the week, probably along about Friday when the balloting begins.

The demand money rate moved up to 6 per cent again in the final hour, as offerings diminished after the banks had withdrawn about $20,000,000 from the market. Earlier the call money tone had been firm at 5½ per cent. European exchange rates went lower, with the Italian down 1½ points at one stage, sterling yielding 1-16, French francs ⅛, Dutch guilders and Danish kroners a point, pesetas 3 points and German marks ½ point. Yen lost 10 points as Chinese rates stiffened. Canadian improved 4 points to 99.82.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—An opening advance followed by reactions in the cotton market today under realizing or liquidation by recent buyers and local or Wall street selling, promoted by the failure of shower prospects to create a more aggressive demand, or the unsettled ruling of the stock market. October sold off from 20.76 to 20.53 and closed at that figure. The general market closed easy at net declines of 13 to 15 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 9 points on reports of rains in Central or Western belt sections over Sunday and in sympathy with the comparatively steady showing of the late Liverpool cables. Demand was comparatively limited and appeared to be readily supplied around initial prices. The market sagged off later under reselling by some of last week's buyers, while there also appeared to be some liquidation of older, longer accounts through houses with Wall street connections. Selling became a little more active when official forecasts for generally showery weather over the belt failed to stimulate demand and the market worked gradually lower during the afternoon.

Several private reports stated the boll weevil infestation was increasing in parts of Georgia and Alabama, but appeared to have very little effect on the market, and the absence of response to bullish factors, no doubt increased a disposition to liquidate long cotton or sell for a reaction. The lowest prices of the day were reached in late trading when July sold at 20.46 and December at 20.18, or 12 to 15 points net lower. Trading was quiet the greater part of the day, and prices moved within a range of a few points until liquidation became a little more active in late trading.

Private cables reported local, London and Continental liquidation in Liverpool followed by covering on rain reports from the south. More encouraging advices were said to be reaching the Manchester cloth market from India with a fair business pending.

A private report reiterated a former estimate of 7 to 9 per cent in acreage and said the crop was in a position to show a marked improvement with warm, open weather.

Exports today, 33,611, making 7,194,084 so far this season. Port receipts, 6,037. U. S. port stocks, 1,092,714.

BONDS MOVE DOWNWARD FURTHER; TRADING QUIET

PRESSURE ON COPPERS

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Prices moved to lower levels in today's quiet session of the bond market, with a score of issues declining to the year's minimum. There were a few gains, but the general trend continued definitely downward.

Market observers believe that institutional selling is to a large degree responsible for the decline, since banks which already have profited from bond purchases are finding more attractive interest yields in the money market and apparently do not hesitate to lighten holdings at the cost of a few points.

Call money rates moved back to 6 per cent today after renewing at 5½. Time money rates held firm, although a larger supply of funds was available. The market, however, appeared to ignore the easier money situation, softness of prices reflecting the weakness of stocks.

Coppers, which have been a strong spot in the market for weeks, succumbed to selling pressure, Anaconda 7s sliding down nearly 2 points and others showing fractional losses. Hudson Coal 5s, Liquid Carbonic Convertible 6s, Paramount Famous Lasky 6s, Remington Rand 5½s with warrants and Wickwire Spencer Steel Convertible 7s were prominent in the decline, with losses running as great as 3½ points. A few industrials showed some degree of firmness, among them Dodge Brothers debenture 6s, but most issues were soft.

Rails generally sagged, many issues reaching new lows for the year. Among these were Hocking Valley convertible 4½s, Hudson & Manhattan 5s, New York Central-Lake Shore 3½s and Northern Pacific 6s B, Minneapolis & St. Louis refunding 5s and Southern Railway general 6½s advanced against the trend, the latter gaining more than a point.

Utilities as a group were weak, with Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, American Telephone & Telegraph 5s, International Telephone & Telegraph debenture 4½s and others sagging to levels around the lowest of the year.

A few Italian government and municipal issues were virtually the only spots of firmness in the foreign list. Price movements in this section were small.

United States Government obligations were irregular. The Treasury issues and Liberty first 4¼s improved under demand. Liberty third 4¼s lost their early strength and closed unchanged, while others were soft.

New offerings tomorrow include $5,500,000 City of Louisville, Ky., bridge 4½ per cent bonds, which are obligations of the city payable solely from tolls and other revenue from a municipal bridge to span the Ohio River between Louisville and Jeffersonville, Ind.

DISTRICT BANKERS BUSY AFTER MONTAUK OUTING

MARKET PRICES STRONG

By F. W. PATTERSON.

With the host of bankers who journeyed to Montauk Beach for the tenth annual convention of the District Bankers Association back at their desks yesterday morning, the financial district resumed its busy whirl.

Everywhere one went could be heard enthusiastic comment on the success of the bankers' gathering, and the consensus of opinion was that this year's meeting set a mark for excellence in program, both in the business sessions as well as in the matter of entertainment and sports and will place a heavy task upon the committee chairmen who will have to do with arrangements for the convention next summer.

It will not be long now until Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National Bank, president-elect of the association, and his officers set in motion the machinery to carry forward some of the plans which were discussed at the convention and which have become a part of the program of the new administration, and with the appointment of committee chairmen for 1928-29 new work will be started and important contributions to the various phases of local banking will be developed through the year.

Stockholders of the East Washington Savings Bank in annual meeting elected the following trustees for the ensuing year: John C. W. Beall, James A. Donohoe, Gratz E. Dunkum, Lewis Flemer, John Ford, W. P. C. Hazen, Michael A. Lynch, Charles A. McCarthy, Henry H. McKee, Morris E. Marlow, William W. Payne, jr.; Samuel H. Walker, John C. Weedon, Francis R. Weller and John C. Yost. The organization meeting of the new board will be held today.

Local Market Is Strong.

While the volume of turnover in yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange was not so large as on the closing day last week, prices were strong, and several issues made substantial advances.

Riggs National Bank, with a 2-point rise to 540, stepped into new high ground; Union Trust Co., with a climb of 3½ points to 318, touched a new high for the year; National Metropolitan Bank sold at 403, while American Security & Trust Co. sold firm at 455.

Potomac Electric Power 5½ per cent preferred sold in an opening lot at 107¼, while a block of 30 shares changed hands after call at 107⅛. The 6 per cent preferred was unchanged at 111½. Capital Traction advanced ⅜ to 109½, and Washington Gas Light sold firm at 95½.

National Mortgage & Investment preferred was in good demand and moved up to 5⅞ on a turnover of 300 shares. Chestnut Farm Dairy preferred sold in a small lot firm at 104½; Sanitary Grocery preferred sold at 114; Chevy Chase Dairy preferred sold unchanged at 106½.

Bond sales were light and were restricted to Washington Railway & Electric 4s at 93⅛; Washington Gas Light 5s at 105¾; Washington Gas 6s, series A, at 103¼ for the smaller denominations, while the series B sold at 105 for the $100.

Bridge Bonds Offered.

Harris, Forbes & Co. and Stranahan, Harris & Oatis, Inc., are offering a new issue of $5,500,000 City of Louisville (Ky.) Bridge 4½ per cent bonds, payable from bridge revenues and priced at par and interest to yield 4.50 per cent. This issue is unusual in that these bonds are to be issued by the City of Louisville through its bridge commission and are obligations of the city, payable solely from bridge tolls and other bridge revenues.

Traffic engineers have estimated that there will be available during the first five years of operation, for interest, average annual net earnings of the bridge, before depreciation, equal to 2.17 times maximum annual interest on this issue. The issue is exempt from all Federal taxes, is tax free in Kentucky and is legal investment for savings banks and trust funds in Kentucky.

Ralph Sanborn to Speak.

Ralph Sanborn, a leading producer of life insurance and author of "Business Life Insurance," will be the guest speaker at the luncheon of the District Life Underwriters Association which will be held at 12:30 p. m. on Thursday at the Gordon Hotel, according to announcement yesterday by A. L. Baldwin, president. Mr. Sanborn will speak on the subject, "The Presentation of Business Life Insurance to Small Concerns for the Average Agent."

Gain in Profits Reported.

Aggregate gains of more than $300,000,000 were made by 100 stocks during April, according to the monthly compilation by Frazier Jelke & Co.

Although more than half of the stocks registered losses for the month, the net gain in market value was 1.2 per cent.

The 30 rails declined in market value 2.5 per cent, while the 12 oils depreciated 5.5 per cent during April. Slight decreases were also noted in the food products, rubber and equipment goods.

The fifteen industrials, however, gained 6.2 per cent; twelve motors showed a 4.5 per cent increase; six utilities gained 3.1 per cent, and four steels increased 1.2 per cent.

The market value of the 100 stocks was $26,185,309,000 on May 31, compared with $25,863,501,000 April 30. This was a net increase for the month of $321,808,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.)—Wheat prices went lower today and corn higher. Better crop reports from the spring wheat belt, lower quotations at Liverpool and nearness of a large movement of new winter wheat in the southwest all tended to ease down the wheat market. Corn responded to a big decrease of the corn visible supply. Wheat closed nervous, ⅞ cent to 1⅜ cents net lower, corn showing 1 cent to ¾ cent advance, oats ranging from ½ cent off to ⅜ cent up, and provisions at 12 cents decline to a gain of 2 cents.

Despite good rallies at times, the general course of the wheat market was down grade. Rather favorable weather prevailed throughout spring wheat territory, and field advices from the northern half of North Dakota said crop prospects were brightening. Word was also received that conditions in Montana appeared much better than is the case further east, evidence of more subsoil moisture being apparent westward. In addition, the amount of wheat afloat for Europe showed an increase, and export demand for wheat from North America was only moderate.

Unsettling influences on the wheat market during the late transactions included general expectance that the Canadian government crop report this afternoon would prove bearish. It was also announced that new winter wheat was loading at southern Oklahoma points, the first cars of the season in that State.

Under such circumstances, buying power lessened as the day drew to an end, whereas selling became liberal. Receipts at Winnipeg today were 591 cars, compared to 131 a year ago, and stocks at Port Arthur and Fort William showed but little decrease for the week, with the total now 51,731,000 bushels, against 22,461,000 bushels the corresponding time in 1927.

Corn prices moved up after announcement of 2,259,000 bushels decrease of the corn visible supply and of 1,317,000 bushels reduction of Chicago stocks. In the oats market, July delivery was easier on account of scattered selling, whereas deferred months showed litle change.

Provisions ruled irregular, with July lard tending to decline, but October lard firmer.

Curb Review

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Widespread liquidation sent prices crashing on the curb market today, with a 67-point break in Bancitaly as the feature. The weakness of the general list reflected the decline in stocks on the "big board," while the recession in Bancitaly was explained as being in sympathy with similar action of bank stocks on the Pacific Coast.

Bancitaly opened at 185⅛, about 15 points below Saturday's closing price, recovered to 188, and then dropped precipitately to 133. It moved back to close at 147 on reports of a partial recovery on the Pacific Coast.

Deere & Co. slid down 18 points in the general recession, and losses of 1 to 7 points were shown by Mengel, Columbia Graphophone, Bohn-Aluminum, Fansteel Products, General Ice Cream, Fox Theaters A, Libby Owens, Newmont Mines, Nichols & Shepard and others. Railroad issues especially were under pressure, Alabama Great Southern dropping 6 points, the preferred 16, Pittsburg & Lake Erie, 6½ and Virginian Railway, 12.

In the face of the general recession a few industrial specialties made wide advances. They included Grigsby Grunow, which soared more than 15 points to a new high at 93¾ on buying inspired by reports of vastly increased sales of its Radio Products; Henry Motors, Metropolitan 5 and 10 Cents preferred, Tennessee Products, Blumenthal, Celanese and Central Aguirre Sugar.

Utilities lost their early strength. Oils as a group were heavy, with extreme losses among the pipe lines.

FLOUR QUOTATIONS.

Minneapolis, June 11 (A.P.).—FLOUR—Unchanged; in carload lots, family patents quoted at 8.25@8.35 a barrel, in 98-pound cotton sacks; shipments, 34,897 barrels. BRAN—29.50@30.50.

An investment good for a lifetime

MOST of the securities owned by the average investor require frequent inspection to determine whether they are still "good," but HODSON PARTICIPATING BONDS are always good because the business which furnishes their earnings is always good. A Central Operating Bureau controls and directs every one of the 67 financial institutions on which these bonds rest. You receive 6% bond interest plus regular profit participation from these Safeguarded Bonds.

City of Louisville, Kentucky

Bridge Revenue 4½% Bonds

(Payable from Bridge Revenues)

Dated May 1, 1928 Due May 1, 1948

Coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000, registerable as to principal only. Principal and semi-annual interest, May 1 and November 1, payable in Louisville, Kentucky or New York City. Callable on any interest date after 1930; at 105 and accrued interest, if called on or before November 1, 1933; thereafter at various reductions in the redemption price. Louisville National Bank & Trust Company, Louisville, Kentucky, Trustee.

Exempt from all Federal Income Taxes; Tax Free in Kentucky

Legal Investment for Savings Banks and Trust Funds in the State of Kentucky

Louisville Bridge Commission: The Louisville Bridge Commission is a municipal corporate instrumentality, created by an Act of the General Assembly of the State of Kentucky, with authority for construction of the Bridge, issuance of bonds and collection of tolls sufficient for maintenance, operation, interest on bonds and sinking fund sufficient to retire the bonds at or before maturity.

Security: These bonds are to be issued by the City of Louisville, through its Bridge Commission, and will be signed by the Mayor, City Comptroller and Chairman of the Bridge Commission. The Bridge Commission has executed a Trust Agreement with the Trustee for the protection of the Bondholders.

The bonds are obligations of the City of Louisville payable solely from Bridge Tolls and other bridge revenues. The Authorizing Act requires that the rates of toll shall be so fixed as to provide a fund sufficient to pay the interest and principal of all bonds issued under authority of the Act and to provide an additional fund to pay the cost of maintenance and operation. The Bridge will be insured at all times under an "All-Risk Coverage" policy. Performance bonds in the full amount of all contracts in excess of $500, or marketable securities to insure completion and performance, are required to be furnished.

Location and Construction: The Bridge will span the Ohio River between Louisville, Kentucky, and Jeffersonville, Indiana, and will have a roadway capable of carrying four lanes of traffic. It will connect important highways to Cincinnati, Lexington, Indianapolis and other cities, meeting a need which has existed for several years. The Bridge has been designed by Messrs. Ralph Modjeski and Frank M. Masters, nationally known bridge engineers, who will have charge of construction and whose approval is required on all contracts. While the Engineers estimate that the total cost of construction will be well within the proceeds of this issue, additional bonds may be issued if necessary.

Estimated Earnings: Based on estimates made by Coverdale & Colpitts, Traffic Engineers, during the first five years of operation there should be available, for interest, average annual net earnings of the Bridge, before depreciation, equal to 2.17 times the maximum annual interest charges on this issue. Estimates have also been made for each year up to and including 1948, at which time it is anticipated net earnings will equal 3.94 times interest charges.

Sinking Fund: The operation of the Sinking Fund is expected to retire this issue within twelve years of the opening of the Bridge for traffic. If bonds cannot be purchased below the call price it is specifically provided in the Trust Agreement that, whenever, after 1930, the sum remaining in the Fund forty days prior to an interest date, after reserving the amount of interest due on such date, is sufficient to retire $50,000 or more of bonds, the Trustee shall issue a call by lot, at the redemption price, for such amount of the bonds.

Legality: The Act authorizing the construction of the Bridge and the issuance of the bonds, as well as proceedings of the City of Louisville Bridge Commission Officials, has been upheld by the Court of Appeals (highest State Court) of Kentucky. In addition to the Legislative Act of Kentucky a Congressional Act was passed authorizing the construction of this Bridge.

City of Louisville: The City of Louisville is one of the important industrial centers of the Country with a present population estimated at 340,000. It has especially well diversified industrial and commercial activities, the annual output of manufactured goods being valued at $350,000,000.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

He Knows His Groceries—

Some people get all up in the air when the cook leaves without notice or the delivery boy decides to leave them flat. But not Mr. Harry Lenkin, who operates a grocery store at 532 8th street southeast.

Mr. Lenkin needed a young man to drive a delivery truck and he wanted him at once. A three-line advertisement in The Post brought fifty experienced grocery truck drivers to the store early Monday morning.

It doesn't matter what type of employe you need. The formula for securing satisfactory help is always the same, and it is not a secret formula.

All you need to do is pick up the receiver of your phone and call Main 4205 and one of our ad-takers will take down your advertisement as you dictate it, and be glad to offer suggestions for improving it if desired.

J. C. C. SEEKS TO HALT MARCH OF GEORGETOWN NINE

League Teams To Clash on Sunday

Center Nine to Meet Leaders on Barracks Field.

Eagles, Strengthened, to Meet Soldiers at Anacostia.

THE Jewish Community Center Team will attempt to do what the St. Mary's Celtics almost did when they clash with the fast-stepping Georgetown Team in one of the most attractive games in the Section A unlimited division of the Capital City League. As the Anacostia Eagles will be dedicating their new field at Fourteenth street and Ridge place southeast, with the Army War College Team as their opponents, the Georgetown-Community Center game will be played on the Washington Barracks diamond at 3 o'clock.

The new Anacostia field, which will be known as Terrett Field, in honor of H. B. Terrett, the owner who donated it to the Eagles, bids fair to become one of the most popular diamonds in Washington. In the heart of Anacostia, the diamond will be the home field in the future of the Eagles, who have strengthened their line-up with Joe Sweeney, Morris Clark, Julie Radice, Maryland star; W. Timmons and others, and the team which will be backed by the Anacostia Citizens Association plans to get away to a big start Sunday.

The unlimited division will offer ten games in all. While Ike Dreifus, Jewish Community Center pitcher, is attempting to stop Georgetown at the barracks, the Addisons, with "Lefty" Stevens in the box, will be attempting to down the undefeated St. Joseph's Nine at Silver Spring.

Two undefeated teams will clash in section B, when the strong Ross Council Junior Order Team meets the Douglas A. C., the team which looks as though it was out to sew up the pennant early. The two will play at the Barracks at 1 o'clock.

Maryland A. C., of section A, has taken unto itself a tough assignment by meeting the Dreadnaughts at Dreadnaught Park. The Big D's have began to hit their stride and have been battering down all opposition in about the same style that the Yankees have been breezing through the American League.

The Celtics will play at home again this Sunday, meeting the Petworth Nine on the Shipyard Field. The Celtics and Georgetown drew 3,000 people last week and Celtics followers were rewarded by seeing their team play a great game.

The Busmen, who have gotten back into the wininng ways again, will attempt to keep the winning streak intact when they meet the Shamrocks on Arlington Field. This is the second time the Harps have traveled to the Arlington Field and will have a following with them Sunday.

If the Army Medical Center Team can solve the slants of Deuterman, Auths star flinger, they will have a chance of scoring a victory. The Medicos have lost only one game and have been hitting hard and expect to turn the trick.

District Heights Field will be the scene of the District Heights-Clover game. The Clovers are becoming annoyed in not being able to break into the win column and in that frame of mind will cause the Heights Team plenty of worry. The Clovers are long overdue and if "Preacher" Adkins is right the Clovers will win.

BURKE LEADS OPEN QUALIFYING IN TEXAS

for the national open golf tournament at Chicago next week.

The other four players who qualified: Robert Mair, Texarkana, 151; Paul Runyan, Little Rock, 154; Harvey Penick, Austin, 155, and Tom Burke, Fort Worth, 157.

Newton, Mass., June 11 (A.P.).—Henry Culci, Bridgeport, Conn., professional, with a card of 144 led a field of 33 golfers, in the 36-hole qualifying round for the national open championship here today on the Charles River Course. Willie Ogg, of Worcester, was the runner-up with 145, and the other three New Englanders to qualify for the national open at Chicago next week were John Cowan, of Oakley, with 147; Charles MacAndrews, of Laconia, N. H., with 149, and George Aulbach, unattached, with 152.

Schmutte First in Ohio.

Cleveland, June 11 (A.P.).—Leonard Schmutte, young Lima professional, cleaned up the entire field in the Ohio district qualifying round for the national open golf tournament today by turning in a card of 146 for the 36 holes.

Leonard Schmutte, Lima, 74—72—146; Densmore Shute, Columbus, 76—75—151; Tom Rakiets, Mahoning Valley, 77—75—152; Lloyd Gullickson, Willowick, 76—78—154; Waldo Crowder, Columbus, 78—77—155; George Howard, Canton, 78—78—156; Earle Shave, Cleveland, 79—77—156; H. C. Jordan, Piqua, 85—71—156; Francis Marzolf, Columbus, 78—79—157; Charles Lorms, Columbus, 78—79—157; Charles C. Hawthorne, Cleveland, 78—79—157; Billie Livie, Ridgewood, 79—78—157.

Three Pros Qualify at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., June 11 (A.P.).—Three professionals today qualified at White Bear Yacht Club and won the right to represent the Northwest in the national golf tournament.

They are Jock Hendry, of Town and Country, 146; George Smith, of Somerset, St. Paul, 148, and Ralph Kingsrud, of Fargo, N. Dak., 149. Harrison R. ("Jimmy") Johnston, amateur of Minneapolis, will make fourth entry from this section. He was automatically qualified because he finished in the first twenty in last year's open. Kingsrud beat Eddie McElligott, Superior Club professional.

Amateur Tops Denver Field.

Denver, June 11 (A.P.).—Walter Crooks, amateur of the Lakewood Country Club here, scored a 144 today for the 36 holes at the Denver Country Club to lead the five qualifiers for the Colorado district's representation in the national open golf championship. The five qualifiers and their scores: Walter Crooks, 144; Les Madison, 146; Emmett Killian, 146; Ed Stokes, 149; Fred Bell, 150.

Darkness Halts Chicago Play.

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Darkness halted the attempts of 178 golfers in the Chicago region to qualify for the 20 admissions to the national open golf championship today on the Riverside Course. Those players afield when the stars began to twinkle marked their positions and arranged to complete their second 18-hole rounds tomorrow. Leading the list at dusk was Eddie Gayer, of Chicago, with 70—75—145.

The probable qualifiers and their scores:

Eddie Gayer, Chicago, 70—75—145; J. P. Rouse, Chicago, 75—71—146; Art Sweet, Chicago, 74—72—146; Chick Evans, Chicago, 74—73—147; Rudy Knepper, Ohwentsia, Chicago, 76—73—149; Frank Thompson, Chicago, 76—73—149; Francis Gallett, Milwaukee, 76—74—150; Frank Kennedy, Kalamazoo, Mich., 74—73—147; John Bird, Milwaukee, 76—75—151; J. J. Meehan, Chicago, 72—79—151; John Revolta, Oskosh, Wis., 72—79—151; Tom Kennett, Chicago, 76—76—152; R. C. Mullins, Chicago, 76—76—152; Bill Hartshorn, Chicago, 78—74—152; Irvin Ottman, Louisville, Ky., 74—74—148; Dewey Weber, Chicago, 76—75—151; Eddie Murphy, Chicago, 77—75—152.

Under Par at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, June 11 (A.P.).—Three strokes under par in the morning round today gave Ed Dudley, of Hollywood, an aggregate of 143, to tie Fred Morrison, Midwick Country Club golf professional, in the 36-hole sectional qualifying round for the United States open championship.

Willie Hunter, of Montebello; Jack Tarrant, of El Caballero; Chet Beer, of Bakersfield; Frank Nunnaly, of Urban, and Willard Hitchison, of Pasadena, were other qualifiers in today's play.

ATTENTION—PHOENIX.

The Petworth A. C. is forced to cancel its games with the Phoenix A. C. Saturday due to a lack of playing field. If the Phoenix Nine can secure a diamond, call Manager Minnich, of the Pets, at Columbia 8740.

WANT WEEK-DAY GAMES.

The Manhattan Seniors want week-day games with teams having diamonds. Call Manager Paul Jarman at Lincoln 7783 after 4:30 o'clock.

THREE LOCAL GOLF PROS QUALIFY

usual, from 250 to 275 yards from the tee and there is no doubt that he would have led the field if he had been able to judge more accurately the distance to be covered by his second shots.

Fred McLeod, Columbia, the veteran of 20 years in national open championships, is entitled to all the medals which his club may desire to pin upon his diminutive breast. It was a long, hard course for McLeod. The distance from the first tee to the home green as given by the card, is 6,965 yards, nearly 800 yards longer, to make a comparison, than the Columbia course. Yesterday McLeod could not hit a tee shot which carried more than a respectable distance from the tee. Today his drives were not only long but only three of them, in the entire 36 holes, were off the fairway.

"Freddie is certainly improving as a driver," was the comment of Emil Loeffler, of the Oakmont Club, who was McLeod's partner in two rounds, and any one who watched McLeod hit the ball from the tee would have admitted that there was ample truth in the remark.

McLeod, of course, could have saved many shots in the 81—80—161 which his card totaled. On the very first hole he took four strokes from off the green which every one will agree was not in McLeod's usual style, and he missed a 3-foot putt on the fifth and took three putts on the eighth. The eleventh and fifteenth greens were also marred by three putts and on the eighteenth he pushd his second shot into a trap, costing him a 5. Even with these mishaps he was well satisfied with the 81 with which he finished the round.

In the afternoon McLeod breezed easily along the first nine in 41, and despite the three putts on the eleventh green, repeating his experience in the morning by missing a putt that was not more than 3 feet in length, and taking 6 on the long twelfth, when he missed three shots in succession, he still was within striking distance of qualifying.

Then began a hectic experience which McLeod, anxious as he was to qualify, will never forget. He had only four holes to play, but on the fifteenth he took three putts. On the short sixteenth he missed the tee shot, and only by rare good luck was he able to hole out in 4. On the seventeenth he put his tee shot in a trap, and then in an effort to reach the green played his second into a trap.

With a 6 staring him in the face he played out with one of his marvelous trap shots and ran down his putt for a 4. With a par 4 on the eighteenth, reaching the green with a drive and a brassy, he holed out in a par 4 with an 80 for the round and made his calling and election sure.

All that is necessary to say about the quartet of Washingtonians who failed is that Barnett admitted that he was uniformly off in all of his shots; that Tyrrell found the course too long and difficult, although he says that he is going to make another effort next year to qualify, and that Larkin says that the game he played today, with his long tee shots and well-played irons, would have given him an 80 on any course around Washington.

The cards of the Washington players who qualified were as follows:

Goslin Adds to Lead; Has Average of .418

Batting at a .500 clip in yesterday's contest with the Cleveland Indians Leon "Goose" Goslin gained three points on his grand average for the season which has now reached the .418 figure. Goslin's lead of the American League batting race now reaches 53 points as his nearest competitor Tony Lazzeri, the Yankee's second baseman, has but a mark of .365. He is being closely pressed by both Bob Fothergill, of the Tigers, and Ralph Kress, of the Browns, with marks of .362 and 361, respectively.

A new comer to the "Big Five" of the junior circuit is Heine Manush, one of Kress' teammates, who has taken possession of fifth position with a .347 figure. Joe Dugan is lingering just outside of the select group.

Postoffice Nine Wins; Seeks Sunday Games

The City Postoffice Baseball Team easily defeated the Kanawhas Nine 13 to 2. Rix was the individual batting star, hitting a double, a triple and a home run out of four times at the bat. The Postoffice Team gathered 18 hits to the losers 4.

The winners have a few open dates and would like to book games on Sundays with teams having diamonds. Address J. J. Goliwas, Second Class Section City Postoffice, Washington, D. C.

Chicago U. Shortstop Signed by Pittsburgh

Chicago, Ill., June 11 (A.P.).—Kyle Anderson, captain of the University of Chicago baseball Team, has signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates and will report on June 20. He played stortstop with the Maroons and was a flashy fielder in addition to being a leading hitter in the Big Ten.

Workhorse Groomed For Races on Circuit

Johnstown, Pa., June 11 (A.P.).—Uncle Cad, former workhorse, recently purchased by John A. Pender, financier for $3,000, is being groomed at the Fort Miami track at Toledo, for the opening Grand Circuit meeting, June 25 to 30.

Three years ago Uncle Cad was hauling feed at the stockyards in Memphis The horse was placed in charge of Ben Whitehead at Toledo last winter and proved the fastest pacer of the early arrivals, with a mile in 2:07¼ and a quarter better than 29 seconds. Uncle Cad is a son of Twinkling Dan.

NORWEGIAN WINNER.

Chicago, June 11 (A.P.).—Otto von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, found the range for his deadly punches tonight and technically knocked out Tony Stabenau, of Buffalo, in the second round of their scheduled ten-round bout.

Charest to Captain D. C. Hotchkiss Team

Clarence M. Charest, tennis champion of Washington, will captain a team of netmen, which will represent the District of Columbia in the coming Hotchkiss tennis cup matches, to be held on the courts of the Norfolk Country Club, Norfolk, Va., June 22 and 23.

Washington racketers won the cup two years ago but lost it to Baltimore netmen last year. This year's team will be picked from the ranking players of the District in a try-out test to be held at the Edgemoot Club shortly. The date of play for the team positions has not been decided but the Washington players will be selected from the following:

Thomas J. Mangan, Columbia; Fred Doyle, Columbia; Paul Harding, Edgemoor; Gwyn King, Edgemoor; Jack Puritan, Edgemoore; W. Carter Baum, Edgemoore; Bob Considine, Edgemoor; Arthur Hellen, Chevy Chase and Dooley Mitchell, the public courts champion.

Leesburg Defeats Baker's Team, 2 to 1

Leesburgh defeated the fast Bond Bread Nine in a closely contested game, 2 to 1. Leesburgh scored a run in the eighth and ninth inning the latter tally being the margin of victory. Harrison, for the winners, and Stevens, for the losers, pitched airtight ball.

Ray Keech Arrested On Charge of Woman

Detroit, June 11 (A.P.).—Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, holder of the world's straightaway automobile racing record, was arrested here tonight on information from Atlantic City, N. J., charging him with abandonment of a minor child.

The warrant was issued on the complaint of a Miss Olivello, who police said recently instituted a $150,000 breach of promise suit against the driver in Atlantic City.

Keech announced he would fight extradition to New Jersey, and was released without bond. He will be given a preliminary hearing in court here tomorrow morning.

The race driver, who said he has been married for ten years, denied the charges, and claimed an attempt was being made to blackmail him.

Pare Wins in Defense Of Maryland Crown

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 11.—Favorites bowled over their opposition with comparative ease in the opening rounds of the Maryland State championship tennis tournament today on the grass courts of the Baltimore Country Club Emmett Pare, representing Georgetown University, and winner of the tournament last year, displayed brilliant tennis against DeFord Swann, of Baltimore, in the first round. Pare easily won the first set by a 6—1 score. He was pressed, however, in the second, which he also annexed, 6—4.

Middle Atlantic Golf Entry List Held Open

Although the entries for the Middle Atlantic golf championship, which will be held over the course of the Congressional Country Club, were scheduled to close last night, Walter R. McCallum, secretary of the Middle Atlantic Golf Association, announced that additional entries for the event would be received up to 6 o'clock tonight.

Only 75 local golfers so far have signified ther intention of taking part in the qualification round of 36 holes which will be played on Wednesday and Thursday, 18 holes each day.

Conspicuously missing among the names of the entrants is that of George G. Voigt, the present champion, who will not defend his title this year.

Pairings and starting times will be announced Wednesday morning. Those desiring to make entries for the tournament may communicate wtih the Congressional Country Club or Walter R. McCallum by telephone.

Bonds Sign Former Catholic U. Hurler

When the Bond Clothiers face the Washington Black Sox next Sunday in a twin bill at Union League Park they will throw no less than Nick Manfreda, former Catholic University pitcher, into the breach in an effort to stop the team which has defeated all local teams to date.

Manfreda, who has done little pitching to date, was signed yesterday by Pilot Earle Moser, of the Bondmen, and will take his turn in the future with Jimmy Corson and Brick Neumann, Bond hurling veterans.

Two Teams Sought For French's League

The French Insect League, which plans to start its season about June 26, needs two more teams to complete the three sections to be formed. Sixteen nines are in the fold at this writing.

Any insect team interested in joining the league register at French's Sport Store, 424 Ninth street northwest, or call Franklin 6764. The franchise fee is $5 and will be returned at the end of the schedule.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

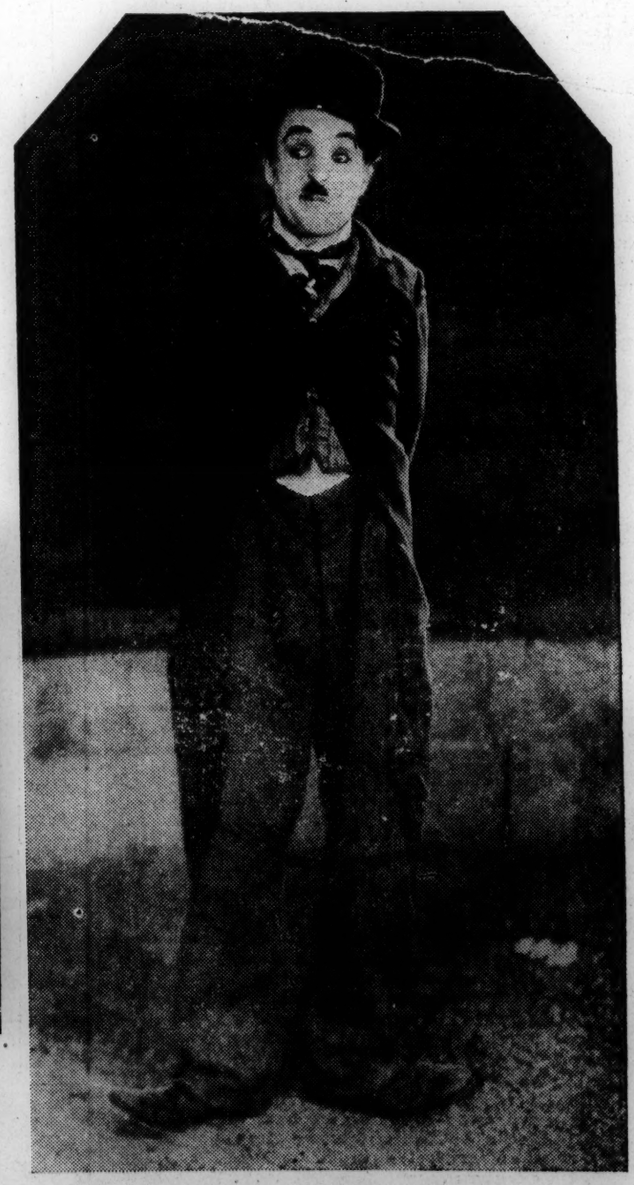

in the blindfold cigarette test

OLD GOLD

"One cigarette of the four I smoked in the blindfold test was like shooting a scene successfully after a whole series of failures. It just 'clicked' and I named it as my choice. It was OLD GOLD. Which clears up a mystery, for the supply of OLD GOLDS in my Beverly Hills home is constantly being depleted. It seems that Strongheart and Rin-tin-tin are the only motion picture actor stars who don't smoke them."

Charlie Chaplin

CHARLIE CHAPLIN . . . movie favorite the world over, in one of his best-loved pictures . . . "The Circus."

MR. CHAPLIN was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands, clearing his taste with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"

© P. Lorillard Co., Est. 1760

How does OLD GOLD do it?

WHAT'S the secret of OLD GOLD'S winning charm? The answer is very simple. Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant . . . coarse, heavy top-leaves, irritating to the throat . . . withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma . . . and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. These golden-ripe heart-leaves give Old Golds their honey-like smoothness. That's why so many famous people choose them. And that's why you too can pick them . . . even in the dark.

SMOOTHER AND BETTER—"NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD"

CONVENTION'S RADIO PROGRAM TO BE PUT ON AIR AT 11 TODAY

WRC and Columbia Networks and WGN to Broadcast Every Session.

The moment eagerly awaited by radio listeners all over the country will have arrived at 11 o'clock this morning, when station WRC, of the National Broadcasting chain, opens its broadcast of the Republican national convention direct from Convention Hall in Kansas City. WRC will broadcast today's proceedings until the close of the session. Graham McNamee and Marley Sherris will be at the microphones.

If there should be a night session tonight or any other night, according to WRC officials, the regular evening entertainment programs will be canceled. WRC has arranged to return to its regular schedule on Friday, but if the convention is in session on Friday and Saturday the entertainment will be banished in favor of the program from Kansas City.

On the Columbia chain, of which station WOR, Newark, 422 meters (710 kilocycles), is the key station, there also will be continuous broadcasts. This will probably be the easiest station of that particular network for Washingtonians to pick up. WMAQ, Chicago, will also be in this hookup, using 448 meters (670 kilocycles).

Station WGN, Chicago, 416 meters (720 kilocycles), will be the only independent station to broadcast the event. Quin Ryan, Middle West announcer, will be at the microphone, with Arthur Sears Henning, the Washington correspondent, as his assistant.

While a detailed schedule of today's happenings has not been made available, listeners are warned to stand by, it having been rumored that no less a star than Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink will sing "America," also that Sousa's Band may be on hand to play the opening march.

It has been estimated that as many as 100 broadcasting stations will be in the hookup when the hour for going on the air arrives. At any rate the country will be well covered, and virtually every inhabitant has a good chance of being within range of one or more stations.

An official of the telephone company has estimated that the National Broadcasting Co. will use 14,400 circuit miles of telephone wire and 14,400 circuit miles for its telegraph system. As each circuit mile includes two wires, this would bring the amount used by the company to 57,600 miles. The Columbia network will use 5,000 circuit miles for its program and 5,000 miles for its telegraph control, bringing its mileage up to 20,000. This makes a total of 77,600 miles of wire to link up the convention.

Both companies are putting the conventions on the air as a part of their "good-will" service, air advertisers being in no way interested. While no figure of the actual cost of the broadcast could be obtained from the National Broadcasting Co., an official of the Columbia system said that his company's hookup would cost about $10,000 a day.

Perle Barti, young American dramatic soprano, will be the guest in the Eveready Hour at 8 o'clock tonight, singing three numbers, "My Little Nest," from the "Melody of Love," and the "Villa Song," from "The Merry Widow," both by Lehar, together with the "Last Rose of Summer" in a new transcription by Hugo Frey.

Except for the impressive overture to "Pique Dame," by Tschaikowsky, the Eskimo's offerings consist of the usual medley of popular ballads and dance music, including this week the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," by Jessel.

Silas H. Strawn, president of the American Bar Association, will speak on "The Three Departments of Government" during the Fundamentals of Law period at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

The first of the series of summer concerts by the Goldman Band, under the direction of Edwin Franko Goldman, from the New York University campus, will be broadcast by Station WHAL and other stations of the blue network at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Auth's Frankfurters

MOTHER smiles with pleasure when the clock says mealtime these Summer days. No more slavery over a sizzling cook stove; lots more time to enjoy life on the cool veranda.

A supply of genuine Auth's Frankfurters in the ice box; a kettle of boiling water; drop the Frankfurters in; heat thoroughly without covering . . . and . . . presto! lunch or dinner is ready. What could possibly be simpler, more appetizing or healthier for Summer meals.

But be sure to ask for and insist on the genuine Auth's Frankfurters . . . there's a world of difference, you know.

American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation

The American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, a successor to the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, took over a number of small manufacturers doing a general electrical equipment business. In 1925, a contract was made with Brown Boveri & Co., Ltd., of Baden, Switzerland, a large manufacturer of electrical equipment, whereby the American company would receive certain rights from use of the engineering developments of the Swiss company.

The company, in addition to its electrical equipment manufacturing business, constructs both merchant and naval vessels, most of the operations being confined to the plant at Camden, N. J.

Early in 1928, plans were announced for the proposed formation of a new four-day transatlantic steamship service. Operations of the company in 1927 were not very profitable, net of $51,793 comparing with $231,040 in 1926, and $1,607,143 in 1925.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 11 (A.P.).—Stockholders of National Stamping & Enameling Co. have approved retirement of its 7 per cent preferred stock.

Profit of Otis Steel for five months this year was $1,992,335 before depreciation and depletion, against $1,162,435 in the corresponding 1927 period.

Amerada Corporation and Columbia Carbon Co. each is reported to have purchased from the Texas Corporation a one-third interest in its holdings in the potential oil pool in Lea County, N. Mex. The considerations was not ascertained. The Texas Corporation retains a one-third interest in the property with a call on oil and gasoline. All of the 15½ sections, about 9,920 acres, will be operated as a unit by the three companies, which will eliminate the drilling of many offset wells.

Autosales Corporation explained today that declaration and payment of its preferred dividend generally has been considered an annual affair, referring to a reported indefinite postponement of a directors meeting through lack of a forum. A semiannual dividend on June 1, 1927, gave the impression that a similar disbursement was due at this time. Dividends will be considered later in the year.

Fox Film Corporation has expended $30,000,000 in the last three years on its program of expansion, the company reports. It now has resources valued at $64,000,000 against $16,000,000 in 1925.

Electrographic Corporation has been organized to take over the business of Reilly Electrotype Co., Inc., the Typographic Service Co., of New York, and the Wright Co., Illustrators, Inc. The new corporation will manufacture and distribute electrotypes and stereotypes and prepare catalogues and booklets. Public offering of 7 per cent preferred stock will be made shortly.

Sales of Interstate Department Stores for five months this year rose to $7,116,790 from $6,207,170 a year ago.

Production of standard cotton cloth in May is calculated at 349,325,000 yards by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Sales were 269,845,000 yards, or 77.2 per cent of production. Shipments amounted to 326,244,000 yards, or 93.4 per cent of production. Stocks on hand May 31 were 441,508,000 yards, against 418,427,000 on May 1. Unfilled orders May 31 were 305,645,000 yards, against 362,044,000 on May 1.

Directors of the Eastern Bankers Corporation declared an extra dividend of 3 per cent and the regular 3 per cent on the common stock for the first half of 1928, payable August 1 to holders of record June 30.

nized as the most significant development on the eve of the convention, for the reason that if Vare is successful in his move to bring the Pennsylvania delegation into line for Hoover it is not unlikely that the Secretary of Commerce will be nominated on the first or second ballot.

On every side the leaders are saying tonight that the outcome of the contest over the nomination hangs on the issue of the struggle for mastery that will take place in the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation tomorrow. It is known that there are numerous Hoover adherents in the Pennsylvania delegation in addition to the fifteen from Philadelphia controlled by Vare. The Philadelphia boss is counting upon this circumstance for victory over Mellon.

Vare is now endeavoring to force the hand of Mellon as he succeeded in doing last month when his declaration in favor of Hoover compelled the Treasury Secretary to come out with an indorsement of his fellow cabinet member as the best of all avowed candidates for President.

The Treasury Secretary is to confer tomorrow with National Chairman Butler and Charles D. Hilles, New York national committeeman, on the project to draft President Coolidge, which is the common purpose of this trio of leaders. The prospect is that Mr. Mellon will not reach a definite decision on his course of action until the eve of the balloting, which is scheduled to begin next Thursday.

Mr. Mellon reached Kansas City in the middle of the afternoon in a private car attached to one of the three trains bearing the Pennsylvania delegation. There was an enormous crowd at the railway station eager to catch a glimpse of the great man who holds the balance of power between the Hooverites and the anti-Hooverites in the convention and thereby possesses the power to name the candidate who may be the next President of the United States.

Through a police lane the Secretary was ushered to a car and driven to the Hotel Muehlbach where he was installed in a suite of rooms in which he will receive visitors. For secret conferences another suite has been reserved for Mr. Mellon at the Kansas City Club.

Nephew Receives Callers.

W. L. Mellon, the Secretary's nephew, who is just retiring from the chairmanship of the Pennsylvania Republican State committee, was stationed in an anteroom to receive all callers and usher in those whom his uncle wished to see.

The first leaders admitted were Secretary of the Interior Work and Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, both ardent Hoover champions. They were closeted with Mr. Mellon for the greater part of an hour. When they emerged they looked as if they had been hearing some bad news but they were noncommittal on the subject of their conference.

Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, who accompanied the Secretary, said that in his opinion Mr. Mellon is first and foremost for the renomination of President Coolidge but will be for the nomination of Hoover if it proves that the President is unavailable.

Other leaders who talked with the Secretary this evening declared themselves of the opinion that Mr. Mellon is for Coolidge first and Hughes second but unalterably opposed to Hoover.

Lowden Not Considered.

One bit of information brought from the Mellon conference room was that Lowden is not figuring in the calculations of the Treasury Secretary, who is represented as holding that the nomination of the former Illinois Governor, protagonist to the McNary-Haugen relief movement, would be a direct repudiation of the Coolidge administration. The names of Vice President Dawes and Senator Curtis had a prominent place in the discussion in the Mellon suite. Whether they were favorably or unfavorably considered by the party dictator does not appear. The Vice President favors the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill, though opposing some of its more extreme provisions. Senator Curtis voted for the measure and later voted to sustain its veto by the President.

The big three—Mellon, Hilles and Butler—did not come together today on account of the illness of Mr. Hilles, who was confined to his bed, but expects to be out tomorrow. It was pretty thoroughly established, however, that when the three do get together it will be for the purpose of canvassing ways and means of bringing about the renomination of the President.

It is also apparent that the big three enter upon this undertaking completely in the dark concerning the attitude of Mr. Coolidge toward renomination by conscription. None of them has received from the President any hint indicating whether he would or would not allow himself to be drafted.

They hope that the President will accept if the nomination is thrust upon him, but they will not be surprised if he declines or halts the project to draft him, before its fruition, by a well-timed renunciation so definite that it can not be disregarded.

Mr. Hilles is promoting the draft-Coolidge movement with redoubled determination and contemplates that not less than 60 of New York's 90 votes will be cast for the President on the first ballot. Some of the Hoover men in the New York delegation, confident that the President will intervene to prevent his renomination, intend to vote for Coolidge on the first ballot with a view to smoking him out. They calculate that when the President shall have eliminated himself it will be a simple matter to put Hoover over on the next ballot. This course of strategy is discountenanced by James W. Good, the Hoover manager, but if it should be adopted by the New York Hooverites it might result in the Empire State voting solidly for Coolidge at the beginning.

That the Hooverites have been unable to jar the hold of Mr. Hilles, of New York, was demonstrated during the day when the delegation met and elected the New York members of the various convention committees. The element that is supporting Hilles' movement to draft Coolidge was in control, and the Hooverites were left off the principal committees. Ogden Mills had been slated by the Hooverites for member of the resolutions committee, but he didn't get to first base. Instead, the delegation chose Ambassador Houghton, who stands with Hilles for the renomination of the President. Jacob A. Livingston, an anti-Hoover man, was elected to the important credentials committee, which will sustain or overturn the decisions of the national committee seating 65 Southern delegates whose seats are contested.

Hilles Again Committeeman.

Mr. Hilles was reelected national committeeman and chosen chairman of the delegation. With the votes they themselves control and the votes controlled by their allies, the big three have it within their power to give the President more than 200 votes on any ballot. Mr. Hilles is calculating that not fewer than 60 of the New York delegation will vote for Coolidge. If Pennsylvania votes as a unit there will be 79 from that source for the President. Butler controls not less than 23 in Massachusetts. Then there are 17 in Connecticut, 9 in Delaware, 11 in Vermont, 16 in Georgia, a total of 222.

"If Coolidge is given 200 votes on any ballot and does not intervene to halt the proceedings he will be renominated on the next ballot," said one of the corn belt leaders.

The Coolidge drafters include not only Republicans who are convinced that the President is the only candidate who can assure the party victory next November, but Republicans who are using the draft-Coolidge movement as a weapon for beating Hoover. Those of the latter persuasion figure it out that if the renomination of the President can be brought about and Mr. Coolidge then declines, the Hoover strength will have been so disintegrated that it never can be reassembled.

Then Dark Horse Would Appear.

Then Vice President Dawes or some other dark horse would be trotted out.

Senator Borah warned the Idaho delegation at its first meeting today against falling in with the movement to draft the President.

"As I see it there are only two men in the race," he said. "One is probably in without his consent—President Coolidge. The other is Secretary Hoover. As for President Coolidge, I am confident he will not run and I am inclined to believe he will ask that no further votes be cast for him if any are cast for him on the first ballot. But should we go ahead and name him and he should decline, then the party would be left to make the campaign with the second choice candidate."

Temporary Convention Officers Are Announced

Secretary—Lafayette B. Gleason, New York.

Chief assistant secretary—C. M. Harger, Kansas.

Assistant secretaries—P. B. Baldridge, Iowa; Frank B. Stewart, Arizona; Clarence G. Willard, Connecticut; Frances M. Kauperl.

Senator Watson Winner In Factional Struggle

Kansas City, Mo., June 11.—Senator James E. Watson's forces triumphed in a sharp factional struggle for control of the Indiana delegation at the organization caucus of the Hoosiers here tonight.

Burt Thurman, of New Albany, Watson's campaign manager, was elected national committeeman receiving 20 votes on the final ballot. His chief opponent was Henry W. Marshall, Lafayette publisher, who received six. The other seven were scattered.

ILLNESS OF MRS. COOLIDGE HALTS PRESIDENT'S VACATION PLANS

the business organization of the Government.

The indisposition from which Mrs. Coolidge is suffering may be traced back several months to a cold incurred early in February, just previous to her first visit to the sickbed of her mother in Northampton. There was a recurrence in March, from which it is believed that she has never fully recovered.

Although no time of departure was indicated in the announcement of postponement, it was made clear that the present arrangements will hold, and that preparations will be made for laeving Washington at the earliest possible moment, pending the recovery of Mrs. Coolidge.

The delay gave rise to speculation as to whether or not the President would make the trip to Bolling Field this morning to welcome Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexico City-to-Washington flier, in reciprocation of the courtesy paid Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by President Calles, of Mexico, following his good-will hop to the southern capital last December.

Clark Will Make Trip.

The clerical staff retained to accompany President Coolidge to Cedar Island Lodge, on the Brule River, was larger than any that has attended him in the past. In addition, Edward T. Clark, private secretary to the President, had planned to travel as far as Wisconsin with the Chief Executive, returning to Washington later to take charge of the staff remaining at the White House throughout the summer.

Others in the official retinue were to be Rudolph Forster, executive clerk of the White House, and "Pat" McKenna, doorkeeper of the executive offices. A delegation of Secret Service men, a score of newspaper reporters and photographers and an equal number of household employes were to complete the party of 70.

Radio Set on Coolidge Car.

Household accessories, personal belongings and office files were to constitute the greater part of the luggage. These were not to be extensive, as the Cedar Island lodge will be turned over to the White House party completely furnished. Special attention had been given to fishing tackle, in anticipation of angling excursions on the lakes and trout-laden streams of Wisconsin.

In order that the President might follow closely all developments at the Kansas City convention, a special radio set, equipped for reception in transit, had been installed in his car. In addition, arrangements had been made for him to receive telegrams and dispatches at stations along the route, where the train was to stop for fuel and provisions.

It was learned that special telegraph and telephone wires had been installed leading into Superior, Wis., where the executive offices are to be located. Extensions have also been made to the summer White House on Cedar Island, 28 miles away.

President Stays at Desk.

Despite the preparations that went on apace all day for his intended departure last night, President Coolidge remained at his desk the greater part of the morning and afternoon. Mrs. Coolidge had elected to supervise the final household arrangements.

It was indicated at the White House last night that the opening of the Republican party convention in Kansas City today will influence in no way the resumption of plans for departure. These will depend entirely on the improvement of Mrs. Coolidge's condition, and her ability to stand the wear and tear of the journey.

BENSON, MADE LL. D. BY GEORGETOWN U., URGES DISCIPLINE

Citizens Losing Sense of Responsibility, Admiral Says at Commencement.

HONORARY DEGREE FOR BISHOP SHAHAN

469 Are Graduated by Schools at Exercises Completing Present Year.

There is an absence of self-discipline, a waning of the sense of responsibility on the part of the citizenship of the country that is more dangerous than the menace of external foes, Rear Admiral William S. Benson, former member of the Shipping Board, declared yesterday afternoon in delivering the address to the 469 graduates of Georgetown University at its 129th commencement exercises in Gaston Hall.

Admiral Benson, upon whom the university conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws in recognition of 51 years of public service, warned that "forces are laboring to undermine the foundation of the Nation—the home," and further deplored the intolerance of spirit which he declared to be an evidence of national weakness. "Naturally civil life does not require milit discipline," he added, "but it does requre self discipline. In the long run it is not the external enemies that will destroy the Nation, but undependable, undisciplined citizens."

He stressed the need of strengthening the moral bulwark of the Nation and declared that the most important lesson that the schools can teach is that "we must be ready at all times to give an account of ourselves."

Degree for Bishop Shahan.

President Charles W. Lyons, S. J., of Georgetown, who presided at the exercises, conferred upon Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, retiring rector of Catholic University, the university's highest academic award, that of doctor of canon and civil law, which Georgetown has bestowed previously on only three occasions. He likewise conferred upon Dr. Thomas F. Lowe, of the Georgetown medical faculty, the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Bishop Shahan, who received an ovation, expressed his appreciation of the honor bestowed upon him.

Prevented by the inclement weather from holding the exercises outdoors, President Lyons presented the diplomas to the seniors of the college, medical and dental schools in Gaston Hall, while the law and foreign service graduates met with their faculties in Ryan Hall to receive their diplomas separately from the Rev. John A. Dixon, S. J., acting vice president of the university. Amplifiers carried the addresses to those graduates.

In his introductory address to the graduates, President Lyons declared "we are living in a thoughtless age," and deplored the tendency of "good men teaching untrue doctrines" which he declared to be the "greatest evil of the world today." President Lyons paid a tribute to Bishop Shahan as a churchman and educator, and declared that Georgetown was "happy to have him among its alumni."

High Honors for Two.

Conspicuous among the graduates were William K. Wimsatt, jr., District of Columbia senior at the college, and Andrei Popovici, secretary of the Roumanian Legation, a student at the foreign service school. Mr. Popovici received the degree of doctor of philosophy in foreign service and was greeted by many of his friends in the Diplomatic Corps who attended. Mr. Wimsatt had the distinction of winning more prizes than any other college senior, receiving four medals and awards. These were the Lynch Pendergast medal for the best essay on a topic of English literature, his subject being "Newman, Prince of English Stylists;" the Ryan medal for highest standing in psychology, natural theology and ethics; the Quicksall medal for the best oral examination in Shakespeare's plays and first prize for ethics.

Other prizes awarded to honor college seniors were the Mallory medal for the best constitutional essay, awarded to Joseph E. Green, topic, "The Fifteenth Amendment"; Merrick debating medal awarded to Joseph E. Green; Hamilton Philodemic medal for extempore debates, awarded to Al Philip Kane, of the District of Columbia; second prize in ethics to Joseph D. Porter and third prize to Samuel Livingston.

Medical school prizes were awarded as follows: Kober medal for hygiene, Bernard J. Gioffre; Baker medal for anatomy, Eurelio Giordano; R. O. T. C. prize in military science to Arestes Russo.

Prizes Are Awarded.

Law school prizes awarded were: Cash prize of $75 offered by faculty to senior of morning section maintaining best average in examination and recitations during the year, to John Ford Beacher, general average, 90.66; prize of $40 for next best average in morning section, to Edward Ledwidge Wright, 88.44 per cent; prize of $75 to senior of afternoon section with best average in examinations and recitations, Francis Calvert Brooke, 90.1 per cent; prize of $40 for next best average to Frank Walsh Glenn, 89.3 per cent; four prizes of $25 each offered by faculty to winners of four preliminary debates, to James Thomas Finlen, Frederick Walter Wakefield, jr., William Vallie Whittington and Edward Ledwidge Wright; prize of $50 for the best debate among the four preliminary winners, to James Thomas Finlen; prize offered by dean George E. Hamilton for best paper on Legal Ethics, to Edward Ledwidge Wright; prize of $40 by faculty for best graduation thesis, awarded by a committee of the District of Columbia bar to James Dewey Cunningham, with honorable mention to Harry Saidman.

School of Foreign Service prizes awarded were: Delta Sigma Pi gold scholarship key offered by Nu Chapter to senior who, upon graduation, attained highest scholarship throughout the entire course, to Laurence Champlin Frank; W. Coleman Nevils gold medal for the highest marks in the course on Foreign Relations of the United States, to Leon E. Dostert, of Longwy, France; the Dr. James Brown Scott prize for the best paper in the course on International Law, to John Matthias Grewen.

The graduates of the various departments were presented by the following: The Rev. Robert A. Parsons, S. J., dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; George E. Hamilton, dean of the School of Law; Dr. George M. Kober, dean of the School of Medicine; Dr. William N. Cogan, U. S. N., retired, School of Dentistry, and Dr. William F. Notz, School of Foreign Service.

Flier Is Commended For Saving Airplane

Capt. Robert E. Ellis, Air Corps Reserve, now on active duty as executive personnel officer at Bolling Field, was commended yesterday by Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of Air Corps, for bringing his burning plane safely to earth, extinguishing the flames and saving the Government thousands of dollars which would have been lost had he jumped from the plane with his parachute.

The accident occurred above Green Springs, W. Va. May 23, while Capt. Ellis was flying a pursuit plane from Cumberland, Md., to Bolling Field. At a height of 2,500 feet flames shot out from the carburetor from a gasoline fire. Capt. Ellis brought his burning plane to land and put out the blaze with a fire extinguisher.

NURSE SUES HOSPITAL HEADS TO GET DIPLOMA

Refused Georgetown U. Certificate for Not Attending Prom, Says Miss McNeil.

UNIVERSITY GIVES REPLY

Miss Philomena McNeil, daughter of Alexander McNeil, of 1355 Monroe street northeast, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against the authorities of Georgetown College and Georgetown University Hospital to compel them to issue her a diploma as a graduate nurse. Named as defendants are the Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of the college; the Rev Walter J. Summers, S. J., regent; Sister Joanilla, superintendent of nurses; president and directors of Georgetown College, Inc., and Georgetown University Hospital, Inc.

Through Attorneys McNeil & Maher the nurse says she is entitled to a diploma by reason of the fact that she has completed her course of training and she had been led to believe she would be graduated. She even was required to go through a rehearsal two days before the graduation ceremonies, she declares, and was not given the slightest intimation she would be denied a diploma.

Following the rehearsal, it is alleged Sister Joanilla assigned the nurse to the all-night shift and the next day it is alleged, she was taken to task for not attending the annual prom, which was held the same evening she was working, at the Congressional Country Club. The nurse was told, she says that her failure to attend the prom would result in her not receiving a diploma and that she would be denied graduation with her class.

Because of a previous unpleasant experience at a prom, the nurse says she announced shortly before the night of May 29 that she would not attend.

The authorities named defendant are now trying to make it appear that she was disobedient and insubordinate by reason of her failure to attend the prom, she says, and are giving this as a reason for refusing her a diploma.

The following statement was authorized from Georgetown University yesterday in connection with the suit:

"The authorities of Georgetown University Hospital state that every consideration has been shown Miss McNeil and that their offers to adjust this matter have been unanswered so far by the parties concerned. They also state that attendance at the dance was in no sense obligatory on the part of Miss McNeil and that her failure to attend the dance was not the reason for the suspension of her graduation."
